BATTLE IN HILLS NEAR ROME

U. S. Bombers Land in Russia After Raiding Romania

YANKS SEIZE 2 KEY FORTS; FAN OUT IN ALBANS

ALLIED HDQ., NAPLES, June 2 (AP).—American armored and infantry forces smashed thru the key German strongholds of Valmontone and Velletri in the Alban hills before Rome today, shattering the enemy's last ditch defenses.

Valmontone, 20 air line miles from Rome on the Via Casilina [highway 6], main escape route for the German 10th army retreating from the Hitler line, and Velletri, 18 miles southeast of the capital, on the Appian way [highway 7], fell after days of vicious assault and fierce resistance.

Early tonight fighting was reported still in progress as Lt. Gen. Mark W. Clark's forces continued to pound back crack Nazi units. The allies held three miles of the Via Casilina.

Tighten Noose on Nazis.

Capture of Valmontone and severance of the Via Casilina drew the allied sack tighter on the remnants of what once were 12 German divisions holding the Gustav and Hitler lines. Less than 18 miles separated Clark's troops from Canadian forces who pounded up the Via Casilina from the south and seized Ferentino. Caught between the two allied wings, the battered Nazi forces were streaming northward on several secondary roads toward the temporary safety of a new defense line hinged on Avezzano. Northeast of Frosinone, allied forces also entered the town of Veroli, cutting another potential back door for the Nazi retreat, and New Zealand units pushed on beyond Sora.

It was disclosed that the crack American 1st armored division, under Maj. Gen. Ernest N. Harmon, and other strong American reënforcements had been thrown into the battle now raging within sight of Rome. The 1st armored division played a conspicuous part in the Tunisian victory last year.

Tonight a front dispatch reported 5th army vanguards were fanning out in a wide arc from the northern Alban hills above Velletri to an area between the Via Casilina and the Via Tiburtina [highway 5].

20,000 Nazis Captured.

One dispatch from the front said all these advances foreshadowed the beginning of the end of the battle for Rome.

German prisoners captured since the allied offensive began May 11 approached the 20,000 mark.

Nazi commanders threw more and more troops into the battle raging in the storied Alban hills immediately before the Eternal City, but these were offset by reënforcements of American and French divisions made available to Gen. Clark by the collapse of enemy resistance between Terracina and Littoria in the coastal sector last week.

These now veteran troops—including two draft divisions—captured Castelforte and other strong points of the Gustav and Hitler lines near the coast, but were squeezed out of the fighting by the German retreat to the Via Casilina.

Battle on Monte Artemisio.

Today's bulletin said American infantrymen fighting on Monte Artemisio, 2,600 foot peak two miles northwest of Velletri, were meeting "very obstinate opposition." Lariano, a highway village midway between Velletri and Valmontone, fell to other American troops. Lanuvio and Campoleone still were in Nazi hands.

For the second straight day a number of Nazi fighter planes appeared over the battlefield, diving to strafe allied shock troops.

Allied warships added their salvos to the struggle as they shelled enemy gun positions opposing the British advance northward from Ardea in the coastal sector.

The busy allied air force destroyed another 100 German transport vehicles, bringing to more than 4,800 the number they have wiped out or damaged since the offensive began.

VELLETRI—A NEW TORN MONUMENT TO AXIS FLIGHT

BY WILLIAM STRAND.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

VELLETRI, Italy, June 2.—The strategic town of Velletri on the Appian way, highway 7, stands today as another bomb shattered, shell torn monument to the German retreat.

Nearly all buildings are roofless; jagged walls stare vacantly at the sky; streets are littered with rubble and piled high with broken furnishings, and the few persons who have returned from the hills stand in little clusters looking dumbly toward the wreckage of their homes.

The first American units began moving into Velletri late last night after Lt. Gen. Mark W. Clark's 5th army forces stormed their way up the commanding peaks on either side of the town, cutting off the escape of the enemy garrison. When we entered this morning fighting was still going on at the farthest edges, while other units pressed on beyond the town.

Germans Shell Town.

From the Alban hills behind the town also could be heard sporadic rifle fire, with the ping of a sharpshooter's bullet occasionally passing overhead. This morning, German artillery, taking up where the American guns left off yesterday, began shelling this former strong point in their line and the highways leading into it.

The 5th army's penetration into Velletri, anchor of the enemy's elaborate network of defenses guarding the approaches to Rome, came as the American troops' right flank took Valmontone, and cut the Via Casilina, highway 6.

The final assault on Velletri was made down a road branching off highway 7, but not until the town was outflanked from the Alban hills. This represents a change from the pure frontal assaults that marked the winter fighting against such famed German strongholds as San Pietro and San Vittore, which were taken at heavy cost by head-on infantry drives.

Many Civilians Killed.

This does not mean that Velletri was taken without loss. On the way into the town we passed a three-quarter ton truck piled high with the bodies of American dead. Last night the Germans counter-attacked twice—once at the southern edge of the town, once in the hills beyond the town—and their air force bombed and strafed the surrounding roads.

Today the morning sun raised the stench of the dead along the narrow, battered streets. A Catholic priest, who was going among the American soldiers and greeting them in broken English, explained that many civilians had been killed in the bombings and shellings.

Just outside the town we passed a cemetery of German dead. Their rearguard retreat was so rapid that they had had time to thrust only rude unpainted crosses over little piles of dirt. The highways were littered with their equipment, including tanks and guns, bombed and strafed out of action.

SECRET BASES ARE SET UP FOR SHUTTLE BLOWS

BY EDDY GILMORE.

A U. S. AIR BASE SOMEWHERE IN RUSSIA, June 2 (AP).—A large force of American Flying Fortresses escorted by American and Russian fighters bombed Russian-selected targets in Romania today and continued eastward to land at new, secret bases in the soviet union, inaugurating a shuttle bombing program of historic military significance.

The new eastern command of the United States strategic air forces [Ecussa] announced one bomber and one fighter were lost, tho enemy opposition was slight.

The Red air force aided the raiders by attacking German airdromes along the route and providing support thruout the area.

[Nearly 3,000 American planes raid targets in Romania, Hungary, and France. Details on page 5.]

May Raid from Four Fronts.

The new shuttle-bombing program lays open the farthest corners of German-controlled territory to attacks by allied bombers from Britain, Italy, North Africa and Russia. [The Americans' place of departure was not specified, but apparently in this instance it was from Italy.]

This dream of American military men which came true found not one, but many American air bases on Russian soil. Leaving the smashed freight yards of a Romanian city behind them, the American flyers swept down in waves on the fields in Russia.

Soviet and American ground crews who worked for months to establish the bases raced out to greet the first American planes.

Maj. Gen. John R. Deane, head of the United States military mission to Russia, described it as "a brief but happy celebration before servicing the aircraft with fuel and ammunition for another call on the axis en route to their home bases in England, Italy, and Africa."

Crews Hail Each Other.

Unable to speak Russian, the American airmen gaily hailed the Russians as "Ivan." The grinning soviet mechanics replied jovially.

The bombers were preceded by American photographic reconnaissance planes, one of which was piloted by Col. Paul T. Cullen.

High American and Russian officials and military men witnessed the arrivals, vast significance of which was pointed out by Gen. Deane, who said:

"This is shuttle bombing—bombing that makes vulnerable all the industrial facilities of eastern Germany—bombing that can be carried out when weather prohibits returning to British or Mediterranean bases—and bombing that will require redistribution of the German fighter defenses."

Plan Created by Arnold.

The idea for the Russian bases was credited to Gen. H. H. Arnold, commander of American army air forces. It took fruit during the Moscow conference of Secretary of State Hull last October and subsequently was discussed at the Teheran conference of President Roosevelt, Premier Stalin, and Prime Minister Churchill. The tremendous task of creating, manning and supplying the bases got under way in February.

Gen. Deane handled the discussions with soviet military authorities while United States Ambassador W. Averell Harriman directed the diplomatic end.

U. S. Nurses to Arrive Soon.

Maj. Gen. Frederick L. Anderson, deputy commander of the United States strategic air force in England, and his chief of staff, Brig. Gen. Theodore Curtis, and Col. Elliott Roosevelt, son of the President, visited Russia in preparation for establishing the shuttle service.

Now the bases are fully equipped with spare parts, planes, food, fuel, medical supplies, transport, and field hospitals. American doctors and medical corps men are on hand and American nurses are expected soon.

FISHING? WHO'S GOING FISHING?

OPA AGENT RIDES ON HIS EVIDENCE

Takes Pleasure Trip on Illegal Gas.

Peoria, Ill., June 2 [Special].—An investigator for the office of price administration testified today at a suspension hearing for a filling station operator that he made an unlawful purchase of gasoline and then used the fuel for pleasure driving and private business travel.

The testimony was given by Atty. Robert McNeil of Joliet, district chief rent attorney and former assistant legal investigator, who appeared at the suspension hearing brought by the OPA against C. W. Hicks, a gasoline station operator.

Used T Coupon.

McNeil said he drove into a station operated by Hicks at Pekin last October, used a T [truck] coupon to purchase five gallons of gasoline for his automobile, and then drove to Mason City, Ill., on a pleasure and personal business trip.

He said he had been directed by Glen Lackey, former regional OPA director, to go to the station operated by Hicks to make the unlawful purchase.

The hearing is being held before OPA Commissioner John Allen of Chicago.

McNeil's testimony brought an attack on New Deal practices from Atty. John E. Cassidy of Peoria, former Democratic attorney general for Illinois, who is counsel for Hicks.

"Ashamed of Government."

"I am ashamed of my government to have an appointee of a governmental agency sit before this court and tell such a story," Cassidy asserted over the objections of OPA attorneys and the commissioner.

"You are addressing the audience and not the commissioner," Allen told Cassidy, "and I want the record to show that."

"For the sake of the record, I want it noted that I am addressing the entire American public!" retorted Cassidy.

Burglars Get 2 Million Haul in Home of Widow

New Rochelle, N. Y., June 2 (AP).—Mrs. Robert Edwards, widow of a Norwalk, Conn., manufacturer, lost certificates for stock which she valued at $1,808,000, certificates for $20,000 in war bonds, and $3,000 in jewelry when her home was burglarized Wednesday, New Rochelle police reported today. In listing the loss, police said that 17,500 shares of stock valued at $100 a share were unregistered and that Mrs. Edwards did not have its serial numbers.

Carloads of Army Shoes Made Into Fertilizer, House Is Told

BY LAURENCE BURD.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., June 2.—Carloads of army shoes in good condition are being sold for scrap and ground into fertilizer while the administration is spending millions of dollars for new shoes to send abroad as part of its global relief plan, Rep. Calvin Johnson [R., Ill.], disclosed today.

Rep. Calvin Johnson.

The disclosure was made to house members during debate on a proposed 3 billion 920 million dollar appropriation for lend-lease and the united nations rehabilitation and relief administration for the 1945 fiscal year. The sum was recommended to the house today by the appropriations committee.

Waste Called Indefensible.

Johnson told the house the turning of good shoes into fertilizer at a time when footwear is rationed at home and being bought for distribution abroad is indefensible, and typical of New Deal waste and inefficiency.

The congressman said he has received a letter from the Smith-Rowland company, fertilizer manufacturers, of Granite City, Ill., reporting the concern has received the army shoes in open coal cars. The company, he explained, has perfected a process for making fertilizer from leather and rubber.

Exhibiting to his colleagues a pair of the army shoes, sent by the company, Johnson noted they were recently half-soled and equipped with new rubber heels.

Repaired Before Being Scrapped.

"It appears," he said, "that these shoes are newly repaired before they are sold for scrap. At the same time, we find UNRRA is asking congress for 215 million dollars to buy shoes and other apparel for destitute people in Europe, and the army is asking additional millions for the same purpose.

"Why can't they send these shoes instead of grinding them up? I could use a pair of them myself."

Rep. Rabaut [D., Mich.] said Johnson's account was a "far reaching and strong indictment," and urged that the army be asked to explain it. Rep. Lambertson [R., Kan.] declared he could not "conceive of any defense of this wastefulness."

Returns Held Dubious.

Johnson also charged that the official 2 billion dollar figure for reverse lend-lease aid to the United States, in return for 24 billions contributed by this country, includes some strange and highly dubious items.

For example, he said, our troops stationed in French New Caledonia found it necessary to cut down trees to build a base for offensive operations against the Japanese. Now, he continued, we have been charged $18 apiece for these trees under reverse lend-lease. Similarly, Johnson said, we have been charged $8 apiece for trees cut down in British Samoa as part of our military operations to aid the British. "That's the type of reverse lend-lease we are getting," the congressman told the house.

Shipments of farm machinery abroad while our farmers are unable to fill their own needs were criticized by Representatives Vursell [R., Ill.] and Gross [R., Pa.]

The appropriation bill, which is scheduled to reach a vote tomorrow or Monday, allots 3 billion 920 million dollars for the year starting July 1 to the foreign economic administration, which has charge of all economic operations abroad.

Of the total, approximately 3¼ billions is for lend-lease, which will thus have 6¼ billions for the next year, including present unexpended balances. UNRRA would get 450 millions under the bill, plus 350 millions to be transferred from the lend-lease allotment if needed, or a total of 800 millions.

Continue Rationing

New York, June 2 (AP).—Shoe rationing will continue in this country until there is a marked improvement in the supply situation, the war production board, office of civilian requirements, and the office of price administration announced in a joint statement today. OPA figures indicated a decline of more than 53 million pairs in 1943, and OCR's latest estimates of 1944 production predicted a further decline of up to 25 million pairs. That, it was said, would bring the total supply of shoes in the nation's stores to the lowest point in years.

Save Republic! Indiana G.O.P. Urges Voters

BY ARTHUR EVANS.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Indianapolis, Ind., June 2.—In keynote speeches and platform at their state convention here today, Indiana Republicans loudly echoed the nationalist sentiment of the midwest.

Homer E. Capehart.

The theme of the proceedings was that America must coöperate fully with other nations to preserve peace in the post-war world, but without any relinquishment of American sovereignty and with full protection of its interests. The convention insisted that the Constitution, Bill of Rights, and Declaration of Independence must be adhered to.

Reject Plea for Dewey.

An effort to instruct the delegates to the Chicago convention for Gov. Dewey of New York was voted down with a voice vote. Rep. Gerald Landis offered a resolution that these delegates at large be instructed to vote for Dewey and that district delegates be recommended to support him.

Frederick E. Schortemeier, a supporter of Gov. Bricker of Ohio, moved to table this, which was done. It appears tonight that the 29 Indiana delegates are apparently divided almost equally between Dewey and Bricker in their leanings.

At the peace table, when the war is completely won, the keynoters said, the United States should be represented by men who have the interests of America at heart. One-worlders, union-nowers, and the seaboard internationalist clique were brushed aside.

Chief keynoter was Rep. Charles A. Halleck. He set a strong midwest pace for the coast to coast keynoters at the Republican national convention at Chicago June 26.

"Our chief occupation today is to win the war, but only second to that purpose is to see to it that we do not lose our republic at home." Hoosier sentiment welled up in a burst of applause at this. Halleck said America must not be turned into the almshouse for the world.

Call to Preserve America.

Sen. Willis played in the same key. "We must speak with a clear voice," he said, "that we must have clear thinking, hónest Americans at the peace table who have the interests of Americans at heart. We have a clear call to preserve America as Americans."

The grand old man of Indiana, James Eli Watson, former senator, spoke in similar vein.

"What you folks ought to do," he shouted "is to take Charley Halleck's speech and make it the Republican national platform."

Another keynoter, Hobart Creighton, permanent chairman and speaker of the house, poured it on the New Deal for making state governments dependent on the federal handouts.

Post-War Plank.

A post-war plank that emphasizes that coöperation with other nations to preserve peace must be consistent with America's welfare as sovereign nation was nailed into the platform.

The resolutions as read by Chairman George L. Denny were adopted unanimously. The post-war relations plank was unchanged from the digest in today's TRIBUNE.

Halleck in his keynote speech reminded the delegates he was Indi-

Doubts President's 'Nationalism.'

BY ARTHUR SEARS HENNING.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., June 2.—Rep. Hoffman [R., Mich.], a leading nationalist in congress, today asserted in the house that President Roosevelt has begun to espouse nationalist doctrines in the hope of winning the support of the nationalist middle west, without which he cannot be reëlected. Hoffman spoke during debate on a measure to provide funds for the united nations relief and rehabilitation administration.

Rep. Hoffman.

The congressman doubted, however, that the President's assurance that his peace plan involves no surrender of sovereignty can be trusted any more than the Roosevelt 1940 "again and again and again" pledge that "your boys are not going to be sent into any foreign wars." None of the administration leaders arose to defend the President.

Activities Recalled.

Hoffman began by recalling the activities in 1942 of World Fellowship, Inc., to create a world federation and of Supreme Court Justice Roberts, Secretary of the Interior Ickes, Gardner Cowles Jr., John Foster Dulles, Gov. Dewey's internationalist mentor, and others in Federal Union, Inc., for a "super United States of the world." He recalled that the loss of American sovereignty inherent in these projects impelled him to deliver his famous speech "Don't Haul Down the Stars and Stripes."

"New Deal, pink and Red publications; the advocates of a surrender of our independence, of the hauling down of our flag, of the substitution for our form of government of an international government, where we would be under the control of foreign nations; those who have advocated the hauling down of the Stars and Stripes and the running up in its place of an international flag, immediately began a smirch campaign and ever since, by innuendo, have charged me and all of those who believe in America, in constitutional government, in our ability to take care of ourselves as a nation, with disloyalty and a lack of patriotism," said Hoffman.

Destruction of Freedom.

"Intent upon the remaking of America, upon the destruction of freedom, independence, and of progress thru individual effort; seemingly determined to dissipate our natural resources and our man power for the benefit of other peoples and other nations, greedy, selfish, ambitious politicians carried on the campaign of vilification and false charges thru which they sought to create the opinion that all those who believed that the interests of this country in its dealings with other nations should be given first consideration were guilty not only of reprehensible conduct but were not good citizens.

"They sought, and for a time successfully, to pin the badge of disloyalty upon all isolationists. An isolationist in Russia is one who upholds the government of Stalin. In Great Britain an isolationist is one who follows the leadership of Churchill.

"The internationalists have preached, and they would have you believe, that here in America one who places the interest of his own country above that of all other countries is a traitor to his own country.

One Thought for Stalin.

"Stalin has let the whole world know that, in his mind, in his heart, he has but one thought, and that is the advancement and the protection of his homeland—Russia.

"Churchill has told us in no uncertain terms that his every word, his every thought, his every act, will be given to the preservation of the British empire.

"But here in America, the cradle of liberty, the citadel of freedom, those who thought, who spoke, who acted, for the preservation of the institutions which have preserved liberty, the internationalists said, were in some way guilty of disloyalty, were lacking in patriotism, because they did not support the New Deal; because they insisted that, in our dealings with other nations, we should not enslave our own people."

Vicious Charges.

"But the elections thruout the country, and especially the more recent ones in Wisconsin and Illinois, disclosed to the politicians that the great midwest, the breadbasket of the country; the people who, without hesitation, have paid taxes, bought bonds and sent their loved ones to fight and die on foreign soil—when day by day it becomes more and more evident that Russia and Great Britain do not agree as to the objectives of this war, or the terms of the peace; when it is apparent that there is no such thing as an enduring world peace—are determined that we, like Stalin and Churchill speaking for their countries, insist that the homeland come first," said Hoffman.

Sensing of Determination.

"The astute politician in the White House, seeking a fourth term, has sensed this determination. He realizes that, in the coming election, he cannot be successful unless he can secure the votes of the midwest. And so it was the other day that, speaking at his press conference, he, in substance, adopted the declaration of foreign policy of the Republicans who met last summer in conference at Mackinac island.

"He declared at that press conference that, while we would cooperate with other nations in the plans for an enduring peace, we would not at any time surrender any portion of our sovereignty. Franklin Delano Roosevelt, the candidate for a fourth term, has now openly again become an isolationist, a nationalist."

And where, Hoffman demanded amid the laughter of his colleagues, "does that leave the Marshall Field press?"

"Will Field's Chicago paper," the congressman continued, "now berate Mr. Roosevelt, its idol, its fourth term candidate, for being an isolationist as it did our colleague Mr. Day [R., Ill.] before the last election? Will the New Republic brand the President a traitor as it did isolationist members of congress?"

His Past Performances.

Hoffman said the current promise by the President that our sovereignty shall not be impaired means little or nothing in view of his past performances and political methods.

"He talked like an isolationist, like a nationalist, long before he was elected President," said the congressman. "Then, apparently because of political expediency, he became an internationalist. Learning now that THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE, that the Washington Times-Herald, and the New York Daily News, in their advocacy of America first, of adherence to our Declaration of Independence, of loyalty to constitutional government, have but expressed the thought of the people of the midwest, the President is once more trimming his sails to meet that sentiment in the hope that it will carry him into a fourth term in the White House."

Tribute to Bricker.

After paying a tribute to Gov. Bricker's nationalism, Hoffman said that the people "want to know, and they have the right to know, whether the next President of the United States will preserve constitutional government; will respect the independence of the individual citizen here at home, and whether, when dealing with foreign nations, he will at all times think first and give adherence to the interests of our own country, our own people."

Seeking wider congressional support of the Roosevelt peace plan, Secretary of State Hull submitted an outline of the project today to a bi-partisan committee of the house, similar to the senate committee with which he has had conversations.

The house members were Speaker Rayburn [D., Tex.], Chairman Bloom [D., N. Y.] of the foreign affairs committee, Majority Leader McCormack [D., Mass.], Majority Whip Ramspeck [D., Ga.], Minority Leader Martin [R., Mass.], and Reps. Eaton [R., N. J.] and Arends [R., Ill.].

CALLS NEW DEAL DEADLY IMAGE OF NAZI STATE

Time to Fight Now, Rep. Short Says.

BY THOMAS MORROW.

Rep. Short [R., Mo.] warned yesterday of the deadly parallel between national socialism and New Dealism, lashed at burocrats, labor racketeers, and asserted the time has come "to take your shirts off and fight like hell to save the country."

"We have now reached the point where it is reformation or revolution," Short told members of the Executive club in the Hotel Sherman. "If this be treason, make the most of it. We will not reach that point tomorrow, we have reached it now."

Cites Hitler Worship.

Punctuating his speech with arm waving gestures, the fiery Missourian, who removed his coat as he warmed to his task, told his audience that Hitler had not reached power as a tyrant. Hitler, he asserted, became ruler thru being "worshipped and idolized like some other men in high places are idolized."

Short offered the term national socialism to cover the governments established after the last war. He enumerated Communism in Russia, Nazism in Germany, and Fascism in Italy, and said New Dealism had taken a foothold in the United States.

He listed as the first step in establishing this form of government the necessity of making the masses feel utter hopelessness and inability to meet and solve their own problems. Then, he continued, the next move is to abolish constitutional guarantees.

Attacks By Abuse.

"This attack is made," he said, "thru ridicule, abuse, and by saying these guarantees are outmoded, of the horse and buggy era. We have seen private property seized, the army sent to a Chicago plant to forcibly throw out the president.

"One thing stands between the United States and tyranny today. That is congress. It saw the significance and immediately brought into being investigating committees."

Another step toward national socialism, the speaker said, is undermining the faith of the people in the lawyers and the courts. He referred to the phrase used by New Dealers to describe the Supreme court—"the nine old men."

"Thomas Jefferson knew that unless there was frequent rotation of the Presidency it would degenerate into an inheritance. He knew that continued tenure would allow the executive to dominate the judiciary.

"Seven of the Supreme court justices have been appointed by President Roosevelt, and 70 per cent of the federal judiciary. The Supreme court of the United States has disdained precedent, disregarded tradition, scorned experience, overruled the greatest students of jurisprudence, and the justices have even contradicted themselves."

4TH TERM? THEY DON'T SPEAK OF IT IN MARYLAND

Baltimore, Md., June 2 (AP).—The proposed fourth term candidacy of President Roosevelt went without a single mention today as the Maryland state Democratic convention named an uninstructed delegation of 24 to the national convention in Chicago July 19. Each delegate will have three-fourths of a vote.

The convention could have sent the delegation instructed for Roosevelt or any other candidate, including a native son, since there was no mandate from the voters in the recent primary election.

Even Speaker Rayburn [D., Tex.], the keynote speaker, avoided mention of the fourth term issue.

ana's sole Republican representative when first elected in 1935 and now has eight Republican colleagues from the state.

He declared that in its Mackinac charter the G. O. P. is the only party which has announced a foreign policy and a post-war plan.

He emphasized the need at the peace table of protecting American interests and sovereignty, as well as restoring order and working for permanent peace.

"We spoke at Mackinac," he said. "We there adopted a set of principles of which these were the three outstanding:

1. "We must preserve and protect all our national interests.

2. "We must aid in restoring order and decent living in a distressed world.

3. "We must do our full share in a program for permanent peace among nations."

The Reublican party will see to it that in winning the war we do not lose the peace, Halleck said.

Not an Alms House.

"The nation will entrust its foreign affairs to a party eager to collaborate, willing to impose its will for peace, but unwilling to purchase peace by making itself the alms house for the world. That is the Republican party.

"The American people do not want a profit in lands to be conquered: They do not want a profit in spheres of influence, or in people to be exploited. They do want and will insist upon a profit paid in the coin of lasting peace. They will insist that the things that forced America into this war shall not arise again."

"The one great demand of the American people," he added, "is to crush our enemies, to shorten this war by giving all they have to insure speedy victory and a just and lasting peace."

Halleck said the Democratic national convention at Chicago will ratify the Communist party action, and nominate the President for a 4th term.

"This can mean," he said, "only that the Communist party agrees with Mr. Roosevelt and the New Deal and is willing to accept his program as their program. It can mean only that they expect Mr. Roosevelt and the New Deal party to ratify in the future the program and the philosophy of the Communist party."

War in Generals' Hands.

A change in administration, Halleck said, would dispel the commander in chief myth and would shorten the war. The war is being fought by specialists, trained by the United States, not by any political party, he asserted.

"Our generals, our admirals, our officers are not Republican or Democratic officers or New Deal officers," he said, "they belong to the nation. The Republican party pledges itself it will leave the conduct of this war to the trained men who can lead us to victory."

Halleck assailed the secrecy of the New Deal before the war, for not imparting to congress or the people complete information which he said the administration had of the growth of sinister forces in Germany, Italy, and Japan. In the light of New Deal pre-war bungling, Halleck asked whether the President and his advisers should be permitted to carry out America's foreign policy in the post-war world.

Capehart's Rival Girls.

The nomination of Capehart for the senatorship came after James Tucker, former secretary of state, who was wounded in the invasion of Salerno, withdrew. Capehart was manager of the ceremonials of the Willkie acceptance speech at Elwood in 1940.

Capehart's Democratic opponent in November will be Gov. Schricker. Capehart, in a short speech, said:

"I'm against the New Deal and am going to Washington to do something about it. I'm against the philosophy of the New Deal, which is one of communism, socialism, or what have you."

For the short term senatorship, which runs about two months for the vacancy caused by the death of Sen. Van Nuys, Capt. William E. Jenner of Shoals was nominated without opposition. Jenner, who was runner-up for the Republican governorship nomination four years ago, is in the army air corps, has been in England, is invalided home with an eye injury.

Gates for Governor.

Gates, who lives in Columbia City, was nominated for governor by acclamation. Other nominations were:

Lieutenant governor—Richard T. James, Hartford City.

Reporter Supreme court—Mrs. Fern Norris, Indianapolis.

Bricker Group Encouraged.

The Bricker for President group tonight asserted the convention's rebuff to Dewey is a significant testimonial to the potential strength of Bricker down in the grassroot regions of the midwest.

Schortemeier said tonight:

"Bricker is strong in the Indiana corn fields, and the action of the convention shows that his strength as a Presidential contender at Chicago is far greater than some politicians have assumed."

Schortemeier, who is an ex-secretary of state and has been a candidate for governor in years past, said he had no idea when he arrived at the convention hall that an effort would be made to get Dewey instructions.

He ran into Rep. Landis, who said he planned to ask for Dewey instructions, whereupon Schortemeier took a seat on the platform.

Beats Landis' Move.

In challenging Landis' plea, Schortemeier said that inasmuch as New York had not instructed delegates and as other candidates are entitled to consideration, any such indorsement should be tabled. This was carried with few dissenting voices.

J. Frank McDermond, publisher of a newspaper at Attica and head of the Indiana Bricker for President club, said tonight:

"The action of the convention in tabling the resolution to instruct for Dewey was a significant victory for Gov. Bricker's candidacy.

"It is evident that the delegates were not in a frame of mind to be wrapped up and delivered to a man who has not even admitted publicly that he is a candidate.

"I'm confident that most of the Indiana delegates will be for Bricker, the only candidate who has had the forthrightness and courage to tell the American people just where he stands on every issue."

MRS. CLAIRE MARTIN.

Dr. Robert E. Martin, of 1617 W. 93d st., filed a cross bill for divorce in Superior court yesterday against his wife, Claire Elizabeth, 43, a former actress in Germany, charging her with cruelty. They were married in September, 1939, in Berlin.

Judge John A. Sbarbaro issued an injunction restraining Mrs. Martin from assaulting or molesting her husband and from interfering with his practice. Dr. Martin, represented by Atty. Lawrence Fine, said she struck him with a hatchet on April 29, and caused $1,000 damage to his office equipment. He said she has driven away his patients, and that he is abandoning his practice to take a new job July 1 paying $800 a year.

Mrs. Martin, who lives at 1003 E. 53d st., was arrested April 29 after damaging her husband's office, and was placed on probation for 90 days. Judge Sbarbaro yesterday awarded Mrs. Martin, represented by Joseph H. and Norman Becker, lawyers, $25 a week temporary alimony on her pending suit for separate maintenance.

Pvt. Thomas Berkland, 24, of Camp Crowder, Mo., who said he is on his last furlough before going overseas, petitioned Judge John Prystalski in Circuit court yesterday for an order permitting him to see his daughter, Darleen, 3. The soldier said his former wife, Corinne, 22, of 4236 N. Ridgeway av., who received custody of the child in the divorce decree in 1943, has refused him permission to see the girl. Berkland and Mrs. Berkland conferred for 15 minutes in court yesterday, and Judge Prystalski continued the hearing to Monday.

GREASING TOOLS STOLEN.

Burglars who entered his home at 3301 Augusta blvd. took greasing tools valued at $78, John Cummins reported to police yesterday. He said the tools are irreplaceable.

F. D. R. DODGES ATTEMPT TO PIN HIM TO WORDS

Washington, D. C., June 2 (AP).—President Roosevelt smiled and said a reporter was about to send him to a dictionary today when the newsman asked him if he regarded the words independence and integrity as being synonymous with the word sovereignty.

A discussion came up at the President's news conference in a reporter's attempt to develop Mr. Roosevelt's statement of last week that nothing in our post-war planning would hamper the independence and integrity of the United States. The reporter asked him if that meant sovereignty.

Mr. Roosevelt said he didn't get the point and that he would have to do a lot of thinking and go to the dictionary. He added that he still is as much in favor of the sovereignty of the United States as he ever had been, and as much as the reporter was.

[Webster's definitions of the three words in question are: Independence: Exemption of reliance on, or control by, others; direction of one's own affairs without interference. Integrity: State or quality of being complete, undivided, or unbroken; entirety; as the integrity of a state. Sovereignty: The supreme political power, authority, or status of the person or persons in a state whom the citizens as a body habitually obey; the power that determines and administers the government of a state in the final analysis. Thus in a republic, as the United States, the sovereignty is in the body of enfranchised citizens.]

SOCIALISTS TOLD THE NEW DEAL IS 'DEAD IN FACT'

Reading, Pa., June 2 [Special].—When the New Deal is as dead in people's minds as it has been in fact for several years there will emerge a new political alignment, Maynard C. Krueger, national chairman of the Socialist party, declared today in the keynote address at the party's national convention.

Krueger, the party's Vice Presidential candidate in 1940, urged that the Socialist party either "be that movement" or help in launching it.

He demanded a new leftist political alignment in the United States dedicated to an early and lasting "people's peace" as opposed to "unconditional surrender and total victory."

600,000 Bills in Mails for June 15 Tax Payment

Carter H. Harrison, collector of internal revenue, said yesterday that the first batch of notices to 600,000 persons who must pay the June 15 installment on their estimated 1944 incomes had been mailed. All notices are expected to be mailed by June 6, he said. Taxpayers failing to respond by the June 15 deadline will be penalized, the collector asserted.

HELD TO JURY IN BURGLARIES.

Fred Belcastro, 18, of 1122 S. Albany av., who was arrested May 18 after he had committed three burglaries in the Austin district, was held to the grand jury in bond of $7,500 yesterday by Judge Harry P. Beam in Boys' court.

WIN WAR, BRING SOLDIERS HOME, BRICKER URGES

Ohioan Warmly Greeted at Baltimore.

BY MARCIA WINN.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Baltimore, Md., June 2. — Gov. Bricker of Ohio carried his campaign for the Republican Presidential nomination to Maryland today and found a warm reception here from Republicans and Democrats alike.

He came at the invitation of the Advertising Club of Baltimore, a nonpartisan group, and two days after a luncheon honoring him was announced, 418 tickets, all available, had been sold. Hundreds of others gathered in a balcony to hear his forthright stand on domestic and international issues and to hear Maryland's Democratic governor, Herbert O'Conor, praise him as a tested administrator and a zealous, lean analyst of public affairs.

A Receptive Audience.

Gov. O'Conor was followed by Baltimore's mayor, Theodore Roosevelt McKeldin, also a Democrat, who was so ardent in his enthusiasm for the tall, handsome candidate that a wit, fidgeting because time was flying and Gov. Bricker still had not had a chance to talk, mumbled, "I think it's a Democratic filibuster myself."

The audience obviously was warm, receptive, and enthusiastic, most of the men having come an hour ahead of time to line up and shake Bricker's hand, and he quickly won nonpartisan fame by saying he thought Democrats and Republicans have a lot in common right now.

"Neither party," he said, "has a great deal to say about what goes on in Washington."

Aims of Both Parties.

"We have common purposes in both parties," he began officially, "the first is not to let politics interfere with the military conduct of the war. The next is to see that as soon as order is restored and the countries of the world stabilized, our army is brought home. The third is to build a sound domestic economy at home. We can not exercise influence abroad unless we remain powerful here at home. We can not inspire other people to govern themselves unless we keep liberty here."

Here, as he has elsewhere, he reiterated his stand on an international police force, pointing out that American soldiers and sailors would of necessity make up the bulk of that force, subservient to a foreign power or a combination of foreign powers.

Others Share His Views.

"Most people think of a police force as policing small countries," he said. "No one seems to anticipate it may mean policing us."

In the last 60 days, he said, he has talked personally to about 15,000 persons and publicly addressed about 160,000 in every region of the United States. "And I have found," he said, "that 90 per cent of them feel just as I do."

Again he attacked the New Deal for its theory that America has reached a mature economy. Again he attacked its philosophy of scarcity, terming it "the most unsound policy of government and agriculture ever propounded" and ridiculing the fallacy that prosperity can be developed out of scarcity.

Duty to Returning Vets.

In post-war America, the American people will need confidence in a government founded on sound internal and international economy, he said. Its first work, he said, is to give jobs in industry, rather than in government makeshifts, to the returning armed forces.

He asked for: Revised tax schedules, a recapturing of the spirit of enterprise, the removal of government as a competitor with business, and an end of the philosophy of fear—"fear whether we will ever get away from government control."

To labor he addressed the warning that just as the New Deal has extended its tentacles to varied branches of agriculture and business, so it will extend them in time to labor.

"If we are to be free in America," he said, "we must be free all the way, down the line, across the board.

"When we free the world from autocracy, we're going to free the United States from burocracy as well."

To the advertising men, as to an earlier press conference, he said that altho not a pollyanna, he is an optimist with complete faith in the American people and the country's ability to recover from the war and rid itself of its huge debt. "Keep the production high and housekeep the debt—pay the carrying charges as we go," he suggested.

Questioned about his attack on the CIO political action committee at Trenton last night, he said: "If we're going to have a corrupt practices act, let's enforce it against the CIO as well as any one else."

Outlet for Big Fund.

He termed the committee only a front thru which radical members of the CIO are spending a huge campaign fund they have raised.

Informed that Atty. Gen. Biddle, who once absolved the committee of violating the act, had reopened his investigation, Bricker said: "Well, he had better. It's high time."

"Well," said one of the luncheon guests as he walked out. "There's my man. He's an American."

The political aspects of Gov. Bricker's day here are, briefly: Willkie withdrew from the Maryland Presidential primary too late for his name to come off the ballot. Thus, the Republican voters were confronted with the choice of Willkie or an uninstructed delegation to the national convention. They chose the latter.

Bricker Gains Strength.

Later the state convention "recommended" the 16 delegates vote for Dewey. Naturally this is not binding, and the savants say Bricker's vigorous and frank campaign has drawn considerable sentiment for him here. Today was his first visit.

In mid-afternoon he left for Hartford, Conn., where tomorrow he will address a meeting arranged by Gov. Baldwin. He then will return home to Columbus, O., where he has a state to run, pick up some clean shirts, and sometime next week start out again.

If he is at all discouraged, he doesn't show it. When asked today about his convention prospects, he said, with a wide smile:

"Nobody knows. It looks like a very deliberate and careful convention—as it should be."

DEFEATED F. D. R. FORCES IN TEXAS SEEK A REMEDY

Houston, Tex., June 2 (AP).—Roosevelt supporters were circulating petitions today asking that voters in the Texas Democratic primary be permitted to demand legislation requiring Presidential electors to support their party nominee.

Only 10 days remain to get about 90,000 signatures, for the petition must be submitted to the state executive committee, June 12. The executive committee must submit the question if the petitions are signed by 10 per cent of the voters in the last primary. The matter then would be considered by the next legislature. Unless a special session is called, the law could not be passed before the Presidential election.

Would Require Pledge.

The proposal would require the Presidential electors to make a written pledge under oath to support their party nominee.

The move was the latest of a pre-primary series of maneuvers by the fourth term forces, who walked out of a regularly called Democratic state convention in Austin when twice out-voted, held their own convention, and made up their own Presidential electors, pledged to vote for the party nominee.

The "regular" convention electors nominated were instructed not to vote for the party's nominee if conditions set by the Texas convention were not met by the national convention.

Ask Vote of the People.

James V. Allred, former governor and Roosevelt Democrat keynoter candidate at the state convention, said of the petitions: "This is a state-wide movement of those who believe the question should be submitted to the vote of the people."

Mr. Allred conceded the primary vote could not affect the November elections "except as an expression from the people."

If the Presidential electors are confronted with that mandate of the people they would be influenced to vote for the party's nominee, he explained.

Dr. Peter J. Stanul, of 1411 16th st., North Chicago, withdrew his name yesterday as the Democratic nominee for coroner of Lake county. He said he had not sought the nomination. Jack E. CIO'S POLITICAL GROUP PUTS OUT FISCAL REPORT

New York, June 2 [Special]—The Congress of Industrial Organizations' political action committee made public today a financial statement of its receipts and disbursements from the date of its organization to May 31. It showed receipts of $669,764, consisting of contributions from trade unions, and disbursements of $189,112.

The committee, which is committed to the reelection of President Roosevelt, reported that salaries and travel expenses of the 48 members of its national staff and 49 employes of its 14 regional offices totaled $99,398. The cost of equipping and maintaining its national and regional offices was $43,788. Expenditures for publicity totaled $19,064. The committee said it spent $15,752 in the New Jersey gubernatorial campaign and $5,000 in the Florida primary election.

Commenting on the statement, Sidney Hillman, chairman of the committee, said. "It operates in the light of day."

YANKS IN BRITAIN MAY LOSE VOTE IN TWO STATES

LONDON, June 2 (AP).—Soldiers from Oklahoma and Idaho stationed in the United Kingdom probably will be unable to vote in their state primary elections this year unless those states extend the time for returning of ballots, the Stars and Stripes said today.

The service paper said Oklahoma allows only 12 days from the mailing of ballots until they must be back in the hands of election officials. Army postal authorities report the average time for round-trip air mail between Oklahoma and the European theater of operations is 18 days.

In Idaho, ballots had to be mailed out before June 1 and must be returned by June 13, while the average air mail round trip requires 21 days, said the paper.

BRICKER GROUP PLEASED WITH CITY'S RESPONSE

Interest in the Chicago Bricker for President committee is up to expectations, W. B. Horton, secretary, said yesterday after headquarters were opened on the lobby floor of the Stevens hotel. Hundreds of messages by mail, telephone, and personal visits have encouraged supporters of the Ohio governor.

Seven sub-committees will be set up Monday at a meeting of the charter members. There will be groups on membership, activities, arrangements, speakers, reception, planning and publicity.

LINK ROOSEVELT AIDS WITH CIO'S 4TH TERM DRIVE

BY WILLARD EDWARDS.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., June 2.—Evidence linking the White House palace guard with the operations of the Communist-dominated CIO political action committee, which has been attacked in congress as a violator of the corrupt practices act, was uncovered today by congressional investigators.

Sidney Hillman.

They found that daily messages have been exchanged between Sidney Hillman, in his New York City headquarters of the CIO group, and David K. Niles and Jonathan W. Daniels, confidential aids to the President, in their White House offices.

Information also was disclosed that Dr. Frank Kingdon, former president of the Union for Democratic Action, which is helping finance a congressional purge of anti-New Dealers, is attending CIO meetings as "personal representative of President Roosevelt."

Boosters of Fourth Term.

The UDA is closely associated with the Hillman group in the fourth term campaign. Like the CIO committee, it has been found by the Dies committee on un-American activities to be controled by Communist elements.

Among the exhibits to be presented at the expected congressional investigation of Hillman's CIO expenditures in the current campaign will be a photograph that appeared recently in the CIO United Automobile Workers' paper of the Wright Aeronautical corporation at Paterson, N. J.

Richard Frankensteen, director of the CIO political action committee and vice president of the UAW, appeared as a speaker before a CIO meeting in this picture. Seated behind him was Dr. Kingdon, designated in the caption as "President Roosevelt's personal representative." He recently authored a flattering biography of the President.

The messages between the White House and Hillman indicated constant conferences on the course of the CIO group's political campaign, the investigators said.

Probe Demands Grow.

The revelations lent impetus to the demands in both houses that Attorney General Biddle be called upon to explain why he refuses to prosecute the Hillman organization for violations of the law against excessive expenditures in congressional and Presidential campaigns. Hillman and Philip Murray, head of the CIO, have told of the collection of $750,000 for political purposes and have announced that a fund of several millions will be assembled.

Mrs. Eleanor Roosevelt, wife of the President, is listed on the "honorary sponsoring committee" of the UDA, which conducting a campaign for the sale of the new "congressional purge list" issued by the New Republic, a radical publication. The CIO committee is using this list in its campaign to drive out of congress all those whose voting records are not considered "progressive."

The purge list records only 103 members of the house and 24 senators as worthy of reelection. Of these, 120 are Democrats, 3 Republicans, 3 Progressives, and 1 American Labor.

WALLACE ADDRESSES RUSSIANS IN RUSSIAN; ASKS COLLABORATION

LONDON, June 2 (AP).—Vice President Wallace of the United States, en route to China, told a Russian audience that full collaboration among the United States, Russia, and their allies is necessary to insure world peace, the Moscow radio said tonight.

Speaking in Russian, Wallace told a crowd in the opera house at Irkutsk, Siberia, that development of the American northwest, Canada, Alaska, and soviet Siberia must play an important part in post-war reconstruction.

"These huge, thinly populated territories have been conquered in our time by aviation. Now both their agriculture and their industry stand in need of development," Wallace asserted. "The duty of the United States and of Canada is to make a decisive effort in the task of developing their northern regions as has been demonstrated by the soviet union in its task of developing Siberia and the far east."

JAIL 2 SOUGHT 18 MONTHS IN 'CHARITY' FRAUD

Two men, sought for 18 months as operators of a confidence game, were arrested yesterday by Detectives Charles McMullen and Thomas Brown of the confidence detail. They are Irving Sternberg, 47, of 1249 Byron st., and Joseph Priola, 1727 Dayton st.

They were viewed by approximately 40 women at a special show up yesterday. Nine signed complaints accusing the pair of defrauding them of varying sums.

Detectives said Sternberg and Priola victimized the women thru the "charity" confidence game, in which one of the operators posed as the donor of a large sum to charity. He pretended that he needed aid in distributing the money, and the victim was chosen as his helper. Then the two vanished with the money which she had put up to prove her good intentions, the detectives explained. The pair netted approximately $90,000 in money and jewels in this fashion, the detectives said.

TRIBUNE AWARDS TO 3 EVANSTON R.O.T.C. CADETS

Three members of the Evanston Township High school's military training corps received Tribune awards last night in a ceremony witnessed by more than 1,000 spectators in the school's auditorium.

Alfred Perry of 919 Judson av., Evanston, a senior, received the Tribune gold medal from Philip Maxwell of The Tribune's editorial staff. The Tribune silver medal was presented to two other students, Amos Mathews, of 9045 Forest av., a junior, and Allen Meyer, 3033 Central st., a sophomore. Mathews was named cadet colonel of the regiment for the coming year.

The Daughters of the American Revolution saber award went to Stephen Jones, junior, of 909 Main st., son of Maj. Paul Jones, former commandant of the regiment who is now with the army in the South Pacific. Speakers at the presentation ceremonies were Francis L. Bacon, principal of the school, and V. R. Lewis, commandant instructor of the training corps.

Argentina and Spain Sign Pact for Trade Exchange

BUENOS AIRES, Argentina, June 2 (AP).—The finance ministry announced yesterday a commercial agreement under which Argentina will supply Spain a 1,000,000 tons of wheat, 500 tons of tobacco, and 10,000 tons of cotton in exchange for iron, steel and cash. The agreemen supplements one signed in 1942. It requires that Spain deliver 52,500 tons of iron and steel by next May 15, in addition to 30,000 tons stipulated in the former agreement, and thereafter 60,000 tons annually.

GEN. HARMON— A HARD DRIVING CHIEF OF TANKS

Hero of Tunisia Battles Nazis in Italy.

BY SEYMOUR KORMAN.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

WITH AMERICAN 1ST ARMORED DIVISION, near Lanuvio, Italy, June 2.—The hard driving, hard swearing tank commander referred to in my recent dispatches may be identified now as Maj. Gen. Ernest N. Harmon. He took command of our 1st armored division after the battle of Kasserine pass in Tunisia in February, 1943, smashed thru with it to the final African victories at Mateur and Bizerte, and has thrown it against the Germans since our beachhead landing at Anzio, Italy, last January.

Maj. Gen. Harmon.

Ernie Harmon is 50 bald and sports a short black mustache. He is a stocky 5 foot 6 inch bundle of activity and profanity. His usual garb includes black cavalry boots, olive drab whipcord breeches, blue scarf, combat jacket, and steel helmet. Sometimes he substitutes an ancient brown stocking cap for his helmet, even in exposed positions at the front. His breeches are ancient, too, but he believes them to be lucky and won't get a new pair.

Resembles Gen. Grant.

In build, action and flow of vivid, vituperative language, Harmon resembles Gen. Grant altho he doesn't have the Civil war commander's beard.

When Harmon first took charge of his tank division he called his field officers together and stormed at them: "Some of you blank blank guys may think I'm an old blank blank. Well, maybe I am, but I'm going to make a hell of a fighting outfit of you."

Once when he overheard young lieutenants remarking that the "old man certainly swears a lot" Harmon yelled at them: "This is a tough outfit and needs tough guys to run it."

When German generals asked terms in Tunisia, he told them; "I'm old 'Unconditional Surrender Harmon'." And once in a lull after the Tunisian victory he came into a young officer's tent as the latter was hurriedly hiding a bottle of whisky and roared:

"What kind of conduct is this? You'll be in a fine jam unless you bring out that bottle quick and give me a drink."

Surrender—Biggest Day.

I first met Harmon late in the Tunisian campaign. One fine morning in mid-May German commanders came up a hill near Ferryville to surrender to Harmon. That was the biggest day in his life up to then.

Harmon's name was withheld by censorship that day. The general has never sought personal publicity but he did tell me later in Algiers "that was one of those days when I would have liked to have my kids know their old man had given the Krauts the business."

In late January and February, when his armor was repelling enemy counter-attacks at Anzio at point blank range, the general in his own two star jeep rode alongside the tanks transmitting orders directly to his crews.

Happiest in Line.

Harmon is happiest when he is in the line. His staff members take his insults and curses with grins and jump at his orders. They know him for a very able commander and realize he masks his personal regard for them with vocal sparks. He was very sad the other day as he told me of the death of his best subordinate commander.

"I'd informed him that this would be his last battle," Harmon said, "and that I was promoting him to the staff when he returned. But he didn't return."

Harmon entered West Point from Vermont and graduated in 1917 with a cavalry commission. In World War I. he was the leader of the only American cavalry squadron to see active service at the front in France. He fought at Chateau Thierry, St. Mihiel, the Meuse, and Argonne, and was awarded the Purple Heart and the silver star.

ILLINOISAN RINGS FREEDOM BELL IN VALMONTONE

BY DANIEL DE LUCE.

VALMONTONE, Italy, June 2 (AP).—The brawny hands of an American army sergeant tugged at a bell rope in Valmontone's cathedral at 6 a. m. today, ringing the hour of liberation for 100 Italian civilians, four policemen, and two priests who had remained thruout the allied assault in the key town on highway 6, the Via Casilina.

A famed beachhead reconnaissance patrol, "the snoop troop," led by Lt. Frank W. Connor Jr., Silver Springs, Md., moved into Valmontone at the first light of day today without firing a shot.

Its tall stone walls shattered by allied bombs and shells, Valmontone lay seemingly dead on a little knoll between the railroad and highway 6 which go winding northwest 20 miles to Rome.

Illinoisan Rings Bell.

Yet when Sgt. John Samples, Johnson City, Ill., rang the bronze bell in the shrapnel scarred tower of the cathedral of Santa Maria, Valmontonians poured out of a deep shelter under the Pampile palace next door.

Many American lives were lost in yesterday's attacks of infantry and armor against Valmontone's defenses, but during the night the Germans withdrew the bulk of their artillery and tanks protecting the highway.

Lt. Walter Gill, Roswell, N. M., scouted one part of the town; Sgt. James McGee, Daly City, Cal., another. When they reported to Lt. Connor on the cathedral steps he had his "human radio station," Pvt. 1st Class Edward Collins of Portland, Ore., send this message to headquarters on a walky-talky set: "Have Valmontone. What next?"

Cathedral Damaged.

The cathedral was damaged but still structurally sound. The adjoining palace and many other buildings were hard hit.

A debonairly mustached policeman in a red and blue uniform and a tri-corner hat told me 150 German soldiers were killed by the American air attack on Valmontone May 25.

"After that," he said, "the German commander moved his men outside town. Some of our people, including refugees from Rome, have remained here the whole time. This week two were killed by your shelling, but those who stayed below the palace were safe. Now they would like food."

Just one week ago the 5th army's tank spearhead drove from the old beachhead to the outskirts of Valmontone. Since then the Goering division resisted fanatically and held the escape routes open.

ALLIES PONDER PLAN TO TAKE RELIEF TO ROME

One Vatican Scheme Turned Down.

Washington, D. C., June 2 (AP).—Several propostions have been made for moving food and medical supplies to Rome under Vatican sponsorship, it was indicated in diplomatic quarters today.

At least one was turned down by allied authorities as being contrary to allied military interests. Another and later plan apparently still is pending.

Some American officials suggested that the progress of allied forces south of Rome might make the whole question of moving supplies into the city thru German lines purely academic. Relief and assistance for the city will become strictly an allied responsibility once it is captured.

O. K. of One Power Lacking.

In discussing the problem in an address today, Pope Pius said that negotiations had been started to "bring food in by way of the sea. But the consent of one belligerent still is awaited."

[While the pope did not name the belligerent power which has refused consent for the movement of food ships to Rome, NBC said the Berlin radio twisted the pope's address to quote him as saying that "the Vatican had attempted to create a fleet of ships for the defense of Rome but due to the lack of agreement with a large sea faring power the plan had failed."]

None here would venture a guess as to which plan the pope preferred.

Those which have been considered include:

Generalissimo Francisco Franco of Spain recently placed at the disposition of the pontiff a ship to carry medical supplies and foodstuffs from Barcelona to a port near Rome. The supplies were reported available but the shipment was held up pending arrangements with the belligerents.

One Plan Rejected.

Earlier, Vatican authorities are said to have proposed the movement of supplies by sea from German held northern Italy to a German held port near Rome from which they could have been trucked overland to Rome. The Germans approved this plan and allied safe conduct was sought.

It was turned down by Gen. Henry Maitland Wilson, allied Mediterranean commander, and by the chiefs of staff here. The military men are said to have decided that the ships under safe conduct could be misused by the Germans and that it is the responsibility of a belligerent power to support the civilian populations under its control.

HULL APPEALS TO ALBANIANS TO KEEP FIGHTING

Washington, June 2 (Special).—Secretary of State Cordell Hull, in a statement tonight on the occasion of the fifth anniversary of the Italian attack on Albania, urged Albanians to continue their fight for freedom. After stating that a Fascist constitution was imposed upon the Albanian people by the Mussolini regime of Italy, Hull added:

"The United States, of course, never recognized the Fascist annexation of Albania . . . and considers that the right to freedom under institutions of their own choosing resides in the people of Albania.

"Albanian patriots have fought, and continue to fight, to drive the Nazis from their country. This is a part of the common struggle, to which these sturdy people can make a precious contribution if they can achieve unity in the effort of their arms."

33D DIVISION SET TO OPEN PARLEY HERE SATURDAY

Daniel M. Smith, first vice president who is slated for president, will be general chairman.

POPE PIUS ASKS FOR MODERATE BASIS OF PEACE

Fears Longer War if Vengeance Rules.

LONDON, June 2 (AP).—Pope Pius declared today that the idea that the war must end in complete victory or complete destruction is "a stimulant towards prolonging the war." Expressing hope for an early peace, he praised "the heralds of wisdom and moderation" as against those "who openly espouse vengeance."

Addressing the college of cardinals on his name day, the pontiff said as allied armies approached Rome that "whoever dared raise a hand" against the city "would be guilty of matricide," and in a discussion of Christianity's current influence in world affairs he decried "cleavages from the church" and the "vast division and dispersal of religious confessions."

Speaking less than two months after the patriarch of Russia and the archbishop of York had repudiated the pope in his role as Christ's vicar on earth, Pius declared that those who so contended "are ignoring and misinterpreting the profound meaning of papal primacy."

'Reasonable' Peace Suggested.

Leading into his discussion of the prolongation of the war, the pope declared that "while the instruments of destruction have reached a potency never before known, and while the world finds itself on the eve of still more dramatic and, according to some, decisive events, the discussion of the fundamental outlook and of the detailed guiding principles of the future peace attracts more and more participants."

"Yet," he continued, "besides the heralds of wisdom and moderation there are not wanting others who scarcely dissimilate their program of violance or who openly espouse vengeance.

"In many is thus born the impression or the fear that there may not be, even for the peoples and nations as such, any alternative but this: A complete victory or complete destruction.

"When once this sharp dilemma has entered men's minds, its baneful influence is a stimulant toward prolonging the war, and even among those who by natural impulse or for realistic considerations would be disposed to a reasonable peace, the spectre of that alternative, and the conviction of a real or supposed will of the enemy to destroy national life to the very roots, smothers all other reflections and instills into many the courage of desperation.

"Those who are under the domination of such feelings go on, as in a hypnotic sleep, thru abysses of unspeakable sacrifice and constrain others to a war of extermination that drains their life blood, a war whose economic, social and spiritual consequences threaten to become the scourge of the age to come.

Banishing of Fear Urged.

"It is therefore of the greatest importance that this fear should give way to a well-founded expectation of honorable solutions; solutions that are not ephemeral or carry the germs of fresh turmoil and dangers to peace, but are true and durable; solutions that start from the principle that wars today, no less than in the past, cannot easily be laid to the account of peoples, as such."

Regarding the approach of battle toward Rome, the pope noted that "the threat of air raids on districts not beyond the outer parts of Rome has given way in fact to conduct that shows greater regard,"

CHURCHILL'S SON AND TITO ESCAPE NAZI AIR TROOPS

BARI, Italy, May 29 [Delayed]—(AP).—German paratroopers supported by glider-borne infantry swarmed down and captured the Bosnia headquarters of Marshal Tito on May 25 but failed to catch the Yugoslav leader, Partisan sources disclosed today.

Maj. Churchill.

Field Marshal Erwin Rommel, whose whereabouts had been a mystery for weeks, was said to have directed the attack personally.

Tito escaped to the mountains along with Maj. Randolph Churchill, son of the British prime minister, and almost all allied officers attached to Tito's staff.

Nazis Seize Four Others.

Two allied correspondents, Stoyan Pribichevich of Time, Life, and Fortune magazines, John Talbot of Reuters, and two photographers were captured in the Nazi stroke, but Pribichevich escaped later during a Partisan attack on the Nazis.

A Stuka dive-bombing attack at 6 a. m. preceded the air borne assault on the headquarters, situated in a vast grotto near Drvar, 70 miles north of Split. Paratroopers and gliders followed quickly, coördinating their attack with a ground assault in which tanks led the way.

German transports and additional gliders poured in more men, field pieces and supplies thruout the afternoon, night, and following day.

Tito's Partisans regained much ground the first night but on the second day the enemy managed to push an armored column into Drvar, meanwhile, taking the important airport of Petrovac.

Planes of the United States 15th air force and the R. A. F. went to the aid of Tito's men. Fortresses pounded the big German supply operations center at Bihac on May 26, and Liberators struck at troop concentrations at nine different points.

Ground troops employed in the Nazi push were estimated at four divisions. In addition a full airborne division was believed to have landed.

American Colonel Sees Attack.

An American colonel who was in Drvar the day of the attack reported counting between 35 and 40 gliders at one phase of the fighting. He described the operation as very well planned and executed.

Tito and has staff had been gone an hour before the first enemy troops reached the stronghold. Members of the British mission, taking note of recent strengthening of German forces in the vicinity, moved to the outskirts of the area several days before the attack. American and Russian groups likewise were well removed.

4½ MILLION TONS OF LEND-LEASE FOOD TO BRITAIN

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, June 2.—Great Britain has received 4½ million tons of lend-lease food from the United States since the first shipment reached here three years ago, Food Minister Llewellin said today. This represents a flow of about 30,000 tons a week.

Among supplies enumerated were more than 500,000 tons of canned meat and fish, more than 400,000 tons of canned milk, 300,000 tons of dried fruit, 150,000 tons of dried eggs, 150,000 tons of dried milk, more than 500,000 tons of lard, more than 300,000 tons of bacon, and 250,000 tons of cheese.

Llewellin said Britain looked to the United States for much of the frozen meat Britain should have obtained from Australia and New Zealand, because the dominions are doing much to feed American armies in the Pacific. One third of the supplies and equipment needed for United States forces here, he added, is provided by Britain.

YANKS ADVANCE ON BIAK; BLAST JAPS OFF RIDGE

Win Height Barring Way to Mokmer Airdrome.

ADVANCE ALLIED HDQ., New Guinea, June 3 [Saturday]—(AP).—American jungle troops fought to the top of a heavily wooded ridge overlooking the Bosnek-Mokmer road to increase their pressure on the Japanese defenders of Biak on Thursday, Gen. MacArthur announced today.

Resistance on the heights was shattered by the 6th army Yanks who invaded the largest of the Schouten Islands a week ago today.

"We are now mopping up," a headquarters spokesman said of the struggle to throw out the Japs who have halted the advance on the important Mokmer airdrome since Monday. The enemy had dug in on the ridge and poured rifle fire down on the Yanks.

Poised for Main Drive.

Storming of the ridge was achieved near Ibdi and Mandom, villages just off the main route between Bosnek-Mokmer airdrome, which is only 880 miles from the southern Philippines. The Sorido and Boroke fields are just beyond Mokmer.

Possession of the cliffs poises the Americans for their main thrust for the three air fields.

Ground troops were aided by big Liberator bombers which skimmed the trees on the ridge and tore apart the enemy strong points with 80 tons of bombs.

Japs Kill 15 in Ambush.

Jungle fighting flared also in British New Guinea, 450 miles southeast of Biak, as by-passed Japs ambushed an allied carrier line 20 miles southeast of Aitape, killing nine Americans and six native helpers. The enemy lost only one man.

MacArthur's flyers made widespread bombing attacks, with Liberators hitting the approaches to Truk, enemy bastion in the Carolines. They bombed Satawan, 189 miles southeast of Truk, and Woleai, 525 miles west of Truk, on Wednesday.

The Japs hit back Thursday and Friday with bomber stabs at the Biak invaders but were driven off.

Japs Drive South in China

Chinese Halt 3d Unit Nearing Changsha.

CHUNGKING, China, June 2 (AP).—The Japanese have captured two strong points east of Changteh and northeast of Changsha after pounding the Chinese defenders along a 120 mile front, and new battles have developed for those two major enemy objectives in the Hunan province offensive, the Chinese high command said tonight.

Pingkiang, a Chinese bastion 50 miles northeast of Changsha, fell last night to invader troops striking along the Milo river. To the west, some 100 miles northwest of Changsha, the Japs seized Ansiang and drove south to within 9½ miles of Hanshow, where they were stopped, an official report said.

Third Jap Drive Halted.

A third major prong of the Hunan offensive, a central column driving down the Canton-Hankow railway, was stopped at Kweiyi, 40 miles north of Changsha, the bulletin said, after the town had changed hands several times.

Fighting raged at Pingkiang and at Shangshouchien, further east, where the enemy crossed the Milo. Repeated enemy attempts to force further crossings of the Milo, from Sinshim and Changlokai, were stopped yesterday, the Chinese said.

Major objective of the Hunan offensive is complete control of the Canton-Hankow rail route, but the Japs apparently are planning other blows at China, Maj. Gen. C. C. Tseng, Chinese army spokesman, said.

Japs Mass 280,000 Troops.

He estimated the Japs have massed 280,000 troops in the Hankow and Canton areas — 210,000 in the former and 70,000 in the latter —and have gathered other forces on the Indo-Chinese border of Yunnan province.

In Honan province, 400 miles north of Hunan, Chinese troops east of Lushin, near the western Honan border, defeated the enemy yesterday at Chungshuicheng and occupied Hsihkang after killing many Japs.

NAZIS DRIVE NEW DENT IN IASI LINE, RUSSIA REPORTS

LONDON, June 2 (AP). — Nazi troops, attacking with large forces of tanks and infantry thru the fourth day of battle in Romania, have driven another dent into Russian lines northwest of Iasi, Moscow acknowledged tonight.

"An insignificant wedge" was accomplished by the Germans at the cost of heavy losses in man power and equipment, the Russians said in their broadcast bulletin recorded by the soviet monitor.

Moscow used the same term to describe the Germans' initial puncture of Russian defenses north of Iasi when the battle opened Tuesday, breaking a six weeks lull on the main eastern front.

On other sectors of the front Moscow said there were no essential changes.

The Russians made no mention of air action. Earlier the German radio reported at least 1,000 Nazi planes were in action over the Romanian front, but conceded that the Russians held air superiority there.

A dispatch by DNB, German official news agency, said that the battle continued for the town of Stanca, north of Iasi, which it claimed was still in German hands.

Soviet counterattacks in the Kolomea area of the Carpathian foothills and near Vitebsk in White Russia also were related by the German radio.

YANKS, CHINESE ADVANCE INSIDE JAP BURMA FORT

SOUTHEAST ASIAHDQ., KANDY, Ceylon, June 2 (AP).—Americans and Chinese attacking from three sides are gaining steadily within and outside the North Burma Japanese bastion of Myitkyina, an allied war report announced today.

One column striking from the northwest gained 1,500 yards against stubborn opposition, another made progress from the north and cost the Japs heavily in casualties, while in the southern part of the town itself allied troops gained 400 yards.

West of the Mogaung river Chinese units supported by artillery advanced from Malakawng, enemy strongpoint reported taken yesterday. To the west, south of Kamaing, another Chinese element struck at a Jap party near Seton, the bulletin said.

700 Japs Slain by Chindits.

Before they withdrew from a road block southwest of Mogaung, the report said, Maj. Gen. W. D. A. Lentaigne's Chindits "killed more than 700 Japanese." This raised the total for the Chindits to at least 3,700 Japs slain in the Burma campaign.

Chinese forces on the Yunnan front seized Jap pillboxes at Pelchaikungfang and continued their assault on the main fortifications of the town. Other Chinese forces advanced west beyond Tatangtzu and captured two more towns in the Kamliangkung area.

Yanks Bomb Rail Yards.

A village in the Bishenpur area south of Imphal was cleared of surrounded Japs and another enemy group in the area was encircled.

American heavy and medium bombers attacked Bhamo and Tahoma on Wednesday and rail yards at Yeu, destroying numerous buildings and starting several fires. They also bombed the Tiddim road on the frontier.

REPORT BATTLE OF PATRIOTS AND VICHY'S MILITIA

BARCELONA, Spain, June 2 (AP).—French advices said today the entire Limoges district of central France was gripped by fratricidal war with 7,000 patriots holding at bay nearly 5,000 Vichy militiamen in a prolonged battle for a main line railroad town.

The fight in the wild, mountainous region was said to have started May 27 and lasted for three days, subsiding last Tuesday when Vichy reenforcements drove the patriots from the besieged town on the Paris-Toulouse main line. The battle was reported renewed today.

The Germans were said to have not yet entered the action. The reports said the outnumbered patriots in some sections were being forced back into the forests of mountains south of Limoges.

SUBWAY POSES QUESTION OVER TUNNELS' FATE

Use of Trolley Tubes Is Debated.

Recently Ald. Cowhey [41st] introduced in the city council a resolution suggesting that the La Salle and Van Buren tubes, which are idle, be revamped and put into service as vehicular passageways.

Leslie Sorenson, city traffic engineer, said that he made a brief study of the La Salle st. tunnel several years ago. He found, he said, that its use for automobiles would have to be preceded by the installation of expensive ventilating machinery, and that two lanes were all that would be gained. The cost, in his view, would not be justified.

City Sued Over Tunnel.

This tunnel, as well as the others, belongs to the Chicago Surface Lines. The company was ordered by the city in 1938 to cease using it, and did so, but with a reservation that the company would have to be compensated by the city. Only last Saturday the lines sued for damages of $1,900,000 allegedly lost by the forced abandonment of the tubes.

A portion of the No. 2 subway system, not yet completed, pierces the La Salle st. tunnel at Lake st., and to make it suitable for vehicles would probably require much reconstruction, including moving the south entrance far beyond Randolph st., the present terminus.

Tube Used for Training.

The Washington st. tunnel is being used by street cars. The Van Buren st. tunnel is maintained by the surface lines, but is used principally as training track for motormen; cars are run over the bridge now. Both these tunnels are potentially parts of the proposed "high level" subway for street cars under the city's grandiose unified traction plans.

All the tunnels were built by the surface lines and are carried in their capital account.

Sorenson said that it would be a great help to traffic in La Salle st. if the south tunnel entrance, which blocks about half the street, could be sealed up.

BOMBERS POUND INVASION COAST, NAZIS' RAIL LINES

LONDON, June 2 (AP).—In heavy two way assaults by nearly 3,000 American planes, bombers from Italian bases today raided German rail lines in Romania and Hungary and aerial task forces from Britain smashed at Nazi anti-invasion targets along the Pas de Calais coast of France and rail objectives west and southwest of Paris.

A fleet of 1,000 Fortresses and Liberators, with half as many escorting fighters, slammed Pas de Calais with some 3,000 tons of explosives in their heaviest assault on the invasion coast. They were not challenged by German fighters and all the bombers and fighters returned safely.

Chicagoan Among Raiders.

The Fortresses, Liberators, Mustangs, Lightnings, and Thunderbolts of the 8th air force encountered only light flak and a few ground rockets.

"It was easy," said Lt. Theodore Czechowski of 5854 Milwaukee av., Chicago, a Fortress pilot.

The second group of heavy bombers, seven of which were lost, struck rail junctions and bridges in the Paris region.

Medium, light, and fighter-bombers also stabbed into France and the Low Countries at dusk, bombing and strafing rail yards, bridges, fuel dumps, road transport and coastal objectives. None of the more than 300 Marauders and Havocs participating was lost.

Night Raiders Out, Too.

Continuing the operations into the night, a strong force of R. A. F. heavy bombers crossed England's southeast coast.

From Italy a force of up to 750 heavy bombers and an escort probably as large battered important rail junctions thru which the Germans supply their armies on the southern Russian front. They unloaded at least 500 tons of exploding steel on these targets:

Cluj, Transylvanian city on the Bucharest-Budapest railway; Simeria, an industrial town some 70 miles to the southwest, and the Hungarian cities of Miskolcz, Szeged and Szolnok, on railways radiating from Budapest.

KURILES RAIDED THIRD TIME IN 3 DAYS; FIRES SET

U. S. PACIFIC FLEET HDQ., Pearl Harbor, June 2 (AP). — Navy search planes raiding Shumushu in the Kurile Islands started several fires near the air field despite moderate anti-aircraft fire in a predawn raid Wednesday.

The attack, third in as many days upon the North Pacific islands was reported in a Pacific fleet press release which said that "all of our planes returned."

FINDS M'ARTHUR WELL ON HIS WAY TO PHILIPPINES

ALLIED HDQ., Southwest Pacific, June 2 (AP).—"What I have seen on my trip gives me absolute conviction that Gen. MacArthur is well on his way to the Philippines," Nelson T. Johnson, American minister to Australia, said on his return from an inspection of American positions on New Guinea.

Johnson expressed amazement at the achievements in New Guinea and said air bases which our forces have built on the big island are the wonders of the world, adding:

"In the Markham valley is the base of Nadzab. It's a miracle city as mystic as if it rose by magic. The Hollandia operation actually amounted to lifting a city the size of Madison, Wis., with its utilities, restaurants, police force, hospitals, and transportation and placing it down in overwhelming force against a surprised enemy 500 miles from the starting point. The planning, timing, and coördination required are beyond one's imagination."

BRANDS BRITISH PALESTINE LAWS A 'CRUEL JEST'

Rules Bar Refugee Jews, Leader Declares.

New York, June 2 [Special].—Alex Wilf, executive director of the American League for a Free Palestine, today accused the "British colonial administration" of perpetrating what he characterized as "a cruel jest thru virtually reaffirming the German Nuremberg anti-Semitic laws in all their viciousness," by barring the immigration of Jews into Palestine.

"Under existing regulations, the nationals of other countries are permitted by the British to enter Palestine. But Jewish refugees, facing death and torture at the hands of their German persecutors, before they may enter, must first secure a visa from a British consul in the country they are fleeing," Wilf asserted.

"The cruelty of this jest at once becomes apparent," Wilf said, "when it is realized that most of the Jewish refugees are coming from Romania, Bulgaria, and Poland, where there have been no British consuls since the war."

18,000 Permits Remain.

Termination on March 31 of the so-called "white paper," under which the British five years ago agreed to permit the entry of 75,000 Jews into Palestine at the rate of 15,000 a year, has left 18,000 entry permits still to be accounted for as unused by Jewish refugees, Wilf claims.

"The entire business is perfidious on the part of the British colonial administration," Wilf charged. 'The Nuremberg laws of Germany have become a symbol of evil. To have a law which exists in Palestine today which excludes the Hebrew people of Europe from their own homeland as guaranteed by the free nations of the world is equally as evil.

"It therefore becomes a matter of urgent necessity to recognize that the Hebrew nation must speak and act in its own behalf, to determine its faith in the present and future and not leave its faith to the shifting winds of political manipulation."

Group Seeks Recognition.

The American League for a Free Palestine, Wilf explained, is a nonsectarian organization "dedicated to support the aims and purposes of the Hebrew Committee of National Liberation which seeks recognition as spokesman for the Hebrew nation composed of stateless European and Palestine Jews."

The British colonial administration, by frustrating the attempts of Jewish refugees to find protection in Palestine, is guilty of violating human rights at a time when European Jews are most in need of sanctuary, Wilf said.

Restrictions imposed on all war refugees who sought to enter Britain were disclosed by Osbert Peake, British under secretary of state for the home office, in a speech before the house of commons May 19, 1943.

Visas Limited.

Granting of visas for Britain, he said, was limited to technicians, doctors, allied government officials and their wives, persons willing to join the allied forces and their wives and children, wives and children of those already serving, and children of refugees already in Britain. He gave transportation difficulties as the reason for such restrictions.

Immigrants seeking permanent residence in England, it was explained, are required to present themselves before an examining board which may refuse entrance on the grounds of occupational conflict, moral reasons, and for other causes.

Australia, New York representatives of that country revealed, has in its quotaless immigration laws a provision known as the "dictation test."

Termed "Safeguard."

That test, which Australian spokesmen said is "seldom used," theoretically may require a citizen of any other country seeking admission into Australia to translate the tongue of any nation other than his own.

The test was inserted into the law "as a safeguard" to protect Australia from "undesirables" who might "slip thru" immigration safeguards. It gives the government "a polite" loophole to exclude the applicant, it was explained.

South Africa, it is said, is not enthusiastic over permitting more Jewish refugees. Australia is taking Jewish and other refugees on a temporary basis. New Zealand admits them as immigrants permanently.

Canada has no Jewish plan, but is admitting refugees, mostly Greeks. It includes some Jews on a temporary basis. Recently, after months of negotiations, Canada admitted 700 Jewish refugees from North Africa, Portugal, and Spain.

AMERICANS GIVE PLASMA FOR 1ST 'BANK' IN CHINA

KUNMING, China, June 2 (AP).—Life-giving plasma from thousands of donors in America, including Chinese, Indians, Negroes, and 15 Japanese, has been sent to China's Salween front from this nation's first blood bank. The principal donors were Chinese, but many other Americans gave blood at the American bureau for medical aid for China in New York City.

The plasma is being carried to field hospitals along the Salween front after being flown over Himalayan "hump." Members of the blood bank unit from America also made the trip.

Dr. Chien Lung-wei, transfusion specialist, heads the team now collecting blood in China. Besides the dried plasma, 20 tons of equipment including a centrifuge, freezer, and drying machine were ferried over the "hump" by the air transport command.

U.S. MAY HOUSE WAR REFUGEES IN ARMY CAMP

F.D.R. Reveals Plan for Haven.

Washington, D. C., June 2 (AP).—Some war refugees unquestionably will be brought to the United States, President Roosevelt said today, and one of the plans under study contemplates housing them in an army camp no longer needed by the military services.

The President stressed in a news conference discussion, however, that the emphasis is on finding war time havens closer to the refugees' own homelands.

Any refugees brought here would have to go back home after the war or find other places to live, he said, and it is only common sense to try to avoid two sea voyages.

Mentions Sicily.

Saying that officials are trying to find places in other parts of the world for havens, Mr. Roosevelt mentioned as possibilities Taormina, a resort on the east coast of Sicily, and the resorts in Cyrenaica [Italian Libya]. He said they have hotels which could be used.

Asked what appropriation would be used to finance the transfer of refugees to this country, the President said he didn't know—probably funds of the united nations relief and rehabilitation administration or possibly military appropriations.

It is partly a military problem, he commented, since people have to be taken out of military areas. For instance, he said, 1,800 refugees turned up in one week on the Adriatic coast and the army had to take care of them.

Refers to Pehle.

Then, reiterating that he didn't know about the financial question, the President said it should be put to John W. Pehle, executive director of the war refugee board. This board is composed of Secretaries Hull, Morgenthau, and Stimson and was created last January.

At Pehle's office, officials said the matter of finances had not been decided. They also said the question of taking over an army camp had not gone beyond the study stage.

INDIAN HEALTH WARNING STIRS LONDON'S PRESS

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, June 2.—A warning by Prof. A. V. Hill, member of parliament, in the London Times, that more than half of India's 400,000,000 population is underfed "by any reasonable standards," one-third is subject to chronic disease, and only one-half live to the age of 22 revived demands in the British press today for a new approach to solution of the Indian problems.

The Daily Worker, complaining that nothing has been done since Mohandas K. Gandhi's release to end the political deadlock, said: "It is time that this burden on our conscience and our policy was lifted and a new approach made to win the friendship and confidence of India."

The News Chronicle commented: "The urgency of India's economic needs makes it more than ever essential that the political deadlock should be ended."

REVEAL ATTACKS ON HEBREWS IN ARGENTINE TOWN

MONTEVIDEO, Uruguay, June 2 (AP).—An official report of the provincial authorities of Entrerios, published in La Nacion of Buenos Aires, today said the attention of the government had been called to "some attempts and some damages against a Hebrew colony in the town of Parana."

It was the first official word concerning anti-Semitic demonstrations in Argentina.

"Such deeds may only have been committed by irresponsible elements against which the most severe orders already have been decided," the report said. "The Hebrew colony may rest tranquil and confident that the provincial authorities will energetically assure the efficiency of protection which the national revolution grants all those understanding and respecting the morality and the laws of the Argentine people."

Wins Divorce

[Associated Press Wirephoto.]

Los Angeles, Cal., June 2 (AP).—Joan Fontaine was a kind of guest in her own home, the 26 year old actress testified today in divorcing Brian Aherne, 41, British actor, to whom she was married nearly five years ago.

"He had a butler who was with him before we were married, who ran the house the way he wanted," she testified. "My husband had a library in which his own things were kept and I wasn't allowed to put anything in there or go into the room without his permission. I wasn't allowed to entertain friends of my own in the house. Any friends I saw I would have to see at the studio."

Miss Fontaine, sister of actress Olivia de Havilland, got her decree on grounds of extreme cruelty. She said Aherne bought a desert ranch and that, altho she is alergic to dust, he insisted that they make their permanent residence there, returning to Hollywood only to make pictures.

25 SHIP REPAIR MEN OVERCOME ON JOB IN HOLD

New York, June 2 (AP).—Another instance of people being overcome—the second in two days—occurred in Brooklyn today but again there were no fatalities.

While all but 26 of the 1,000 pedestrians and subway riders who suffered from escaping chlorine gas yesterday were reported out of danger, 25 workmen in the hold of a freighter were overcome by foul air stirred up when ballast was shifted. Ten of the men were taken to a hospital and 15 treated at the pier where the ship was tied.

The men began collapsing when foul air left them without sufficient oxygen.

Fifteen men on the same ship were overcome by fumes from a fluid used in disinfecting a refrigerating plant. Five were taken to a hospital.

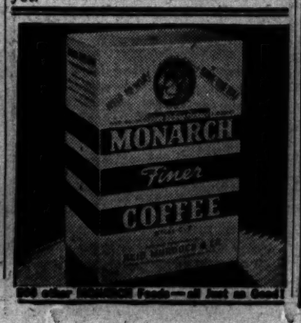
Most of the chlorine victims had shaken off the effects of the gas, but 90 still remained in hospitals. The condition of 26 was described by hospital authorities as "serious, but not critical."

SPAIN STILL AIDS GERMANY, RED PAPER CHARGES

LONDON, June 2 (AP).—The Moscow radio, bitterly denouncing Generalissimo Francisco Franco and "the bloodthirsty hangmen of the Spanish people who now don the cloak of neutrality," charged today that Spain still is helping Germany.

"Franco's signature on the document in which he associated himself with anti-soviet activities of the axis has not been annulled," the broadcast said, quoting the newspaper Izvestia.

"Neither have military and strategic measures taken by the Spanish government to please its Berlin friends been abolished, not to speak of the economic assistance rendered by Spain to Hitler, the doors of which are by no means closed even yet."



BRITONS CLAMOR FOR U.S. TO BARE ITS PLANS FIRST

Worried Lest America Work Out Profit.

BY LARRY RUE.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, June 2.—Britain continues to display much concern in America's battle for self-determination in all policies affecting the United States.

The almost unanimous indorsement by the house of commons of Prime Minister Churchill's "what-we-have-we-hold" policy and vaguer pronouncements after the conference of dominion prime ministers here evidently have satisfied Britons that there is no danger of America profiting from lend-lease.

Of course, anxiety still exists over the share that America may want in post-war shipping, civilization, and world markets. The British are eagerly seeking out clues of American trends.

Trade Mission Stirs Fear.

Uneasiness was expressed in the press and in parliament about the proposed American-Russian trade pact, which it was felt might leave out Britain. This was behind the publication here this week of assurances given in Moscow by Eric Johnston, president of the Chamber of Commerce of the United States, that altho Britain and America had different interests, the United States had no intention of crowding Britain from the markets.

The New York Daily News, which seldom is quoted, was given good space today for its editorial recommending a close Anglo-American partnership and even giving the British "enough of our ships and naval aircraft to bring Britain's navy to equal strength with the American."

Oddly enough, America continually is asked to put its cards on the table first. The American procedure in making treaties, which the British are told is an antiquated system, makes this difficult, however. The complaint is made here that the system prevents America from committing herself now.

Bloom's Campaign Watched.

Much interest is shown in the campaign of Rep. Bloom [D., N. Y.] to transfer the treaty making power held by the senate to congress as a whole. The London Times gave Bloom's arguments, and if any argument is expressed in America in favor of the present system, the public here was not told of it. From the story the paper printed today, one could assume that whenever there is friction between the senate and the executive the senate is to blame.

Readers of the Evening Star tonight were warned by its New York correspondent that unless America makes up her mind now on post-war schemes things will be bad.

Considerable comment has been published here on the Washington and Downing st. differences over Gen. Charles de Gaulle. Here, as usual, it is assumed that America is wrong.

SHORT OF COAL? BRITAIN IS TOLD IT HAS RESERVE

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, June 2.—In the last two years Britain has saved 9 million tons of solid fuel and has been able to meet all the needs of the armed forces and industry, Fuel Minister Gwilym Lloyd George stated at Newcastle tonight. In addition, he said, the country has laid up reserve for any emergency. Lloyd George's picture was in sharp contrast to criticisms in the press and in parliament about a serious coal shortage, as well as production, rationing, and the conscription of 18 year old boys for mine work.

STRATEGIC AIR UNITS BAG 1,268 PLANES IN MAY

LONDON, June 2 (AP).—Flyers of the United States strategic air force in Europe during May loosed more than 63,000 tons of bombs on targets in Nazi held regions and destroyed 1,268 enemy planes in the air, it was announced officially today.

Striking points from the French invasion coast to the Balkans almost daily, planes from Britain and Italy flew 49,811 sorties—30,106 by bombers, 19,705 by fighters. Losses were 481 heavy bombers and 235 fighters.

Mediterranean Box Score.

ALLIED HDQ., Naples, June 2 (AP).—The Mediterranean allied air force during May, flew 59,000 sorties, dropped 50,000 tons of bombs on objectives in Italy, Austria and the Balkans, blasted 4,800 enemy vehicles, and destroyed 433 enemy aircraft at a cost of 385 planes, of which 171 were heavy bombers.

2 Firemen Are Injured by Exploding Chemicals

Two firemen were cut and burned yesterday when a quantity of chemicals exploded as they were fighting a fire in a garage at the rear of the home of Clarence A. Larson, 346 Park av., Highland Park, vice president of the Jewel Tea company. They were George Keeler, 45, of 540 Elm place, and John Patten, 45, of 590 Glenview av., both of Highland Park. Neither was injured seriously. The fire, which started in stored furniture, was believed to have been caused by the action of the sun's rays passing thru a window.

GRAU ELECTED CUBA PRESIDENT BY BIG MARGIN

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

HAVANA, Cuba, June 2.—Dr. Ramon Grau San Martin, candidate of the Alianza Nacional, won the presidency of Cuba by a sweeping victory in all six provinces.

Carlos Saladrigas y Zayas, candidate of the government coalition Socialista Democratica, admitted his defeat at 3 p. m. today and congratulated Dr. Grau in his residence, embracing him.

President Fulgencio Batista also visited Dr. Grau and congratulated him. Dr. Grau thanked the president for his impartiality.

Dr. Raoul Menocal won reelection as mayor of Havana by an overwhelming majority over the coalition candidate, Alfredo Izaguirre Hornedo.

Dr. Grau, who served as president of Cuba in five hectic months of 1933-'34 and has been with the opposition ever since, immediately made a radio address calling for a unified Cuba in support of the allied nations.

He asserted his party's willingness to forget partisan disputes and work together for a Cuban program and praised Batista's direction of the elections as fair, honest, and peaceful.

AMERICAN BORN JAPANESE TELLS OF PLANE RAIDS

Sgt. Ben Kuroki, 32, San Francisco, Cal., American born Japanese, who has won the distinguished flying cross twice as well as the air medal with four clusters, yesterday recalled some of his flying experiences for employes of the war relocation authority here. He won the coveted cross the first time by completing 25 missions over Europe as a gunner in a Flying Fortress, and later was awarded another as a member of a crew which bombed the Ploesti oil fields in Romania. Only two ships in his squadron of nine returned.

Sgt. Ben Kuroki.

HENRI CHARPENTIER'S Column

The bells of Washington are ringing; they can be heard in the forty-eight states. Uncle Sam, calling the house to order, has asked his good nephew Franklin D. to summon the great American family to its duty. On his way to the capitol Uncle Sam came upon John seated on a bench in the park, dejected and alone. Since he looked worried, he asked, "What's the matter, John?" "Oh, I've lost everything," was the answer, "I'm broke." "Have you lost me? Start working tomorrow, John. One hundred dollars a week, twenty per cent for the family." "Who says twenty per cent? I'll give you all I make plus my heart," declared John. With shining eyes Uncle Sam said, "Then you'll never be broke again, John." Let every one of us be like John and follow Uncle Sam. Prepare to buy more bonds in the Fifth War Loan Drive. Thank you!

AFL CHIEF SAYS LABOR OPPOSES SOVIET EUROPE

Boston, Mass., June 2 (AP).—President William Green of the American Federation of Labor today said that labor did not "consider it right or just or contributory to world peace that all Europe be sovietized" when the war ends.

Green, in a speech before the International Ladies Garment Workers' union, said labor believes "that each nation of Europe should be accorded the right to work out its own peaceful and democratic destiny without being subjected to the status of a puppet state."

"And, from our own experience," he said, "we know that when Communists seize control of a trade union organization its democratic roots die."

Labor to Send Representative.

Green disclosed that Luigi Antonini, vice president of the garment workers' union and a member of the Italian American labor council, would go to Italy shortly as an American labor representative to help reorganize "free, democratic trade unions."

"The past has taught us that communism recognizes no principles and that it worships only the god of expediency—a god with many faces," Green said.

"We in the American Federation of Labor have great admiration for the way soviet Russia has carried on the war against Hitler and for the courage and mighty exploits of the Russian people and the Russian armies. We willingly and gratefully acknowledge our debt to soviet Russia in helping to crush the Nazis.

Aid to Russia Recalled.

"Our own union members have given their sweat and their skill and their genius to the production of weapons of war which were sent in tremendous quantities to Russia and without which Stalin himself has conceded that victory could not have been won."

Green said that this was "no time to strike as the united nations prepare for the invasion."

Green said all restrictions against immigration in Palestine must "be lifted at once."

U. S. JOB RULE PROGRAM STIRS PROTESTS HERE

Labor, Business Leaders Oppose WMC Policy.

Midwest labor leaders and business men joined yesterday in expressing their opposition to the Washington administration's newest man power policy which aims to impose the tightest controls yet attempted.

The Washington program, which is to be effective July 1, will place all major business and industry under labor ceilings and will allow workers to find jobs only thru federal agencies.

Daniel D. Carmell, attorney for the Illinois and Chicago federations of labor and for various individual labor unions affiliated with the AFL, protested the new job freeze order.

Need for Order "Not Shown."

"The government has not shown there is any need to withdraw from the worker the freedom to seek his own job as he sees fit to seek it," Carmell said. "Labor organizations are doing all they can to siphon as many as possible of their own members into war jobs. Only three weeks ago WMC Director [Paul V.] McNutt testified before a senate committee that there was no need for national service legislation, and that any such law should be enacted by congress, and not put over on the people by administrative edict."

Leverett S. Lyon, chief executive officer of the Chicago Association of Commerce, said that "this appears to be a further step in the direction of national control of labor power use."

"The Illinois Manufacturers' association still entertains the belief that unnecessary government man power controls will prove impractical in operation and will not tend to promote war production," James L. Donnelly, executive vice president of the association, said.

"Our inquiries indicate production schedules generally are being met in Chicago. However, Illinois industry will fully coöperate with any war directive issued by those in control of the war effort."

"Regimentation" Says O'Reilly.

"War Man Power Commissioner McNutt's new ruling is nothing less than regimentation," said Harry O'Reilly, regional director of organization for the AFL and member of the regional war labor board. "It is uncalled for, inadequate, and unnecessary."

Victor A. Olander, secretary-treasurer of the Illinois Federation of Labor said. "Frankly, I don't like the WMC methods—either as used in the past or as now proposed." But, he said, "we're nearing the moment of invasion. There's no time to argue now about the new regulation. We've got to find a way of making it work to the best advantage."

Lee H. Hill, vice president of the Allis Chalmers company and an industry member of the committee, said he didn't believe the program "is likely to be very effective in relieving the man power shortage, and undoubtedly it will impose great hardship on many employers as well as job applicants."

Capital war man power commission officials said that the new program provides that job seekers will be offered assignments in the order of importance of the job to the war. Workers will be given the widest choice "consistent with the war effort" in the acceptance of jobs.

An applicant, they said, may be referred to a nonessential job under these conditions:

If he is not needed for an essential job in the area; if he is not adaptable to an essential job outside the area, or if there is undue hardship, special emergency circumstances, or other good cause.

Spencer Urges Full Support.

William H. Spencer, regional chairman of the WMC, said the plan "will be a novel experience here and we must have the fullest support of labor, management, and the public to make this voluntary program effective."

Spencer said the job freeze program became necessary because the WMC's orders had divided the nation into small areas isolated from one another. He said the controls might reach "far more drastic proportions before we have succeeded in catching up with production schedules—and we are running 4 billion dollars a year behind them right now."

Spencer explained how the program, which will be put into effect in all Class 1 and 2 labor shortage areas in the country, will affect Chicago. All male civilian workers of 17 or over, he said, will be required to find jobs thru the United States employment service, a branch of the WMC. All plants, stores, offices, and service trades, except those employing fewer than a certain number to be determined this month, will be required to hire thru the USES, except for certain agencies which may be made, in effect, branches of the employment service.

Dividing Lines Erased.

Spencer said the isolation of the nation's labor areas from each other resulted from setting up regional and local controls and regarding each as dealing with a fixed labor supply. Under the new order, he said, dividing lines will be erased.

Chicago will be able to draw on any other area in the country where there is a surplus of labor useable here, he said, but will have to give up workers from time to time to such imperative production programs as one currently being established in the northwest by the du Pont company, and a few others.

"We are empowered to invoke drastic controls," Spencer said, "but in Chicago we will limit ourselves to directing workers to the opportunities where they are most needed. There will be no coercion."

THE QUESTION.

Did you ever bungle a shopping assignment that your wife gave you?

WHERE ASKED.

McGraw Hill building, 520 N. Michigan av.

THE ANSWERS.

Charles Mosel, business executive, 3360 Lake Shore dr.—Whenever I get a shopping assignment I follow orders. I believe in "Jot it down and you'll never forget." I have a little book for my memos. The only time the system fails is when I jot something down, put it in my pocket, and forget about it.

Harry Burton, store manager, 911 Carmen av.—I went on an unappreciated shopping assignment once for my wife. When I returned with the order—one fly swatter—she said, "What do you want me to do with this?" I said, "I thought you wanted one." She then told me she had ordered some ice water.

N. G. Anderson, office manager, 7922 Long av., Skokie—My wife asked me to pick up a dress for her in a department store. I brought home the dress—too long, too wide, wrong color, wrong material—everything wrong. I could have exchanged it, but I told her from then on it was her responsibility.

George A. Wray, insurance agent, 7252 Thorndale av.—Practically every Friday I go out for the weekly groceries. The little lady gives me a grocery list about three feet long, including everything from soup to nuts. I go from store to store trying to get what she wants. I usually come home with only half and a headache.

Stephen A. Haboush, lecturer, Shoreland hotel—If I'm planning to buy anything I always take my wife with me, and if she's getting something new she asks for my judgment on it—that is, when we're buying clothes. I do all the shopping for groceries and altho I occasionally forget a few items, I don't need an assignment.

Seymour S. Fagan, business executive, 3400 Lake Shore dr.—Some time ago my wife asked me to bring her home some nylon hose from New York—that was when you could still buy them there. I had other things on my mind and returned without them. Since then nylons have become practically extinct.

'EMBARGO' CUTS OUTPUT IN AFL AND CIO DISPUTE

300 Workers Strike; 100 Stay on Job.

The AFL Wallpaper Workers' union, which has a closed shop contract with the United Wall Paper Factories, Inc., has declared an "embargo" to stop deliveries from branch factories to the company's finishing plant at 3930 Federal st. until the CIO stops certain "infiltration tactics," Joseph Jacobs, attorney for the AFL union, said yesterday.

He said it is probable that the action will force the management to close the Federal st. plant, which manufactures wall paper borders from products received from the company's mills in Joliet and at 3330 Fillmore st.

Company Spokesman Bewildered.

"It is bewildering," a company spokesman said. "While the unions squabble, we all lose. Even the union with which we have a contract won't deal with us. It's none of our concern, it appears; it's merely our business."

Approximately 300 employes remained on strike yesterday, and 100 were at work, in the complicated union dispute. All hold memberships in the AFL union. The 100 nonstrikers are in the group that declared the embargo for the purpose of shutting off materials which the plant requires if it is to continue operating.

Reports 15 Are Organizers.

Jacobs said he was one man who understood the situation. When the company expanded its Federal st. plant a few months ago, he said, it hired many workers who had been CIO members in other factories. All but 15 of them, however, became AFL members under the conditions of the closed shop agreement, he said. The AFL said these 15 were CIO organizers, and demanded that the company discharge them.

The 15 were fired, and 130 other employes attempted a sitdown strike in protest Thursday morning. They were ejected by police and formed picket lines. The strike continued yesterday.

Jacobs said the strikers actually are CIO sympathizers.

APPEALS COURT SAYS WLB EDICT NOT REVIEWABLE

Washington, D. C., June 2 (AP).—The United States Court of Appeals for the District of Columbia today ruled that orders of the war labor board are not reviewable by the courts.

The ruling was on an appeal brought by the employers group of Motor Freight Carriers, Inc., an association of carriers and individuals who represent about 300 trucking companies engaged in transporting freight in Boston and thruout New England.

Three appeals court judges who heard the case, Justin Miller, Henry W. Edgerton, and Thurman W. Arnold, held unanimously that "it is clear and undisputed that no statute authorizes review of the war labor board's order."

U. S. Hails Decision.

A government attorney promptly interpreted the decision as placing the government in position to ask dismissal of every action brought against the board. Among these are five suits in United States District court here by Montgomery Ward & Co. for injunctions against enforcement of WLB orders.

In a statement, Attorney General Biddle called the decision "of first importance regarding the whole war labor board controversy." Biddle declared, too, that in the light of the decision some criticism in the McCarran report appeared "a somewhat hazardous judgment." Sen. McCarran [D., Nev.] headed a senate judiciary subcommittee whose majority report sharply criticized Biddle's rulings leading up to the seizure by the government of Montgomery Ward's Chicago property.

"Positive Intention" Implied.

"The legislative history of the war labor disputes act," the judges said, "implies a positive intention that these orders should not be reviewed. Aside from that important and probably conclusive fact, the question is whether general equitable principles authorized review. We think they do not.

"Appelants [the employers group] say in effect that if they do not comply with the order the board may notify the President of their noncompliance and the President may take possession of their plants and facilities.

"We have no occasion to decide whether, in our opinion, this is true. In some instances concerns which have failed to comply with board orders have ultimately been taken over by Presidential orders. In other instances concerns which have not been the subject of any board order have been taken over by Presidential orders.

"If it be true, as appellants suggest, that the President may ultimately take possession of their plants and facilities, that possibility is irrelevent, not only because it is speculative but also because it is independent of the board's order.

"Neither the broad constitutional power nor the broad statutory power of the President to take and use property in furtherance of the war effort depends upon any action of the war labor board. Any action of the board would be informatory and 'at most, advisory.'

"Appellants' demand that we annul and enjoin the board's order therefor amounts to a demand that we prevent the board from giving the President advice which appellants contend would be erroneous. A court might as well be asked to prevent the secretary of state or the attorney general from giving alleged erroneous advice.

"The correctness of administrative advice cannot be reviewed by the courts. They have neither the necessary authority nor the necessary qualifications for such work.

The truckers group protested a board order that it give employes an increase of $2.75 a week and that time and a half be paid for work in excess of eight hours in any regular working day.

The truckers contended the board's findings were unlawful and violated executive orders of the President. They asserted that it was impossible for them to fulfill the order and asserted "the industry is confronted with outright failure and dissolution."

Without Prejudice.

In another action, the Appeals court today dismissed a government petition for a special appeal from the District court's refusal to dismiss one of Montgomery Ward's injunction suits. The higher court said it could not hear the petition before October and the dismissal was without prejudice to reconsideration of the petition after next Sept. 15.

In this case, Ward seeks to enjoin the government from enforcement of a WLB order affecting its stores in Denver, Detroit, and Jamaica, N. Y. The government, without replying to the complaint, asked the court to dismiss the suit. When the court refused, the government sought a special appeal. The Appeals court said there appeared to be no good reason why the case "cannot be speedily heard and disposed of by the trial court."

LIGHT BROWN FLUFF IN LAKE IS NEWEST SANITATION PUZZLE

With the mystery of last Tuesday's blackened water near the Dunne and 68th st. water cribs still unsolved, a new problem was injected yesterday when a patch of fluffy material floated in the vicinity of the cribs.

Theodore Schmid, assistant sanitary engineer at the city water safety control section, 6843 Oglesby av., said the patch was 200 yards in diameter and apparently was carried eastward by an off-shore breeze. The substance appeared light brown in color, he said.

Commissioner of Public Works Hewitt and John R. Baylis, city water purification engineer, ordered surface and depth samples of the water collected for laboratory tests.

Chemical tests still are being made of the black substance which darkened the water near the cribs for several hours on Tuesday. It appeared to be graphite.

INFANTRY DIVISION SELECTS OAK PARK GIRL, 17, AS QUEEN

Miss Janice Gnass, 17, of 127 S. Ridgeland av., Oak Park, will leave by plane next Tuesday morning to accept her honors as queen of an infantry division in training at Camp McCain, Miss., She was selected recently by the votes of several thousand enlisted men in a contest conducted by the division newspaper Attack.

Her photograph was submitted in the contest by her high school sweetheart, Pvt. Harry Swanson, of 7606 Vine st., River Forest, who will meet her when she arrives in Memphis, Tenn. Miss Gnass is to be graduated from Oak Park-River Forest Township High school on Wednesday, but is skipping the school ceremonies to take part in the program arranged in her honor at the army camp.

The soldiers have planned a busy week for Miss Gnass including a dance Wednesday night at which she will be officially crowned by Maj. Gen. Harry J. Maloney, division commanding general.

4 PILOTS PLAY DECOYS TO DRAW JAPS' FIRE AS FLYERS ARE SAVED

Washington, D. C., June 2 (AP).—Four Lightning fighter pilots of the 13th army air force circled like ducks in a shooting gallery above Japanese gun positions to draw enemy fire while a navy PBY plane picked up survivors from another aircraft shot down off Bougainville.

The war department reported today that the diversion worked. The survivors were rescued and the four P-38 pilots got away uninjured, altho one eventually took to his parachute after enemy fire had damaged his plane.

Among the four pilots was Capt. H. M. Cleveland of Haubstadt, Ind.

COLLAPSE KEEPS MRS. HEINZ OFF STAND IN TRIAL

Los Angeles, Cal., June 2 (AP). — Elizabeth Bald Heinz, 26, Baltimore socialite, collapsed shortly before she was to resume the witness stand today in her husband's suit for custody of their son, 4.

Sobbing and weeping, she was taken to an emergency hospital in the city hall, where the trial is in progress. Under cross-examination yesterday by counsel for her husband, Clifford S. Heinz Jr., food packing company heir, Mrs. Heinz was calm in her testimony.

Photostatic copies of letters purportedly written to her by Walter von Neudegg, former Austrian count and ski instructor, were introduced. She identified the letters.

The letters reputedly were written between March and November, 1943.

JURY TOLD BUND SOLD LITERATURE BY MRS. DILLING

BY PHILIP WARDEN.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., June 2.—The books of Mrs. Elizabeth Dilling of Chicago, were among the publications selected for sale in 1937 and 1938 at the German-American bund's special book store in Chicago, it was testified today at the sedition trial of 29 defendants, of whom Mrs. Dilling is one.

The books, along with publications of some of the other defendants, were sold because "they were anti-Jewish and anti-communistic," Peter Gissibl, former leader of the bund in Chicago who now runs a tailoring shop in Waukegan, Ill., told the jury.

Gissibl, the prosecution's first witness, also linked six other defendants in the present trial with bund activities in Chicago in 1937 and 1938. They included Hermann Max Schwinn who, Gissibl testified, was gauleiter [division leader] of the western district; Gerhard Wilhelm Kunze, then officer of propaganda for the bund; Mrs. Lois De Lafayette Washburn, of the American Gentile league; William Dudley Pelley, leader of the Silver Shirts; Gerald B. Winrod, minister and publisher of Wichita, Kas.; and Robert Edwards Edmondson, publisher of "American vigilante" bulletins.

Speakers at Meetings.

Gissibl testified that Schwinn and Kunze spoke at bund meetings at the bund's headquarters, 3855 N. Western av., in Chicago, the subject of one of Schwinn's talks being "Our Struggle in America."

Mrs. Washburn, who resided in Chicago and Seattle, Wash., spoke at Chicago bund meetings twice, once in 1937 and once in 1938, Gissibl said. He said arrangements for her speaking engagements were made with the bund leaders by Donald Shea, who was not further identified by Gissibl.

"Can you tell us if the literature of any of the defendants was sold at the bookstore of the bund on Western avenue?" Burns inquired of Gissibl.

"Yes," Gissibl replied, "we sold at our bookstore in Chicago publications from the Silver Shirts; we sold publications from Mrs. Dilling, 'The Red Network' and 'Truth,' and the publications of Mr. Edmondson and Mr. Winrod from Wichita, Kas., in 1937 and 1938."

"Will you state why the bookstore sold the publications of these defendants?" Burns asked.

"The literature was anti-Jewish and anti-communistic," Gissibl replied.

Article Is Admitted.

An article from the Deutscher Weckruf and Beobachter, published in Chicago by the Teutonia Publishing corporation, of which Gissibl was president, was admitted into evidence after two hours of protests by defense attorneys. The publication was the bund's newspaper. The article was taken from the July 23, 1936, issue.

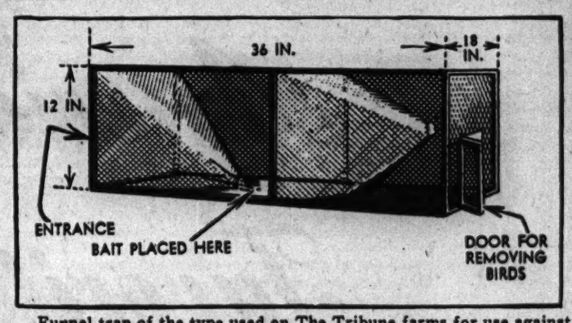
Headlined "The Gift of Honor to Adolf Hitler," the article's first paragraph stated:

"Bund Fuehrer Fritz Kuhn will turn over to him more than $3,000 as a gift from the Germandom of America for winter relief work."

James J. Laughlin, Washington attorney defending Robert Noble and Edward James Smythe in the sedition trial, created a stir in the court room when he announced he had been indicted by a Baltimore, Md., grand jury today for attempting to "influence, obstruct, and impede" justice during his defense of persons later convicted of bank robbery.

Laughlin asked that the jury in the sedition trial be discharged and a mistrial declared because news of his indictment could not be kept from the jury and it would prevent his clients from obtaining a fair trial. His motion was denied.

Trap for Catching Sparrows



Funnel trap of the type used on The Tribune farms for use against English sparrows.

BY BEN MARKLAND.

Paul Heck, the north side gardener who complained to Summerdale police about the sparrows which ate his vegetable seeds, may be as handy with a hammer as with a hoe and rake. If so, he can make a simple sparrow trap which can be used to deter the birds from following him up one row and down another.

The trap, pictured herewith, has been used on The Tribune Experimental farms and found successful. It can be made from scrap lumber and almost any available wire, including screening.

Grain and bread crumbs are placed inside the first funnel entrance. Birds walk thru the entrance to feed, then find that they can't go back thru the entrance, so walk thru the second funnel into the rear compartment of the trap. They can be removed thru the rear door, and if any beneficial songbirds are trapped these can be released.

DAY BY DAY ON THE FARM

The FARM by Ben Markland

June 2, 1944.

THE Wheaton farm will be the setting of experiments with a new method of combating the dread corn borer. The method, developed by a young Illinois soils expert, may open the way toward saving farmers of the nation millions of dollars in ravaged fields and ruined crops.

John Bell, 29, of Watseka, after three years of labor on his own time and with his own money, has developed a method by which the corn stalk is made so distasteful to the borer that it leaves. For years experiments have been along the line of developing a stalk resistant to the borer. Success with this method has been only moderate.

Damage Spurs Effort.

Bell first started his work when he witnessed the damage done to sweet corn fields on his father's farm near Watseka. He conceived the idea of adding plant foods to the stalk in a combination that would make it distasteful to the pest.

He first tried injecting into the stalk with a hypodermic needle various combinations of the major food essentials. This failed. Finally he hit upon a combination of minor plant food materials that produced results. On one and a half acres in a large field of corn badly infested with borers he applied his treatment and increased the yield by 22 bushels over the rest of the field.

Altho Bell was employed by a fertilizer concern, and his compound can readily be used in a commercial fertilizer for a field, his work did not receive public recognition until stories about his efforts appeared in THE TRIBUNE.

Gets Many Offers.

After several stories and an editorial on his work, Bell began to get offers from all over the country for the secret of his invention. Eastern sweet corn growers offered him money and all the acres he needed to continue his work. The University of Illinois offered Bell a scholarship to do his experiments under their guidance, he said. One man offered $5,000 cash for a half interest in the new method and expressed himself willing to take a gamble on the compound being practical for commercial use. The concern employing Bell now has taken an interest in his work and is experimenting with putting the compound on a commercial basis.

This summer Bell will set up several experimental plots at the Wheaton farm. Using his compound in a commercial fertilizer he will side dress the corn. The stalks will absorb the compound thru the roots and take on the unpleasant flavor—unpleasant, that is, only to the borer.

During the summer the stalks will be checked for borer numbers and compared with untreated sections of the field. Bell expects his work this year at the farm to give him the final proof he needs of the compound's efficiency.

★ The GARDEN ★

FLEA beetles are attacking several kinds of vegetables in Chicagoland gardens. These tiny insects are especially troublesome on young tomato plants and eggplants, but also may damage potatoes, beets, and other vegetables. They are black, about 1 1-16th of an inch long, and can be identified by their habit of hopping from one plant to another when the leaves are disturbed.

They make many tiny perforations, about the size of pinheads, in the lower leaves. Altho flea beetles rarely kill vegetable plants, they can weaken them and materially reduce plant yields.

These insects are controlled in the sample gardens on the Wheaton farm by a spray mixture of one level tablespoon of arsenate of lead to a gallon of water. Since this spray is poisonous, it must be discontinued when the vegetables are within two weeks of the harvest stage. Rotenone dust also will kill flea beetles, and is recommended for beets if the leaves are to be cooked as greens.

2 EX-NEW DEAL AIDS ADMIT GAS COUPON THEFTS

Tell of Fraud Involving Million Gallons.

Cleveland, O., June 2 [Special].—Details of the theft of ration coupons for a million gallons of gasoline, involving two former New Deal officials, were disclosed here today.

The two officials, C. Richard Allen, 42, and Robert A. Dissauer, 40, the latter of whom said he had received a death threat, pleaded not guilty today before Federal Judge Emerich B. Freed to charges of stealing the coupons. A federal grand jury yesterday returned a three count indictment against Allen, former district manager of the Cleveland office of defense transportation, and a one count indictment against Dissauer, former clerk of Cleveland ration board No. 6.

Allen posted a $15,000 bond and Dissauer a $5,000 bond, pending their trial on a date not yet set.

Charge 12,050 Coupons Stolen.

Allen is charged with the theft of 500 T coupons during the period from Feb. 9 to 14, of 2,000 T coupons on Feb. 21, and of 4,550 T coupons on March 28. The charge against Dissauer involves the theft of 5,000 T coupons on April 8. Each count carries a maximum of five years imprisonment and $5,000 fine.

Simultaneously, in Washington, D. C., Rep. Feighan [D., O.] introduced a bill directing the federal bureau of investigation to investigate black market operations in Cleveland. He charged "extremely serious and fraudulent operations in the Cleveland OPA and ODT offices wherein coupons for huge quantities of gasoline, food, and other rationed items were fraudulently being issued and placed on the black market."

Filled Out Blank Certificate.

In explaining the charges against Allen, OPA officials said that he, as an ODT official, procured from a ration board clerk a blank certificate of war necessity, which he filled out for the City Truck Lines company of Cleveland, a newly organized company, and presented to the OPA for the 500 and 2,000 T coupons involved in the first two counts.

OPA officials said that after the coupons had been turned over to Allen, the company notified him it had decided not to go into operation and did not need the gasoline. Allen, however, presented a third request for coupons and retained all three allotments, OPA officials asserted.

Details of the transactions charged against Dissauer were given in confessions by Allen and Dissauer to Capt. Herbert Murray, Cleveland detective chief.

Tells of Death Threat.

Shortly after Allen resigned his ODT post in March, Dissauer's confession said, the two men met on the street and Allen said he could use two million gallons of gasoline. A couple of days later, the confession related, Dissauer received a phone call from a man whose voice sounded like Allen's, telling Dissauer to "play ball or get your throat cut."

On April 5, Dissauer related, Allen gave him ODT certificates of war necessity for which Dissauer issued 5,000 T coupons and received $125 in return. The certificates were issued for the Motor Express company of Cleveland, whose officials deny having received any of the coupons.

A week later, the two confessions state, the two met in a downtown bank vault where Allen gave Dissauer more ODT forms in return for which Dissauer gave him 13 rolls of coupons representing 325,000 gallons of gasoline.

Tells of Bribe Payments.

Allen's confession, police said, reported that the pair met the same night in the wash room above the ration board and Allen gave Dissauer $1,625. Dissauer's version, however, is that he received between $1,000 and $1,200 for the two deals.

The investigation which resulted in the indictment of the two men followed the discovery on May 11 that gas coupons amounting to 57,000 gallons had been stolen from a safe at Dissauer's ration board.

During the investigation, Detective Inspector Frank W. Story said that Dissauer, father of five children, had entertained OPA and ODT officials lavishly on a $3,300 yearly salary.

Dissauer was dismissed from his job three weeks ago by Municipal Judge Joseph Artl, head of the Cleveland ration boards.

URGES CANADIAN PROVINCES RULE LIQUOR RATIONS

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

TORONTO, Ont., June 2.—Removal of the dominion government's liquor restrictions and the placing of full responsibility for both quantity and distribution upon provincial authorities was urged today by Premier George Drew.

In a prepared statement commenting upon the reduction in the monthly liquor ration from 26 to 13 ounces, the premier declared removal of dominion restrictions would be in the best interest of real temperance.

Referring to Quebec, where 80 ounces a month is the ration, the premier said: "There may be some good explanation for this striking contrast in the ration, but there can be no doubt of the effect of this situation upon the minds of those who come in contact with it. If each province is called upon to assume responsibility for the total amount available, such a difference becomes a question of purely local concern."

The premier disclosed that the Ontario government requested the dominion government 10 days ago to remove the liquor restriction and the request was turned down. This forced the Ontario liquor control board to reduce the ration.

[The Friend of the Yanks department will answer questions about the draft and military service, both in the daily columns and by mail if stamped, self-addressed envelopes are sent with the queries.]

W. R. M. writes: I am 27, married, and have three children. I have been working in a war plant for over two years and had a 2-B classification until June 23. I have received a notice to appear for a pre-induction physical which I took and passed. Since I am in an essential war plant, am I not entitled to a renewal of the 2-B classification? Can I appeal?"

ANSWER: If you have been placed in 1-A previous to the pre-induction physical examination, you can appeal if it has not been more than 10 days since you received the 1-A classification. The chances are, judging from your letter, you have not been classified 1-A but merely called for examination. If your local board decides that you are not a "necessary man" or a "key man," it probably will put you in 1-A shortly, after which you may appeal or your employer may appeal.

M. F. B. writes: "My brother, in Hawaii for two years, said he can obtain a furlough provided he can show his commanding officer he has $250 to "finance" the trip. I wonder what he means by "finance"? I thought the government provided him the transportation at least to the mainland. Does he mean he'll have to pay somebody $250 before he gets a furlough?"

ANSWER: The enlisted man's transportation would be paid all the way home on an overseas furlough, but if regular transportation is not available he may be able to buy passage some other way and that's probably what he has in mind.

J. W. S. writes: "On March 8 I sent a letter to the Army Finance office, St. Louis, requesting mustering out pay. I sent them a copy of my original orders to active duty as of Oct. 15, 1942, and also a true copy of the orders reverting me to inactive status as of July 24, 1943. I received a form letter dated May 15, 1944, returning my papers and stating that "inasmuch as notation of payment of mustering out pay must be placed on original discharge certificate or certificate of service, it is requested the same be submitted, together with a regular application form." There is also a notation, "When not available, officers will furnish other evidence of length and termination of service." I was an officer in the medical corps, so what other evidence can I submit?"

ANSWER: It is evident that you have run into a little red tape, so the best thing you can do is write to the place where you were separated from active duty and request certification which will enable you to collect the severance pay. The "evidence" you submitted was adequate according to their own notation.

M. D. C. writes: "I have a friend in England who keeps writing saying he'd give anything for a glass of good old American beer. He has mentioned it so often I feel guilty about it. Do you know if I might be able to send him some?"

ANSWER: Only 3.2 beer [none stronger] is permitted on a military reservation. If you can find a kind that he likes with that alcoholic content, there would be no restriction against mailing it to him.

ASK EXTRADITION WRIT FOR LOAN OFFICIAL IN EAST

Lansing, Mich., June 2 [Special].—Gov. Harry F. Kelly received today from Victor C. Anderson, Ingham county prosecutor, a petition for extradition from Newark, N. J., of Armand E. Robichaud, public relations counsel of the Beneficial Management corporation, on charges of legislative graft conspiracy. His 13 co-defendants were bound over for trial this week by Judge Leland W. Carr.

Robichaud has let it be known he will fight extradition. He was specifically accused at the hearing by Maj. Charles F. Hemans, a lobbyist, who said he was employed by small loan interests in 1939 to influence intangible tax legislation, and of having helped collect a bribe fund.

Meanwhile, the state tax study commission appointed by Gov. Kelly was taking up the problem of revising the intangible tax law whose form is now alleged to have been shaped by manipulations of special interests.

SMALLEST CLASS SINCE 1903 TO GET U. OF I. DEGREES

Urbana, Ill., June 2 [Special].—Five hundred and fifty seniors—the smallest group of June graduates since 1903—will receive degrees at commencement exercises Sunday afternoon at the University of Illinois.

In 1903 the total number of graduates was 530. In 1942 it was 2,698, and in 1943 it was 1,367. There have been two previous commencements during the current academic year, in October and February.

Commencement and baccalaureate services will be combined in one ceremony this year at which Dr. Carter Davidson, for eight years president of Knox college, Galesburg, Ill., will speak. The tentative list of candidates includes 425 persons to receive the baccalaureate degree and 125 to receive advanced degrees.

Woman Given Jail Term on Charge of Contempt

Mrs. Elizabeth Rubinkan Beatty, 49, of the Windermere hotel, was sentenced to 30 days in the county jail yesterday by Judge John A. She was arrested April 18 for violating the injunction. In 1938 Mrs. Beatty obtained a divorce from Vernon B. Beatty, advertising manager for Swift & Co.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., June 2.—The federal government is not practicing the economy in the use of automobiles it has forced on local governments and private citizens, according to a sharply critical report made to congress today by the senate-house joint committee on reduction of nonessential federal expenditures.

Sen. Byrd [D., Va.], who is being boosted by anti-Roosevelt Democrats as a Presidential candidate, is chairman of the committee.

More Autos Acquired.

The Byrd committee was especially critical of the fact that nonmilitary branches of government owned 3,015 more automobiles during the 1943 fiscal year than were reported at the end of the previous fiscal year. Altho 1,159 cars were disposed of during the year, the total registered as of June 30, 1943, was 19,161, compared with 17,305 the year before.

The committee reported, however, the total miles traveled by government cars during the 1943 fiscal year were 190,778,000, at a cost of $3,941,776, compared with 203,550,280 miles at a cost of $4,243,602 the previous year.

Pay for Private Car Use.

The figures do not tell the whole story of government automobile travel, the committee said, because the departments reimburse employes for the use of their personal cars. Five agencies reported they paid employes $7,261,856 for 145,606,241 miles of travel, according to the report.

The committee reported that eight states, New Hampshire, South Carolina, North and South Dakota, Nevada, New Mexico, Idaho, and Washington, reduced travel by state-owned cars in the period covered by the report by 49 million miles—a record more than four times as good as the federal government's.

The committee recommended dismissal and $1,000 fine for a federal employe using a government car for personal use.

The department of agriculture leads the government in automobile operation with 4,559 vehicles. Other departments and agencies with large fleets are: interior, 4,006 cars; justice, 3,204 cars; treasury, 2,572, and Tennessee Valley Authority, 1,017.

OPA Control of Hair-Do's and Shaves Turned Down

Washington, D. C., June 2 (AP).—An effort to bring beauty parlors and barber shops under price control was reported today to have failed in the house banking committee. An informed source said the committee, meeting behind closed doors, rejected an amendment to the price control act that would have given the OPA authority to roll back charges for hair-do's, facials, haircuts, and shaves. Rep. Crawford [R., Mich.] had suggested the amendment.

U. S. MAY DROP ARAB OIL LINE VENTURE—F. D. R.

Washington, D. C., June 2 (AP).—President Roosevelt raised doubt today that this government will go thru with its project of constructing a 1,250-mile oil pipe line across Arabia.

At his news conference, Mr. Roosevelt said that the project was now in the "iffy" stage and that this government was still talking with the British about the pipe line—who is to build it, and how.

Elsewhere, it was learned that the present plan, based on exploratory talks already held with the British, favors dropping the pipe line as a war-time measure and leaving its construction to private companies after the war.

The original proposal was for the government to build the line from American-controlled fields in Kuwait and eastern Arabia to Egypt or Palestine. Secretary of Interior Ickes, as petroleum administrator for war, announced last Feb. 5 that it would be done. He estimated the cost at 130 to 165 million dollars.

Would Build Smaller Line.

The companies involved are the Arabian American Oil company, owned by the Standard Oil Company of California and the Texas company, and the Gulf Exploration company, owned by the Gulf Oil corporation.

Oil experts said that if construction of the pipe line is left to private interests in the post-war period, it would probably be somewhat smaller than the government-planned 24 inches with a 300,000 barrel daily capacity.

The original proposal for a government-built line ran into a storm of opposition from virtually all American oil companies not included in the contracts.

It was supported by the navy as a defense measure, but if the revised idea is carried out, the pipe line would be chiefly a commercial venture.

British experts have indicated they are well disposed to an agreement which would assure respect for concessions of both countries.

President Roosevelt also said the United States has produced more than 175,000 airplanes in about three years.

In the first 91 days of this year, the President said, 4,400 planes were sent to our allies from the United States—at an average of 338 planes a week.

Between March 11, 1941, when the lend-lease act was passed and April 1 this year, more than 33,000 planes have been sent to the fighting forces of the other allied nations.

COIN BOX THIEF SENTENCED.

Accused of stealing a telephone coin box from a filling station, Robert Bucherau, 17, of 1968 Lincoln av., yesterday was placed under supervision until Jan. 12, 1945, by Judge Harry F. Beam in Boys' court.

PRIVATE ENTERPRISE IN WAR.

The Anglo-Russian parliamentary committee is circulating in London reprints of an article from the Russian journal, Bolshevik, praising the soviet's war machine, with particular emphasis on war industry and agriculture. The article, written by M. Kalinin, chairman of the presidium of the supreme soviet, extols the soviet system and discounts the contributions of the United States to Russia. It says nothing about the great number of superior weapons that Russia got from us and declares that lend-lease food is "only auxiliary—nothing more," adding that soviet agriculture is "the foremost in Europe."

The collectivists obviously are out to prove that their system of economy is the best, and it would be most difficult for them to complete that proof if they had to start off by attributing to a capitalistic power a large part of the credit for their successes.

Sensible people certainly will not deny the might of soviet Russia's armies as shown in their three year struggle with the best that Hitler has had to offer. Nor will any one be inclined to detract from the valor of the Red fighting men, their tenacity, courage, and skill, and the brilliant soviet generalship which resisted the siege at Stalingrad, has driven the German army back into old Poland, and has freed the greater part of Russia from the invader.

If the apologists for the communistic and socialistic systems are going to take credit, they would be wise to confine it to that type of success. When they start shouting about the might of the soviet war industries and soviet agriculture, they are exposing their chins.

Soviet Russia has a population of nearly 193 million persons, as against a population of about 132 million in the United States. It has an area of nearly 9 million square miles as against less than 4 million square miles in the United States and possessions. The bolsheviks have had more than 25 years to perfect their system of economy and have been able to draw upon the experience of the capitalistic countries liberally in developing industrial procedure.

With these facts acknowledged, any one would think that Russia, if communism is so superior, would have produced at least as much in war material and services as the United States, where the system of private enterprise still operates much to the disgust of the American Communists.

The Royal Institute of International Affairs, a British association, has published during the last few months a series of statistical accounts on the economic "war effort" of the principal nations of the world. Statistics of this type are extremely difficult to assemble for purposes of comparison because of the different systems of bookkeeping in the various countries, because of differences in exchange and purchasing power, and because a good deal of information has been kept secret.

Certainly the statistics in the Royal Institute bulletin are not loaded in favor of the United States. The British author, for instance, declares that the standard market basket, an economist's measure of food costs, sells for 75 per cent more in the United States than it does in England; American shipbuilding costs are known to be 60 to 100 per cent higher than English, and American "book costs" probably exceed those of the British by 50 per cent. Therefore, he sets the English pound sterling at between $6.50 and $10, instead of $4, the current rate of exchange. This may or may not be factually accurate, but it surely does not lead to any exaggeration of American achievement.

With due apologies for educated guesses and estimates where figures are lacking, the British author says that expenditures for war goods and services during 1943, at British prices, stack up about as follows [in millions of British pounds sterling]:

Russia	5,000
Greater Germany	9,000
United States	11,500
United Kingdom	4,000
British dominions	1,500
Japan	1,600 to 1,700

This means that the "war effort" of Russia is considerably less than half that of the United States, measured according to a British denominator which also places capitalist England and her dominions together about on an equal footing with communist Russia. The figures do not, in any case, credit lend-lease goods to the production of the country receiving them. In other words, Russia's figure is what she has done for herself in the war during 1943, which is what the Communists are talking about.

With a lot fewer citizens to do the work, and less than half the land area to draw upon, the United States produced more than twice the war supplies during 1943 that the Russians did under communism, and we had not yet reached our peak.

There is no doubt that Russia has done well by her standards, but America has done twice the job under an economic and political system which preserves rights and freedoms for the citizens found nowhere else on earth.

RADIO'S WAY TO FREEDOM.

Any one aware of the charges leveled against the federal communications commission will recognize that broadcasters are under constant threat of political censorship and political pressure. The power of the commission not to renew licenses is the power of life and death.

If America is to remain free its citizens cannot afford to have the radio dominated by a totalitarian governmental bureau. There is an easy means of restoring free speech to radio and that is to abolish the FCC. At the same time the libel laws that punish abuses of the printed word should be extended to cover the broadcast word. That done, radio wave lengths and the right to use them should become tangible property, to be bought and sold just as the transmitting equipment, the electrical current, the talent, and all the other things that go into producing and broadcasting a radio show are bought and sold.

This has always been a desirable solution of the problem and is now more desirable than ever because frequency modulation has opened a whole new field of broadcasting, with far more than enough channels to supply all who can make use of them. The advance of frequency modulation should lessen the demand for channels in the amplitude modification or regular broadcasting bands after the war. With property rights established in the wave lengths in both the frequency and the amplitude modification bands, broadcasters would be freed from political control and yet would be responsible to the public and to organized society just as newspapers are.

Nobody who wanted to start up a radio station would then have to have any political friends to fix the deal for him in Washington. He could buy his wave length along with his transmitting equipment. It would be his to hold or to dispose of. Misuse of the broadcasting privilege would be punishable under the libel laws, the fraud statutes, and the other similar acts and regulations.

GOV. BRICKER IN THE EAST.

Gov. Bricker grows in stature as he discusses the issues of the coming Presidential campaign.

One distinction between a politician and a statesman is that the latter has informed ideas and the courage to state them and fight for them. Such a man is bound to benefit by the test of a campaign. It is the candidate who is uncertain about his own principles, who is guided by expediency and seeks to trim his sails to the winds of local opinion who has reason to fear open campaigning. Such a man is deflated by the test. His trimming is exposed and the voters are discouraged instead of inspired by his ideas.

The sound political maxim not to waste effort on territory that is hopelessly lost lay behind Jim Farley's famous remark in 1936, when Alf Landon invaded California, then strongly pro-New Deal, that the opposition was throwing forward passes in the fourth quarter. Gov. Bricker might have made this maxim an excuse to stay out of New Jersey. That state was supposed to be in Willkie's vest pocket until Willkie collapsed and, more recently, in the ironic words of THE TRIBUNE'S Miss Winn, it has been reputed to be pulsating for Gov. Dewey.

Gov. Bricker did venture into the state, however, and his reception gave further proof of what has been apparent to any one who has troubled to look beneath the froth of a few internationalist newspapers and a noisy minority of social climbers. Americans in the east are no different from Americans in the middle west, the south, or the far west.

Gov. Bricker did not pull his punches to fit the toadying internationalism that has been erroneously imputed to the majority of easterners. He told the voters in New Jersey the same thing that he has told the voters of the middle west: that if there is to be an international police force capable of maintaining world order the majority of the policemen will be American boys; that while America must coöperate with other nations, we likewise have the power and right to insist that other nations coöperate with us. Coöperation cannot be one sided.

The primary purpose of a national political convention is to select the best candidate that the party can offer for the Presidency. The Presidential candidate is often, and accurately, referred to as the standard bearer of the party. Not only does control of the national administration depend upon his leadership in the campaign, but to a great extent victory in the thousands of other contests for state and local office. The delegates to the convention are the leaders of the state and local organizations of their party. They are interested, and properly so, not only in winning in the nation, but also in winning in their own areas.

The Republican delegates who gather in Chicago cannot fail to be aware of the leadership that Gov. Bricker promises thru his demonstrated ability to discuss the campaign issues honestly and courageously. Since the governor has increased the tempo of his speaking engagements, Mr. Roosevelt has attempted to assure the country that he will refrain from committing the United States to any scheme of extreme internationalism or super-government. The value of any such assurance is naturally questionable, but there can be little doubt that the President was forced to it by the progress that Gov. Bricker has been making as the only avowed candidate for the Republican nomination.

MR. PEPYS GETS HOT.

3d June—Have had a sultry and fretful week of not enjoying the sudden summer weather, which required costuming for a Turkish bath with hot showers, and now I know how our troops in Burma feel in the rainy season. Put on my tropical weave, my foulard tie, and peek-aboo shirt, but had to add to this dashing ensemble a slicker, gumshoes, and an old fishing hat. Must say, however, that the steamy air has improved the vegetation, for I have seen war gardeners yanking up their first crop of radishes.

Went to the theater to see a musical frolic called "Connecticut Yankee," and after inspecting the chorus girls decided they weren't what they used to be, but then I saw a cute little tyke in a funny blue hat, and said, "This is more like it." All of a sudden she turned out to be the show's secret weapon, for she had a part, and chirped songs, and danced like a butterfly, to much applause. Which proves that my old eagle eye has not lost its cunning in discovering soubrettes. Am adding this one to my collection, which began 40 years ago, labeled Anita Alvarez, a Mexican from Pennsylvania.

Back of the Art institute, at the sunken garden, discovered a statue of a tired old man on a horse labeled "Folke Filbyter," and my companion wanted to know who this character was. I told him to wait until I consulted my Swedish encyclopedia, but I have a private name for this statue, which is "Headin' for the Last Roundup." Saw many more figures in bronze around the pool in the garden, and from their twisted shapes decided they were relics of the Chicago fire.

Spent Decoration day at home doing two days' work, which is the reason why I call my Sunday column "Bookman's Holiday." Decided to stop looking for the invasion.

RELIEF AT ANZIO.

For weeks and months those gallant men held on
While skies were red and gunfire never ceased;
From glaring dawn to dusk, from dusk to dawn,
They watched and fought, as danger still increased.
Their wily, war-trained foes from hill tops fired
On youthful soldiers near the hard-won shore,
Not knowing that free youths were men inspired,
Whose courage grew as they should need it more.

Of Lucknow's pipes we've heard in song and story;
MacGregor's clan broke forth in Auld Lang Syne.
We cannot sing in full the meed of glory
For those who held that tortured battle line.
But since that awful beach head is secure,
No doubt of New World bravery can endure.

Ade as a Slogan Writer.

Linemaster: Shortly after George Ade was graduated from Purdue in '87, he was hired by H. L. Kramer of Attica, Ind., as advertising and promotion manager for his newly formed Sterling Remedy company. Kramer had just "patented" a new cathartic, and was in search for a name, a slogan, and some one who could get consumer acceptance for it. According to the legend around Attica, Ade named the product "Cascarets," and he also coined the slogan "they work while you sleep." But George soon became bored with writing health pamphlets and stuffers for patented medicine packages, and like all country boys, he had always wanted to see what made the lights so bright in the big city. He left Attica after about a year's service with Kramer, who soon afterward sold the company to an eastern syndicate for a million dollars. Mr. Kramer, unfortunately, lost his million, but George went on to fame and fortune.

In later years while talking of this brief experience in advertising, George said, "I didn't quit writing advertising, I just changed my pitch—that's all—changed from writing one type of fiction to another." Rex Gay.

[The magazine of Sigma Chi says that Ade's first job out of Purdue was with the Universal Remedy company of Lafayette, Ind., which sold Notobac and Universal Pills. H. L. Kramer was secretary-treasurer.]

MOON-SHOOTER.

I once met a fellow, as fortune befell,
Who, in spite of conditions, high water, and hell,
"Let's roll up our shirtsleeves, and shoot for the moon!"

He hated the fumbler, the stumbler, the staller;
But worshiped the do-it-right-or-not-at-aller.
"To live," he would say, "be a star and a stayer—

Too many among us still get by on bluff.
This world needs today, every last precious minute,
The kind of performance with perfectness in it.

"That tackles each duty with such all-out zest Results aren't so-so, or better—but BEST!"
God's grace on all doers who take for their tune:
"Let's roll up our shirtsleeves, and shoot for the moon!"

"No, sir."
"Are you glued to the floor?"

SKIN BLEMISHES AS A REACTION TO WOOL.

It is fortunate that illness among service men—who are closely grouped—can be traced to its source more readily than in a widely scattered population. In consequence, we may expect numerous advances in medical science.

The experiences of the staff of a military hospital, with skin rashes due to wearing apparel, may be duplicated among civilians. Within a short time after the issue of khaki, serge, and other textiles, largely wool, many of the trainees began to complain of itching. The areas involved were the legs and thighs chiefly.

Examination revealed marked redness, spotted here and there with an irregular patchy eruption. Congestion was deep and well beneath the surface. Soon thereafter, irritation spread to the groin and upward over the abdomen and the flanks. The lesions terminated abruptly at the top of the shoes. Apparently the hose protected the feet efficiently.

By means of patch tests, the victims were found to be susceptible to their clothing, or some element associated therewith. In a few instances, it was thought that scabies [itch mite] was the "starter." Many of the outbreaks resembled impetigo and it was assumed that scratching had contaminated the parts with staphylococci.

Careful study of the patients disclosed that a small number were suffering from dietary deficiencies. This was not because balanced menus were not provided. The answer lay in the fact that certain dishes were unpalatable to those with finicky appetites. A diet rich in vitamin C was helpful, not only as a preventive but in reducing the severity of the symptoms.

As soon as cotton clothing and blankets were substituted for wool the manifestations began to disappear. Apparently the disorder was not due to the dye, altho this may have made it worse. In some cases, the blemishes were observed only after prolonged and fatiguing marches, wherein considerable chafing was encountered. Here, profuse perspiration had softened the cuticle, rendering it more sensitive.

Calamine lotion was employed locally and, when this was used faithfully, all signs of trouble vanished within two or three weeks. Where impetigolike blisters and crusts were present, the remedy of choice was ammoniated mercury ointment, as high as 10 per cent.

One would assume that these victims would have displayed wool sensitivity prior to entering the army. Only 16 of more than 200 subjects gave such a history. This is significant, as the rigors of intensive training may have keyed up nervous reactions to the point at which the offender—hitherto resisted—would produce a violent effect.

It would seem clear that allergy may announce its unwelcome presence in a new and strange environment. We must recall that other tissues than the skin may react to this phenomenon. The nasal passages, bronchial tubes, and the digestive tract may respond in an abnormal manner.

Military life and activity may not give rise to many new diseases. There may appear, however, bizarre combinations not known in civil life.

EYE DISORDER.

H. H. writes: What causes glaucoma?

REPLY.

Anything which interferes with drainage from the eyeball. Infections, a drop in resistance, extreme fatigue, worry—are factors. If the malady is acute, it must be considered an emergency. Drugs are used to contract the pupil. Surgery may be required.

IT AIDS.

M. H. writes: Why is it necessary to take a basal metabolism test to determine whether the thyroid is functioning properly when typical symptoms are present?

REPLY.

TAKE TAN INSTEAD.

N. A. writes: Is it necessary to take cod liver oil during the summer months?

REPLY.

Not if you expose the bare skin to the sun at brief, but frequent intervals. Old Sol manufactures vitamin D in the cuticle.

BOTH SEXES.

F. L. writes: Can a man be afflicted with milk-leg?

REPLY.

Yes, but not from a pelvic infection. Any inflammation of a vein [phlebitis] will produce the same symptoms.

WAIT.

Mrs. O. writes: Our 2 year old daughter has a pilonidal cyst. When should this be operated on?

REPLY.

Wait until she is older—6 to 8 years of age.

ANTITETANUS.

Mrs. R. writes: Would it be advantageous for every one to be immunized against tetanus?

REPLY.

Curiosa Politicana.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

POLITICAL ARENA, U. S. A.—There's a man in Hopewell, N. J., who boasts that he has the most worthless collection of literature in the annals of collections. His name is Wheeler McMillen, he is editor of the Farm Journal, and he collects the published campaign biographies of Presidential candidates. So far he has amassed 50 or so, and every once in a while he sits back and wonders why.

All 50 of these books have one remarkable common bond. The text of each states boldly and without shame that the man you are reading about on its pages is just the finest, noblest American ever born and one certain to be elected next President of the United States. Few, alas, were, but the words extoling their virtues live on, despite the years and the fact that most of the books were picked up in junk shops.

As far as is known, the first campaign biography of America was a pamphlet for John Quincy Adams pushed into print for the 1824 campaign, but Mr. McMillen does not have a copy. The earliest in his collection is that of Andrew Jackson in the 1828 campaign. It is full of wood cuts and accounts of Mr. Jackson's prowess on the field of battle and is bound in sheepskin and, says Mr. McMillen, is "as true as any of them."

He has two published in 1843. One about John C. Calhoun was written by John C. Calhoun. The other, the life of John Tyler, was what really started Mr. McMillen on his hobby. His interest first had been aroused when he had lunch with a friend whose uncle had fought his uncle and at the battle of the Wilderness. "I knew we weren't much different," Mr. McMillen said, "so I wondered what had started it and I began reading biographies of that period. I found I had a dozen written as campaign biographies, so I decided to make a collection to be characterized as the most worthless biographies in existence, and I think I've got it."

He didn't open the Tyler biography for several years after he got it, and when he did he could find no author, so he wrote to the publishers, Harper's. Harper's knew nothing, so he wrote to Tyler's son, Dr. Lyon Gardiner Tyler, who wrote back in a quavering-hand that Arundah S. Abell, founder of the Baltimore Sun, was the culprit. Mr. McMillen was dubious, for he had read that the Baltimore Abells were Whigs and anti-Tyler, so he went to the library of congress. Turned out it was an Edward H. Abell, who was Tyler's messenger to Texas, the original Henry Wallace going to China, Mr. McMillen contends, in those troubled days on the border. Apparently the book did Tyler no good. He lost the election.

Not all candidates had writers who receded so gracefully into oblivion. Franklin Pierce's campaign biography in 1856 was written by Nathaniel Hawthorne, and Lincoln's best one was written by William Dean Howells. And if you tried for a week you'd never guess that Horatio Alger Jr. wrote that of James A. Garfield in 1880. Its title was prophetic, "From Canal Boy to the White House," for Garfield got in, but was assassinated six months later. The most valuable are Lincoln's first campaign book, a tiny thing of which Mr. McMillen has a facsimile, the Adams book, and the Hawthorne book.

A collateral type of campaign book was issued back in the days when politicians wore frock coats and cooed rather than snarled at their opponents. These were books gotten together in haste after the major political conventions. Each party would issue one, giving biographies of all the candidates for President and Vice President and the platforms of both parties. Mr. McMillen has one the Republicans issued in 1872, when Grant and Wilson were its candidates, and Horace Greeley the Democratic. It stated, as impartially as the next one, that Grant was everything a voter could desire, and that Greeley was an old mess.

As for F. D. R., Mr. McMillen says he hasn't had time to catch up with all the books out on him. "To be honest," he said, "I'm not a Roosevelt collector."

THE PARKE-DAVIS STRIKE.

Pineville, Ky., May 31.—What a disgrace to our nation to allow the strike at the Parke-Davis works where they make medical supplies for our fighting men and women. What kind of workers are these who will strike at a time like this?

Notice where the WLB has called a meeting of the union officials to discuss it? Where is Biddle and why don't he do something? Perhaps Parke-Davis are not running a mail order house. Are the CIO and fellows like John L. Lewis and Joseph Curran bigger than our government, or does the administration owe this bunch a debt and have to pay off? How long will Americans with loved ones on the faraway battlefields stand for such foolishness?

AMERICAN.

SHY NEW YORKERS.

New Castle, Ind., May 30.—Four years ago we had a choice for President of a New Yorker or a New Yorker. Now it would appear that we are again to have a choice of a New Yorker or a New Yorker. And remarkable it is that neither of these New Yorkers is a candidate but is bowing [and with what shy reluctance!] to the unshakable demands of a great people from coast to coast and, for aught I know, Hollywood. Let us hope and pray that neither of these shy gentlemen becomes for any reason incapacitated. One shudders to think what could happen to our great Republic if there should be no Roosevelt or Dewey to guide it. But wait! All is not lost! Hank Wallace is warming up in the bull pen. HENRY HAMMER.

BUMP CONVENTION.

White Pigeon, Mich., May 24.—Add to the Montgomery Ward dragout the action of Texas Democratic fourth-termers when they kicked Roberts' rules of order into the alley and bolted their state convention. Any political faction that refuses to play according to its own rules has no claim for support by law abiding voters. Having no regard for parliamentary rules, what can be expected if these bolters and their political partners are given the chance to further rip up the federal Constitution? LEON E. REED.

SIX YEAR TERM.

Kansas City, Mo., May 24.—Recently Sen. O'Daniel of Texas advocated one six year term for President. I have advocated that for 20 years. I am getting people to write in on their ballot this November—six years for a President, six years for a senator, and four years for a representative, then out they go and no federal office for them thereafter. In this manner we'll get good government and only good government. T. E. DOYLE.

YOU CAIN'T WORSE IT.

Chicago, May 29.—I can't understand why we keep taking pot shots at Tom Dewey, Gov. Bricker, Gov. Warren, or any other good Republican, for the worst Republican who ever lived on this earth will make a better President than any one of the crowd that presently occupies our national capitol.

FORMER NEW DEALER.

SKEEZIX' EXAMPLE.

Kansas City, Mo., May 26.—If Skeezix and his girl marry, I'll bet a million G. I. Joes and Janes follow suit pronto. I've got a son in California who grew up with Skeezix, and he's about ready to step off if Skeezix does. F. E. BREDOUW.

WAITING FOR A STREET CAR.

Chicago, May 30.—The time—Memorial day at 8 a. m. The place—Arlington and Clark streets. The characters—About 25 people waiting for a street car to take them to work. [Yes, thousands of people work holidays as well as other days, tho the Chicago Surface Lines ignores that fact.]

These people, I among them, waited 15 minutes. At 8:15 a Broadway car, jammed to the steps, came along. Only about four people could get on. About five minutes later a Clark st. car [for which most of the people were waiting] went past without even stopping. After another five minutes came another Broadway car, not so full. Then, in about five minutes, still another Broadway car, jammed. In 10 minutes another Clark st. car, with room for only two or three of the 30 or 40 waiting. After two more Broadway cars went past I did manage to fight my way onto a Clark st. car. That was the last stop it made, except to discharge passengers, until it got to Wacker-dr.

On every corner people were waiting. At North av., Division st., and Chicago av. at least 50 people were waiting, and were left waiting. I was over an hour late to work, as were thousands of others.

This has happened on every holiday for the last two years. I've written the company many times. I get nothing but apologies and promises for better service. Can't something be done to force the company to use its available cars on holidays?

GOODNESS SAKES ALIVE!

Chicago, May 30.—The hep cats at my school wish to present the comps to W-G-N for the top notch program last night. Attilio Baggiore has all of us droolin' an' not with schoolin' either. We're all that way about him. All he has to do is hit the high and we start soaring. It's a wonderful feeling for a bunch of slick chicks to get once a week, and we like it! E. F. P.

CRUEL BOYS.

Chicago, June 1.—"Bird Lover" writes that there is a maximum fine of $300 and a jail sentence of six months for killing a robin. Is there no penalty for the crippling of the robins by boys with guns and slingshots? There should be. I consider them more cruel than the murderous cat that kills its prey.

BRAZIL BEST BET OF HEMISPHERE, SAYS JOHNSTON

Has Most to Offer U. S. in War and Peace.

[This is the 14th in a series of articles by a Tribune reporter who has just returned from a tour of Latin America.]

BY STANLEY JOHNSTON.

Of all the countries in the western hemisphere, Brazil has the most to offer the United States in both war and peace. Colossus of the south as we are of the north, Brazil offers a combination of resources and willingness toward mutual development probably unequaled since the hey-day of expansion here.

Authorities have said Brazil has the largest population capacity of any country in the world. It has within its territorial limits the soil and other factors to accommodate 900,000,000 persons. These sources say the United States has capacity for 500,000,000 persons, China 475,000,000, India 400,000,000, and the U. S. S. R. 220,000,000.

4,000 Mile Coastline.

Brazil is larger than continental United States by 250,000 square miles—a territory almost the size of Texas. All the countries of Europe, with the exception of Russia, could be fitted within the limits of Brazilian territory. Its coastline, more than 4,000 miles long, is longer than the United States coastlines on the Pacific, the Atlantic, and the Gulf of Mexico.

Americans and Brazilians with whom I talked in Rio de Janeiro predicted that Brazil, because of her location and potential wealth, will be more important to the United States from both a strategic and profit standpoint than more publicized Argentina. By joining in the development of Brazil, which has the greatest, most undeveloped, and unexplored resources of any nation in this hemisphere, the United States could surpass Britain's profit and extensive influence in Argentina, it was argued.

"To assist in an expansion that will be mutually profitable," said G. Russell Whippo, representative of a Cleveland, O., motor parts company, on a tour of Latin America to organize post-war business, "it's the patriotic duty of every American manufacturer to endeavor to sell his products thru Brazil and other Latin American countries, and to buy from them as much as possible of his needs."

Second in Cattle Raising.

In the United States, Argentina usually is thought of as the most important South American meat country. But, in reality, Brazil is second in the Americas only to the United States in cattle raising and in exporting meat and meat products to North America.

Altho Brazil is an agricultural country, only 27,200 square miles of its total of 3,275,510 square miles—less than 1 per cent—is under cultivation. This 17,387,000 acres is planted with 4,133,000 acres of coffee, 6,919,000 of maize, 5,461,000 of cotton, and 1,315,000 of rice.

Brazil ranks first in the world in production of coffee, second in the production of cacao, and third in sugar and tobacco. Its 3,000,000 coffee trees are about three-fourths of the world's total. Brazil relies principally on that crop for foreign exchange, coffee amounting to between 60 and 70 per cent of her total exports.

56% Industrial Expansion.

Brazil possesses extensive coal and iron ore, the world's richest iron deposits being claimed for the area near Itabira where a huge steel plant is now under construction with United States money. Important gold and diamond deposits and other mining riches also add to the nation's present and potential wealth.

The industrial expansion of Brazil between 1938 and 1943 was amazing. Total figures on industry showed an increase of 56 per cent from $1,000,671,250 in 1938 to $1,565,000,000 last year. Rubber manufacturing jumped 1,120 per cent from $2,050,000 in 1938 to $25,000,000 in 1943. Altho once a great producer of raw rubber, Brazil has dropped in that field to 16,000 tons a year because of lower plantation costs elsewhere.

Brazil lacks railroads, good highways, and shipping. Its 21,208 miles of track and 3,575 locomotives are inadequate. Good highways are rare and shipping routes along the long coastline and on the big Amazon waterway need greater facilities for moving heavy freight from the industrial south to northern regions.

Passenger Travel Speeded.

Developing airplane routes are providing rapid passenger transport between populated areas, particularly since the United States built many excellent air fields there.

The Republic of the United States of Brazil, the official name of the country, was discovered by the Portuguese 120 years before the Pilgrims landed on Plymouth Rock. It was colonized by the Portuguese, not by Spaniards, and Portuguese is the national language. It is the only autonomous country of South America speaking a language other than Spanish, and has preserved its official language despite Dutch and French invasions.

Altho the population of more than 44,000,000 is made up of descendants of almost every major nationality in the world. Portuguese predominate. The Indian population is estimated at less than 1,000,000.

Home of Navel Orange.

Brazil has been free of volcanoes, earthquakes and hurricanes. Both her Paulo Affonso and Iguassu falls are considerably higher than our Niagara. Not all Brazil is in the tropics, snow flurries being common in the highlands of the southern states. Summer is from December to February and the winter months are June, July, and August.

The first navel orange tree planted in California came from Bahia, Brazil, and is kept as a monument in Riverside, Cal.

A soldier and four of his six children waited hopefully last night in a stock yards district flat for the return of the children's mother, who disappeared from their home at 4337 S. Marshfield av. on the day her husband arrived from Camp Callan, Cal., on furlough. The case was turned over yesterday to the juvenile court and the military affairs committee of the Illinois State Bar association.

Mrs. Viola Smith. [See last paragraph.]

The soldier, Pvt. John C. Bonilla, 33, found his six children at the home of their maternal grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Simon Moscoves, 4520 S. Marshfield av. John, 12, the oldest child, told his father that the mother, Mary, left the house shortly after she had been served with a warrant ordering her to report two days later in juvenile court for neglecting her children.

Drafted Last February.

Bonilla, who formerly made $60 to $65 per week as an engineer in a laundry, was drafted in February and since then his wife has received an allotment of $180 each month for herself and the children, John; David, 10; Paul, 7; Thomas, 6; Margaret, 4, and Rosemary, 2.

"It was hard for her," Bonilla explained, "Not the money. She had more of that actually when I was in the army than she had before. But the kids needed a lot of looking after. Sometimes one or the other of the older boys would run away for two or three days. While Mary was out looking for that one, one of the others would disappear. And she still had to look after the little ones."

Bonilla has received a 12 day extension on his furlough in order to locate his wife. He will report back at his camp June 17.

Another Mother Arrested.

Juanita Bowden, 20, alias Penny Gorman, sought for the last few days for the alleged abandonment of her two months old son, Edwin Gorman, yesterday was arrested by East Chicago av. police with William Gorman, 22, with whom she had been living at 8 E. Grand av. Gorman and Miss Bowden said they will request Judge Frank E. Donoghue of Women's court to marry them if she is arraigned Monday.

Judge Donoghue continued to June 13 a hearing on a charge that Mrs. Viola Smith, 21, of 6457 Eggleston av., neglected her two children, Richard, 4, and James, 16 months. She was arrested Thursday night after the children were found alone in her apartment. She told Judge Donoghue she had paid a girl to stay with the children.

BOY, 17, DROWNS; ALDERMEN SEEK BEACH OPENINGS

With the fourth lake drowning this week reported yesterday, three aldermen announced they will appeal Monday to a city council subcommittee to open beach facilities and to provide guards as soon as possible.

Yesterday's victim was Richard Pearl, 17, of 1500 S. Avers av., who drowned in the lake off the North av. beach when seized with cramps while swimming with two fellow students from Tuley High school.

Another boy also was drowned yesterday. He was James Napper, 5, of 3311 N. Sacramento av., who fell into the Chicago river from a rowboat moored near Roscoe st. His playmate, Louis Thuemling, also 5, of 3324 N. California av., ran home to notify his parents. The boy's body was recovered quickly, but efforts to resuscitate him failed.

Walter E. Wright, superintendent of city beaches, said it has been the policy not to open the 28 city beaches until the day after the public schools close—this year on June 23—because the water is cold and the weather uncertain. Aldermen Bohling [7th], Merryman [45th], and Waller [43d] said they will urge earlier opening of the beaches when they appear Monday before the subcommittee headed by Ald. Lindell [9th]. The committee was appointed to determine what should be done about the stones and tunnel muck removed from the new water tunnel and dumped near the Rainbow beach at 79th st.

Superior, Wis., June 2 (AP).—Marjorie Vattendahl today wore an engagement ring given her by Maj. Richard I. Bong of Poplar, Wis., the army's ace of aces, who is home from the South Pacific on a furlough. Miss Vattendahl and Maj. Bong were schoolmates at Superior State Teachers college. Miss Vattendahl told reporters she was "so thrilled and happy—and surprised." She did not disclose the wedding date.

British Figures Promise Youth Labor Shortage

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, June 2.—The declining number of youths among the British population was discussed in a pamphlet issued last night by the ministry of labor. In 1937 there were 3,250,000 boys and girls 14 to 18 years old. Now there are only 2,750,000 and by 1956, it was estimated, the figure will be 2,500,000. Youth labor will be dearer, the ministry said, urging that schools train more youths for careers.

CHILD KIDNAPED AT HER REQUEST, MOTHER QUOTED

Father Says Court Edict Gave Him Custody.

Morgan Park police said last night Mrs. Ella Skala, 7701 Stewart av., had admitted from her bed in the Englewood hospital, where she gave birth to a baby girl a week ago, that she had arranged the "kidnaping" of another daughter, Marilyn Lee Skala, 16 months old, from her divorced husband.

Rudolph J. Skala.

"I told one of my sisters to get Marilyn back," Mrs. Skala told police, "and I guess she did."

Taken from Grandma's Home.

Marilyn was taken yesterday afternoon from the home of her paternal grandmother, Mrs. Anna Skala, 10509 Claremont av., by a girl about 18 who asserted she was "from the health department."

The father, Rudolph J. Skala, head of an advertising concern at 608 S. Dearborn st., told police he was given custody of the child until June 12 in an order issued Thursday by Judge Robert J. Dunne in Circuit court. He said he telephoned the home of Mrs. Skala's sisters at 3150 Cermak rd. after the supposed kidnaping and heard a baby whimpering. A police squad was sent there last night, but reported that no one was at home.

Says Father Didn't Return Her.

The Skalas were married Aug. 15, 1941, and separated last April 5. Mrs. Skala obtained a divorce May 23 and was given custody of Marilyn with the provision that the child be allowed to visit her father over week-ends. He took the baby last Saturday, but failed to return her Sunday, Mrs. Skala said.

Judge Dunne's action on Thursday, however, permitted Skala to keep the baby pending a further hearing June 12 when the mother is expected to appear in court.

WRITER COMING BACK TO TELL OF VISIT IN FRANCE

LISBON, Portugal, June 2 (AP).—Alice Leone Moats, correspondent for Collier's Weekly, whose passport has been canceled, said she would leave for the United States by Clipper tonight. Miss Moats, who asserted she recently visited France for two weeks, said, "I am glad to return home to be able to tell and write my story there."

[The state department has declined to discuss her case, but stated that any one who entered enemy held territory and conversed with the enemy probably would lose passport facilities.]

HIGHWOOD CITY PAY CHECKS AND BUDGET TIED UP

Council Fails to Get Anything Done.

The Highwood city council, strengthened by the return of Mayor Charles Portilia, voted again and again last night, but it did not quite succeed in achieving its goal of undoing all the unofficial acts alleged to have been committed by Ald. Fidel Ghini when he was mayor pro tem. several weeks.

It takes five votes to pass a measure in the Highwood council and Ghini, smarting under the allegation that he was not a bona fide mayor pro tem. was illegal, but went on to that the mayor and his bloc of three members introduced.

Puts Damper on Spending.

In the stormy session, Ghini, aided by Ald. Guido Serafini, not only blocked approval of the council's official minutes, which were offered as proof that his election as mayor pro tem was illegal, but went on to prevent adoption of the city's $65,000 budget.

This put a damper on spending any money for any purpose whatsoever. Treasurer Edgar Benson said he would refuse to issue any pay checks or pay any bills until the ordinance is legally enacted, but this made no difference to Ghini.

"You're making an ass of yourself, Ghini," said Mayor Portilia.

Attorney Warns Ghini.

City Atty. Bernard Juron, who asserted Ghini forgot to cast a vote for himself when four other aldermen elected him mayor pro tem., warned Ghini:

"I'll advise the mayor not to let you talk unless you address the chair properly."

Ghini said he knew what he was doing. And he and his ally, Serafini, continued to vote against or not to vote at all on every bill or resolution that was offered.

The meeting was adjourned. Juron, his face crimson, said the session was a "farce" and, because of Ghini's obstructionist tactics, exactly nothing was accomplished. Further, he presumed, the city was handicapped without the right of being able to spend the taxpayers' money.

Ghini's Family in Dispute.

Outside, Ghini's mother, Mary, and Mrs. Paul Blum, widow of the late city collector, got into a little dispute, but it was a flurry compared with the storm inside.

So far as last night's session was concerned, Ghini hadn't lost a thing. His brother-in-law, Harold Snavely, to whom he issued a license to run a tavern in close proximity to a church, continued to operate the bar, and Police Chief John De Smidt, who quit, said he wouldn't return as long as he had to take orders from Ghini.

Court Orders Dice Girl to Return Cadet's $50

Miss Patricia McElligott, 22, of 6842 Yale av., a dice girl in the Capitol lounge, 167 N. State st., was required by Judge Joseph B. Hermes in Domestic Relations court yesterday to return $50 to George Von Sternberg, a naval cadet, who said he had left the money in his wallet on Miss McElligott's 26 game table while he went to a washroom. Judge Hermes said he would hear a motion for probation on June 12. The dice girl said she found the wallet.

Held to Grand Jury on Attempted Rape Charge

Bert Chick, 45, of 1200 W. 63d st., a printer who was seized May 22 after he had assaulted a woman, was held to the grand jury in bond of $1,000 yesterday by Judge Gibson in S. State St. court on a charge of attempt to commit rape. Neighbors of the victim, who is 34, beat Chick after he had seized her as she was walking home from a street car.

SYNOPSIS: Joseph Higgins, postman, delivers seven letters accepting service in Heron's Park military hospital, from Dr. Gervase Eden, Jane Woods, Esther Sanson, Dr. Moon, Dr. Barnes, Frederica Linley and Nurse Marion Bates. Within a year, one of the writers of these letters will die, a self-confessed murderer. Dr. Eden tires of his flirtation with Sister Bates. It's love at first sight when Dr. Barnes sees Frederica. During an air raid, Esther remains on duty to help Frederica. Joseph Higgins is brought in with a fractured femur, and Esther looks after him. A second victim arrives. During a lull, Dr. Barnes comes to the booth to see Freddi. He is followed by Dr. Eden, who kisses her. Sister Bates, finding him in the booth, creates a scene. To protect Freddi, Woods lures Gervase into a flirtation. Esther takes Higgins to the operating theater. Dr. Barnes gives the anesthetic, under which Higgins dies. The night Higgins was admitted to the hospital, a masked figure took the key to the operating theater from its hook. Inspector Cockrill asks Dr. Barnes to demonstrate his anesthetizing apparatus. At a hospital party, Sister Bates declares she has proof of the murder and goes to the operating theater to get it. She is found there, by Woods, murdered. Inspector Cockrill summons six persons—Dr. Moon, Dr. Eden, and Dr. Barnes: Woods, Freddi and Esther. None has an alibi. The murderer took two grains of morphia from the poison cupboard. All six have some morphia tablets. As Cockrill outlines his idea of the killing, Esther becomes hysterical. Next morning, before reporting for duty, Esther closes the window to keep the room warm for Freddi, who is unable to open it. Esther returns to find the cottage filled with gas and Freddi overcome. Cockrill shows Woods a clothes peg which had been inserted in the window and questions her about putting the shilling in the gas meter. Esther falls in love with William, the second air raid victim, and tells Maj. Moon. Woods joins them and they discuss possible motives for the crimes. Maj. Moon saw Gervase enter the nurses' cottage and come out a minute later. Cockrill visits William, who worked with Higgins in air raids and found him to be an awfully good fellow—one of the best.

INSTALMENT XXX.

WILLIAM QUESTIONED.

Cockle started a small conflagration at the wispy end of a new cigaret, and asked, "Do you know any of the other people concerned in this case?"

William drew deeply on his own cigaret, and replied that he knew Esther Sanson; she—well, actually she worked in this ward. "And I know little Linley; she was on night-duty here, before she got her head put in the gas-oven; and I've seen Eden in the ward, looking at his cases, and Barnes, of course; and Major Moon looked at my leg this morning, as the surgeon who originally did it is away on leave. He seems a nice old boy. My father used to know him on various committees and things; and Dr. Barnes too—this chap's father."

"Do you know Miss Woods?"

"No, she told Esther—she said she was coming to see me one day and make my acquaintance, but she hasn't turned up. I used to play with some children of that name when I was so-high; I wonder if she'll remember me?"

"I doubt it," said Cockle, dryly. "Tell me about little Miss Linley; you saw a good deal of her, that night you were brought in, I suppose?"

"Yes, she was marvelous to me," said William, at once. "I must have been a frightful nuisance having to be rigged up with this thing in the middle of the night, but she went about it quite calmly and coolly as if she had nothing else to do all night, and of course she was frantically busy really, poor kid. Even Higgins had to admit that she was wonderful, tho he didn't have much use for her, having seen her necking with her boy-friends earlier in the evening, in the booth next door. He said that she was terribly good to him; she never left the ward for a moment, and he didn't know how she kept it up, a fragile looking little thing like her. She's a funny girl, tho; I heard her talking to old Moon, night before last; in the booth he was telling her about his child being knocked down and killed by a man on a bicycle; and all she could think of by way of sympathy was to ask him politely what color the bicycle had been! Esther says it's because she's shy and rather inarticulate and that she would like to be friendly and sympathetic but she can't."

Cockrill would never have thought Frederica devoid of self-possession. "She seems rather—hard," he suggested. "Is she a good nurse?"

"O, the perfect article," said William, immediately. "She talks to you as tho you were a naughty and rather mutton-headed little boy, and quite convinces you that your leg doesn't hurt at all, really. She hasn't got any use for weakness or self-pity, but when things are bad . . . gosh, she's too sweet. The chaps simply love her. I must say, I like Frederica. I think she's grand."

A case was brought back from the theater, having crossed with the gentleman who had just gone up. The stretcher was just being wheeled off when one of the green robed figures suddenly jerked itself away and, advancing in a dreadful eddy of ether, cried lustily: "Hello, Inspector! Whatever are you doing here?"

"O, hello, Miss Woods," said Cockle, faintly.

"Keep an eye on him, will you?" said Woods to William, nodding casually in the direction of the prostrate victim in the opposite bed. "If he tries to sit up or anything, yell to him to lie down, and pipe up for the nurse."

Cockrill was much relieved to find that the patient was not to be left entirely to the limited ministrations of William; for Chalk—or was it Cheese?—emerged from the booth and stood over him for a few minutes. He sat silent for a moment, staring down into the crown of his hat, trying to formulate a question to put to William, and finally, looked up suddenly with the query on his lips. But it was never asked or answered; for William was sitting erect against his pillows with his hand to his mouth, staring into space, and muttering feverishly: "O! Where on earth have I heard that voice?"

Gervase Eden sat on the great wicker laundry basket in the lobby of the operating theater, and waited for Major Moon. "Where is the silly old beezer? He said he'd be here at seven . . ." The swing doors had been hooked back, and thru the doorway he kept his eye on the main entrance across the hall.

Woods came out of the theater and locked the door behind her. She pretended not to notice Gervase, sitting in the half-light, smoking his cigaret. The act was over. Freddi was, for some reason, refusing to have anything to do with him; she had seen nobody since her escape from the gas, but Barnes; and Barney had come back, radiant, from their first interview, and confided to Woody that Frederica had, all on her own initiative, suggested that they should get married very soon. There was no longer any need for Gervase to be distracted . . . But out of the corner of her eye she saw the turn of his head, the line of his thin, angular body, the movement of his nervous fingers, and when he said, "Hello, Woody!" her heart leaped and she said softly: "Hello, Don Juan!" and went over to him.

"O, heavens!" thought Eden. "O, gosh! Don't let her start!" He informed her as roughly as he could that she had a dirty mark on her face.

Woody went rather pink. "O, Gervase, have I?"

"Yes, you have," he said, "and it looks awful." But it looked very sweet, really, and a little bit pathetic, and he drew her to him and took the handkerchief out of her hand and wiped the mark gently away. "Now you look a clean girl," he said, and he gave her a little shake and added, quite involuntarily, "O, Woody, I do like you!"

Woody's heart melted within her. "Do you, Gervase?"

"Yes, I do" he said. "You're so——" He broke off and improved the shining hour by improvising: "You're such a good friend, Woody. You don't get sentimental and silly and take things too seriously; you can have a little petting party in the evening and just be ordinary again next day. And if a man kisses you, you don't go off the handle and run around screaming that you've been robbed of something above rubies."

"It would be a bit comic if I did," Woods said dryly, "at this stage of my career."

EAST ST. LOUIS MAN NAMED TO PUBLIC AID POST

The Illinois public aid commission yesterday elected Harold G. Baker of East St. Louis as secretary to succeed A. F. Shafter, Decatur industrialist, who resigned from the commission a few days ago, and was replaced by Samuel Bradfield of Decatur. Baker has been on the commission since Nov. 15, 1941. He is an attorney.

The commission acted to aid Bloom township, which is in financial trouble, it was reported, because of the 100 per cent property valuation adopted for tax purposes in Cook county this year. The township was allowed $9,907 for relief costs in June, despite the fact its relief levy for 1944 would raise $125,000, or more than enough to pay all its own relief costs.

The commission's action was taken subject to a legal opinion to be asked of Atty. Gen. Barrett and expected to be given early next week. The action came after the township attorney had represented that probably not more than $31,000 of the $125,000 can be collected, because the relief levy is nearly triple last year's and "there will probably be many protests." Bloom is the only township in the county, outside Chicago, asking state aid to pay for relief. The township has 173 relief cases.

COP SHOOTS TWO HE SAYS HIT HIM AND TOOK CLUB

Two young men described by police as toughs who delight in tormenting patrolmen on the beat were shot last night by Policeman Mark Maystrovich, 41, of the South Chicago station, who asserted one took his patrol club and struck him on the head in a quarrel in front of 8458 Burley av.

The two shot, Gus Welk, 21, 8456 Green Bay av., wounded in the groin, and Walter Wegner, 27, of 8027 Manistee av., hit in the right leg, were in a crowd gathered on the sidewalk. When Policeman Maystrovich, a veteran of 10 years' service, told them to "move along," Welk, he said, retorted: "I took a club last night and I'll do it again."

Welk took his club and hit him and then Wegner attacked him before he drew his revolver and fired once at each man, Maystrovich told Lt. James Daley. Daley said Welk was placed on probation for robbery in 1942 and that Wegner had been arrested for tampering with an automobile and fined $100 for attempted rape. Welk and Wegner, neither seriously wounded, were taken to Bridewell hospital.

BY JUDITH CASS.

MR. AND MRS. CHARLES ALLIS BALL of Winnetka are looking forward to next week when they will meet for the first time the young woman who today is becoming the bride of their son, John W. Ball, a quartermaster second class in the navy. She is Miss Phyllis Hahn, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Phillip Hahn of Seattle, Wash., where the wedding is taking place. Mr. Ball, who is on furlough after having served a year at sea, will bring his bride to Winnetka for a brief visit.

Miss Hahn attended the University of Washington and Mr. Ball was graduated from New Trier High school and attended Dartmouth college before entering the navy. One of his brothers, Charles Jr., who has just received the commission of ensign in the navy from the midshipman school at the University of Notre Dame, is at home on a short leave and so will meet his new sister-in-law. Mr. and Mrs. Robert W. Rosene will open their home in Wilmette for a cocktail party from 5 to 8 p. m. tomorrow to which members of the North Shore Service league of the Chicago Maternity center are inviting their husbands and guests. Mr. and Mrs. Theodore W. Robinson will observe their 53d wedding anniversary quietly today.

Romantic News.

Manning of Sheridan rd. announced the engagement of their daughter, Barbara Lee, to Warrant Officer [j. g.] Edward Frank Kaye of the army, son of Mrs. Frank L. Kaye of Wilmette. White Collar GIRL

BY RUTH MAC KAY

The Slow Climb.

A business man, writing a letter of recommendation a day or so ago stated: "Miss C. is ready for a responsible position; she has profited from her apprenticeship."

The one to whom the letter was addressed studied it a moment then remarked on how seldom we hear that word in these days of abnormally hurried employment and quick turnover. The training period, the serving of apprenticeship to some one more experienced—all this is foreshortened now to meet the demands of war time employment.

An accelerated business career, like an accelerated school curriculum, leaves something to be desired. Unless the newcomer to the business world has vision, her rapid rise may be her fall—if she fails to see the steps.

"How can I run a candy business like yours?" the girls ask the owner and manager of a tremendous candy company.

"Can you cook?" the owner asks.

The girls hesitate . . . well . . . no . . . but does that matter? They can trim windows . . . they can sell . . .

"I made candy for years," the owner explains. "I made it for church socials; I made it for my friends and I'm still making it in my candy kitchens every day, testing and cooking . . ."

Sometimes the girls understand. Sometimes they don't. They have their young eyes fixed on the top job and that's right. But their eyes don't focus on the laborious steps to the top.

Bachelor Bookkeeper.

When I asked our bookkeeper
Why he never wed,
He replied his main concerns
Were figures in his head.

AL SPONG.

A Satisfied Employe.

Why is there one in every office? I mean the older girl employe who has been with the company a long time, feels no one can do the work right but herself yet fumes constantly about the wages, the long hours, and the general management, with the result that she gets the newer girls to complaining along with her. If she isn't happy in her job, why doesn't she find another one? Or if she wants to keep her job, why isn't she loyal enough to admit it?

SATISFIED EMPLOYE OF A GOOD COMPANY.

It Sticks in the Mind.

The comment of a white collar girl that, tho she didn't like summer, she at least didn't have to worry about her boss opening her desk drawer and finding her snuggies in it.

The career girls portrayed by Rosalind Russell and such who always show a hard bitten business girl softening and the mute wonder [from the back row of the balcony] why no one ever portrays [on the screen] a white collar girl toughening up?

Miss Ruth McKenna will be graduated from the Girls' Latin school tonight.

Women in War Work

By Dorothy Johnson

Over meat counters of several food stores in Chicago and suburbs, customers these days are receiving feminine smiles along with beef roasts and steaks in exchange for ration points. The smiles aren't rationed. They belong to "butcherettes" who have left ordinary peace time jobs to take up the cutting and selling of meat to relieve the war time shortage of men butchers.

The women butchers are not required to know how to cut meat, but with the aid of a manual they're learning and, store managers say, have become proficient. Customer reaction is highly favorable to women behind the counters. So far, there have been no complaints of steaks cut on the bias.

A representative woman butcher is Miss Mary Tevlin, who wields the knife and cleaver in the meat department of a store in Melrose Park. She first helped relieve the labor shortage by working as a grinder in a war plant manufacturing airplane motors. She left that job because of temporary ill health and, after recovery, went to her present position.

Miss Tevlin lives at 3806 Butterfield rd., Bellwood, with her parents and sisters, one of whom, Julia, also is in war work, at the Buick plant. Mary is making post-war plans. Right now she thinks she'll open a meat market of her own.

Miss Mary Beard, national director of the Red Cross nursing service, official recruitment agency for navy nurses, yesterday announced that the new quota for enlistments in the navy nurse corps, to be filled by July 1, is 1,800.

The appeal for recruits is an emergency because the normal quota of 500 nurses a month has not been met successfully thruout the nation, Miss Beard said.

"Because an increasing number of navy nurses are being sent overseas, we must provide for new appointments, as well as for the normal number of replacements," she added. "Nurses now classified 1-A by the procurement and assignment service of the war man power commission are asked to report immediately to their local Red Cross recruitment stations."

Mrs. Erma Brannon heads the nurse recruitment program for the Red Cross in Chicago. Graduate nurses, 21 to 39 years old, inclusive, are eligible for navy service.

Mrs. Brannon's headquarters is in room 400, 529 S. Wabash av. Prospective enlistees are asked to appear in person or to call Wabash 7850, extension 322.

Summer's Here —Play Clothes Tell the Story

BY REA SEEGER.

Summer is really here! Fans are in use, geraniums are decoratively massed in freshly painted green window boxes, and the summer's sun and play clothes are here.

You'll never know how far the designers would go with brilliant color or with new ideas until you shop these newly unpacked showings. For example, there are taffeta shorts and slacks in dizzy plaids, shorts made of ribbed silky looking material like corduroy and soot black jerseys teamed with lush flowered tropical printed rayon sheers. It's going to be a gaudy sun season, judging by this loot—and aren't all the men going to have fun whooping over such giddy ensembles on mid-western beaches and along country lanes?

If these exuberantly patterned play togs are too, too much for your adventuresome soul, try cool cotton play clothes. Ginghams, certainly safe and controled, come in the usual precise checks and stripes. Apron dresses, complete with cotton fringe, cotton braid, and the good old contrasting colored rick rack braid are made of percales, piques, the very cool cotton meshes, and a few seersuckers. Chambray dresses or play clothes are practically non-existent.

The smartest play clothes are those made of dull black coarsely woven cottons, like butcher's linen, cotton shantung, and the rayons. The inseparable units of wrap around or button-on skirt teamed with a play suit of attached blouse and shorts, still are tops. The jumper dresses and the pinafores are second. The apron and pinafore are popular because a brief bolero of the same or harmonizing color turns the too-exposed and casual pinafore into a street costume.

Thru the Looking Glass

From the notebook:

We should look good, girls. According to the office of war information $594,000,000 was spent for beauty aids in 1943. That's a cool $199,000,000 more than was spent in 1935. Of course some of that purchased talcs, colognes, and toiletries for men, which have a wider acceptance every day, but the bulk of it went for cosmetics for women. Last year we women bought 120,000,000 lipsticks. There is every indication that this summer we will spend more money than ever before on leg makeup of one kind and another, and on deodorants or anti-perspirants.

An item that should be of greater importance than usual to most of us this summer is the protective or dressing for the hair that will help counteract the ill effects of sun. Using a protective of some sort before you go out of doors, wearing a bandeau in intense heat and wind, and brushing the hair more vigorously than you've been accustomed to will save you time and money in the fall. You can, by caution, eliminate the necessity for costly reconditioning treatments—which are not always possible to get in crowded areas where beauty shops are understaffed—and you can double the chances of the success of your fall permanent. One of the houses has a liquid protective that can be sprayed on the hair as often as outdoor activity in summer demands.

And this will be a big summer for hair ornaments. A flower, a perky bow, or a colorful net or snood can make you look crisper and cooler on hot days. A head band to which small white and yellow daisies were stitched was the prettiest ornament we have seen in months. The artificial flowers and the bows, tho, must be immaculately clean; tired, soiled ones are a complete failure.

On the Aisle By Claudia Cassidy

Dancers at Work.

Sitting on park benches has innumerable attractions, from feeding pigeons and gazing idly at passersby to just sitting, but the little huddle of people on a convenient bench opposite the Fine Arts building have discovered something special. They are having a ballet preview. The wide window across the street opens into the studios of the Ballet Repertory company, and the dark head whirling past it could belong only to Leonide Massine. If you watch long enough, you may also glimpse Svetlova, Hightower, Marie-Jeanne, Eglevsky, Dolinoff, and young George Zoritch, who used to be Yura in the Ballet Russe playbills. That game of follow the leader means they are rehearsing Massine's "Fantasie Poetique" for its June 13 opening at the Eighth Street theater.

Karen Conrad.

Across town, at the Civic Opera house, there is more privacy, but probably as much dancing. Karen Conrad, who used to dance Ballet theater's "Bluebird," with Dolin, and who turned comedienne to replace Baronova in "Bluebird," is the ballerina of the operetta season opening next Friday with "Rose Marie," and Vannessi is at work on the "Totem Tom Tom" number, directed by Carl Randall instead of "Boots" MacKenna, originally announced. Vannessi's name was Van Ness before she was stage struck. She once made a team with Frances Williams, supplying the ebony head as foil to platinum and later followed Mistinguette in "Innocent Eyes." For her new role as Wanda the Indian girl she claims a Navajo grandfather.

Twinkle, Twinkle.

The Friends of Astrology will present "The Music of the Spheres" in the Kimball building Monday, evening "at the astrologically selected" time of 8:18. There will be an astrological commentator and the musical director is Charlyle Goffreiere, who sounds numerological. Typical of the program is that the sun will be represented by "Hymn to the Sun," while "Clair de Lune" takes care of the moon and Wagner's "Evening Star" of Venus. There also will be refreshments. Milky Ways?

About People.

The American Federation of Musicians says you are invited to its convention concerts in the Stevens hotel, which must mean as many as the place will hold in addition to delegates when Marian Anderson sings with the Chicago Symphony Monday noon and Grace Moore with the Woman's Symphony next Wednesday evening. . . . Gov. Kerr of Oklahoma says "Oklahoma!" has helped remove the sting from the hated word, "Okie." . . . Sam Goldwyn and Katharine Cornell agree on at least one thing, that war time is no time for war plays. . . . George Czaplicki, the Polish baritone, has composed a "Song of the Airmen," with a lyric by the Polish poet, Mieczyslaw Niedzwiecki. . . . After all those "$10,000 a week negotiations" with W. C. Fields, Fred Sullivan will be "Alaskan Stampede's" leading comic. . . . Paul Lucas and Ricardo Cortez have been signed for the stage version of "Tucker's People."

You may have read recently in this column a letter from a mother who expressed her enthusiasm for the Boy Scout and Girl Scout and Campfire Girls organizations. She spoke also of her own work as a "Den Mother" in charge of Cubs [the junior Scouts].

Not only for children who are aimless or inclined to stay too much by themselves, but also for those who are left too much to their own devices, Scouting provides entertainment, as well as education and training for boys and girls. Unfortunately, it has become impossible in practically all of the work being done with young persons to find enough leaders.

Obviously the ranks of the Scout masters have been hit, but there are still the women and some of the older young men in reserve.

If you want to do a fine American war job on the home front, without having to leave your family, look into the possibilities of being a leader in any of these fine organizations.

Altho the following statement applies only to the New York area, it gives you an idea of what is needed and some of the results already achieved.

"Since Feb. 1, when the Girl Scout Council of Greater New York started its recruiting campaign for adult volunteers to act as troop leaders, assistant leaders and committee people, over 500 women have signed up for this important youth development work thruout the city, and 1,875 of nearly 8,000 young girls on troop waiting lists have been enrolled in Scouting.

"In the five boroughs, courses are now being given at the Scout headquarters to equip women new to Scouting with a full background on the organization and prepare them for capable leadership and committee work. In addition to this 'academic' training, many women who have designated that they wish to work as troop leaders, are placed immediately in troops as assistant leaders, thereby getting valuable field training, or direct contact with the youngsters, so that when they have finished with their training courses they are able to assume leadership responsibilities at once. This is being done so that as many troops can be formed as quickly as possible for the many thousands of children who are waiting to join. Previously the field training did not come until after the volunteers had finished their training courses."

700 Attend Luncheon as Climax to Annual Clean-Up Drive Here

Seven hundred persons, including nearly 500 elementary and high school children, attended a luncheon in the Terrace Casino of the Morrison hotel yesterday, climaxing the annual clean-up campaign sponsored by the community service committee of the Chicago Association of Commerce.

John R. McGregor, chairman of the committee, introduced school officials and Loretta Jozwiak of Mount Greenwood elementary school was chairman of a symposium in which pupils told of the values of the "clean-up, paint-up, light-up, plant-up" campaign last spring. Chicago school children collected 7½ million pounds of scrap metal and are collecting a million pounds of paper a week, making national records in both activities, Eleanor Shableski of Kosciuszko school announced.

According to Culbertson

[Copyright: 1944: By Ely Culbertson.]

North-South selected the wrong trump suit for their grand slam venture in today's deal, but a defender helped them out with some highly injudicious discarding.

The bidding:

South	West	North	East
1 heart	Pass	1 spade	Pass
4 hearts	Pass	6 hearts	Pass
7 hearts	Pass	Pass	Pass

There was nothing cowardly about South's last bid! The fact was, however, that seven diamonds would have been a fairly sound contract, requiring only a three-two break of the diamond suit.

Against the actual seven heart contract, West led the diamond jack. Declarer drew three rounds of trumps, ending in his own hand, and when he saw East discard the spade nine, he led another round "for luck"—and because there wasn't anything else to do. On this fourth round declarer had the vision [or was it inspiration?] to discard the club ten from dummy. East, for reasons that will never be known, completed his "echo" in spades by discarding the deuce. This gave declarer a new lease on life. He led his singleton spade to the ace and ruffed a spade, cashed his top diamonds and then led the diamond six to dummy's seven. Now a second spade ruff set up dummy's fourth card in that suit and declarer could discard his worthless club.

Admitting that East could not know that the diamond seven would provide an entry to dummy, it still would be interesting to know why he kept clubs in preference to spades!

Looking at Hollywood

By Hedda Hopper

HOLLYWOOD, Cal., June 2. — Can't believe Metro's serious about dusting off "Three Weeks" for a remake by Hedy Lamarr and Walter Pidgeon. Present day audiences would laugh anything as outdated as that right off the screen. When it was being made way back in 1924, "Props" had the greatest headache. Every time Aileen Pringle and Conrad Nagel used the bed of roses, he had to go over the derned thing with a curling iron so that each petal would look fresh and unmussed. Why not release it as is, and give us all a laugh? . . . Mary Martin won't return to Hollywood unless she can do the picture of "One Touch of Venus," even tho Paramount has used every trick to get her back. . . . On the other hand, Kenny Baker is so happy to be bedded back in his Coldwater canyon home. . . . Remember Baby Rose Maria? She returns here for a date at Slapsie Maxie's.

Maybe This Is It.

Fred Brady's been borrowed from Metro and given the lead opposite Marjorie Reynolds in "Three's a Family." . . . Veronica Lake is a much chastened young woman on set of "Out of This World." Anyway, Diana Lynn and Eddie Bracken have more important parts than hers. . . . Since Mrs. Casey Robinson is en route to Reno for a divorce, which paves the way for Casey to marry Tamara Toumanova, it can be told that there's an ironic twist to the story. Two years ago when Tamara was doing a ballet picture at Warners, Casey asked his wife and two daughters over to the studio for luncheon and to watch her dance. They were introduced to Tamara, who turned to her mother and said, "This is the happiest family in all of Hollywood." And it was. . . . Munts Hall, a Dead End kid, is in the midst of the friendliest divorce here. He and his wife are still together.

I'm Sure You'll Agree.

I'm glad Charles Coburn was chosen as screen father of 1944 for Father's day, but the real father to be honored on that day must be Joe E. Brown. . . . Rouben Mamoulian and James Cassidy are huddling over whether the latter will direct "Green Mansions." . . . Soon as Glenn Ford goes overseas, Eleanor Powell will do personal appearances with "Sensations of 1945." . . . June Vincent is over her bronchial attack and ready for "Can't Help Singing." . . . Dale Evans has had an interesting proposal from her former employer in Dallas, Tex. It was he who first discovered she could sing. He'd like her back, and if she returns, he'll give her an interest in his insurance agency, and her own radio show. She's considering it.

New Life in Charles—at 72.

Charles Mendl's friends will be pretty startled if they listen to Orson Welles and Loretta Young doing "Jane Eyre." Charles plays the minister who marries them. He's enthusiastic about starting a new career at 72. Same day he settled for this job he also had a conference and voice test with Carlton Morse of "One Man's Family." Charles knows about voices. He was a pupil of the famous Jean de Reszke. For 20 years he was special press counselor for the British government in Paris. . . . Three WAVES are acting as experts on "Here Come the WAVES" set. Cutest is Lt. Kit Quinn. She's so unimpressed with Hollywood and all its trappings.

Slick Chick.

Donald O'Connor got $1.25 to see himself in "Follow the Boys." The theater at his camp was so packed he couldn't get in, so he worked as an usher. . . . Which reminds me that Tony de Marco, who has an interest in the Beverly Hills hotel, can't get a room there. . . . Dinah Shore flies to Kansas City June 13 as guest on the Burns and Allen show helping launch the fifth war loan drive. . . . Helen Forrest is a pal. She's furnished a nursery for Martha Raye in triplicate. . . . The reason Steven Hannagan is back in town: He took on advertising campaign for Jack Benny's new sponsor. That will keep him out here a third of the year, without any other excuse necessary. He doesn't expect to be in Chicago during the Republican convention, but will travel thruout the middle west, getting its reaction to what's going on in Chicago. Tells me William Jeffers won't be there, either.

Household Forum

By Louise Bargelt

Mrs. John C., Chicago—We have been toting quite a lot of garden equipment some distance, back and forth from garden to garage, where we store it. Why not, in post-war houses, place garage close to garden area? It would be a step saver, and after the war most of us still will be garden minded.

Mrs. H. Boleman, 338 E. 99th st., Chicago—As my very young girls outgrow their aprons I cut off the bib part and use the lower part for aprons for myself. They serve the purpose, especially when one is working in the kitchen, and are small and easy to iron.

Mrs. Bob F., Clinton, Ia.—I save those heavy folding bags in which gelatin is sold and as they are quite leakproof they make good picnic or lunch box containers for pickles and all sorts of juicy foods.

Every Father to Have His Day—June 18

That's the day he will really be the man of the house he likes to think he is, the day he will don his new tie, sit around in his shirt sleeves, and smoke his pipe in peace. And if his war working wife and daughters will forgo wearing slacks for 24 hours, he can wear the pants in his family once again.

If there are any of his favorite cigars in stock and if there is an extra A coupon on hand for a bit of gasoline, dad may have a chance to enjoy a few pre-war pleasures along with the loving attention he will receive from his devoted family.

Altho he will have to pay for it when the bills come due next month, dad will be remembered by all the family with neckties, socks, shirts, smokes, handkerchiefs, tools for the war garden, and perhaps new curtains for the guest room.

This being "king for a day" will be a welcome relief to the bread winner of the family who, on all other days of the year, is charged with the responsibility of fixing the furnace, paying the bills, repairing the leaky roof, and doing a hundred other little odd jobs.

The idea of putting dad on a pedestal for a day is 34 years old, and it was a woman who originated it. Because she was grateful for the way her father accepted the responsibility of being both mother and father to his six motherless children, Mrs. John Bruce Dodd of Spokane, Wash., suggested the idea, and the first official observance of Father's day was held on June 17, 1910.

For a number of years the day was pushed around the calendar, but in 1923 it was stabilized, and since then Father's day has been the third Sunday in June. Various flowers have been proposed for Father's day, but roses recently were proclaimed the official flowers. Red roses are worn to honor living fathers and white roses in memory of those who have died. However, this year a war time shortage of white roses makes any white or red flower official for the day.

To insure proper recognition of Chicago fathers this year, more than 2,500 civic organizations are working with the Chicago Retail Merchant's association to make the Father's day observance the most extensive in history.

Crocheted Rug

A Well Kept Hand Needs Grace, Too

BY ANTOINETTE DONNELLY.
[Copyright: 1944: By News Syndicate Co., Inc.]

You get your manicure, or, you give yourself a manicure. Your hands are appreciably cheered up. They look so much nicer than they did before. "That's the way they should be all of the time," you say. And that's the way they have to be if you're selling over a counter, if you're modeling or acting in other specified vocational roles. It's the way those always neat and smartly groomed girls keep theirs. With the date look about them and a lovely look it is!

But where do you go from there with the pretty digits? On to better and smoother action with them? More grace of hand movement? More wrist ease and suppleness?

With all girls able to get or give the same kind of manicure, be able to use the same nail shade, hand beauty also means graceful gestures. Indeed, so potent is this graceful art that women with hands no sculptor would look at may be known for their lovely hands.

Hands are like speech when you come to think of it. They talk nervously sometimes, perhaps wildly. They frame their expression indolently, awkwardly, even raucously. Yet, they can relate a tale with the utmost grace, charm, and intelligence.

Betty Grable's Latest Movie Light and Gay

"PIN-UP GIRL."

A 20th Century-Fox picture, directed by Bruce Humberstone, starring Betty Grable, and presented at the State-Lake.

By Mae Tinée.

Good Morning!

A story so naive your own cheelld might have written it serves as clothes horse on which to hang the songs and varied technicolored charms [especially Betty Grable's] of this movie. As you may suspect, this is the last film Betty made before the baby came.

She plays a glamorous maiden of Missoula who has been popular in the local U. S. O. and is engaged to and pin-up girl of some 500 devoted service men. . . . As the action opens she and a girl friend are about to depart for Washington to take government secretarial jobs. . . . They stop off in New York, where, due to Betty's ambition and imagination, they have hectic adventures.

Betty meets, loves, and is loved by the hero of the hour—a navy man just returned from Guadalcanal. . . . She is mistaken for a star of a show which has just closed. She finds herself so entangled in varied predicaments that she—and the girl friend—run away, land in Washington, and take over. . . . Hither come the hero and his boy friend and the comedy of errors goes on its foolish way—to conclude, of course, with all romantic wrinkles ironed out.

Welfare Gifts of Community Trust $163,272

The annual report of the Chicago Community trust shows that in the last year 123 health and welfare agencies received $163,272 and educational institutions were allocated $50,075 from trust income, the capital account of which now amounts to $10,846,070. These figures were made public yesterday by Frank D. Loomis, secretary of the trust.

Of the appropriations to schools and colleges, $22,085 was for scholarship awards from the William J. Cook fund. Sharing in these awards were 116 young men, graduates of Cook county high schools.

The Chicago Community trust, described as the largest of 78 similar foundations in the United States and Canada, has completed its 29th year. Its entire net income is devoted annually to educational and charitable purposes, and the largest appropriation for 1943 in the latter group was $60,595, under the classification "family service."

Kitchen Pointers

By Mary Meade

"Is there any way to remove the white film from my canning jars? I've washed them well, but the minute they dry they're milky looking and so unattractive."

The lime deposit that forms on jars and baby bottles which have been boiled in hard water is not harmful, but we agree that it's not pretty to see. Wiping the jars with a vinegar dampened cloth or rinsing in water and vinegar solution probably will shine up the dull bottles. [In the case of baby bottles, with daily formula making it is not practical to worry about this harmless deposit. When it comes to displaying a shelf of canned goods in unattractive jars, that's a different matter!]

"I have never made a macaroni salad and can't imagine how cold macaroni could possibly be made edible. What goes into such a salad?"

This reader has missed a treat! "Cold" macaroni in salad is a hot weather dish which is second cousin to potato salad—and more quickly prepared. The ingredients used in this tasty dish are those which go into potato salad—celery, onion or chives, sweet pickles, hard cooked eggs, pimiento, seasonings, and salad dressing or mayonnaise. Catsup or chili sauce are sometimes used with the dressing, olives are a good addition, celery seed does things for the mixture, too—in fact, it seems the more you add the better it tastes. Both macaroni and potato salad are more flavorful if prepared several hours ahead of serving time [or even the night before]. Things get a chance to make a better flavor exchange!

"I've burned the soup! Can ANYTHING be done?"

Tragic calls of this nature come our way frequently. To our knowledge there is nothing one can add to burned dishes to take away the scorched flavor. Oversalted soups and stews sometimes may be made edible by adding sliced raw potatoes to the mixture, cooking for a short time, and removing the potatoes before eating.

BY IRVING VAUGHAN.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Brooklyn, N. Y., June 2.—The Cubs finally put another losing streak behind them tonight, when, despite such annoyances as a wild and wooly exhibition by Claude Passeau and a bottle throwing act by the matchless Flatbush enthusiasts, they took the Dodgers apart under the electric lights. In a daffy evening, such as only Brooklyn can produce, the Cubs halted their reverses at six straight, 2 to 1, and had the added satisfaction of seeing Manager Leo [the Lion] Durocher tossed out of the party by Umpire Jocko Conlan.

Passeau, even tho he attained his first victory, for which he can thank Don Johnson and Phil Cavarretta, did a job that only his mother could admire. He yielded 11 hits, walked a half dozen and plunked one Dodger on the elbow and, if there is any doubt about the extent of his sufferings, let it be mentioned right here that 16 local athletes were left on bases. There should have been one more Dodger run and the fact that it didn't get home was what stirred up the constituents into bottle tossing.

Then Came the Riot.

The unpleasantness came up in the sixth when Bobby Bragan walked and Buddy Rosen, who batted for Ed Head, Dodgers' starting pitcher, was hit with two out. Frenchy Bordagaray slipped a single thru short to the left of Bill Schuster and Bragan set out for the plate. Rosen continued toward third, not knowing that Andy Pafko is pretty handy at throwing. Andy lined the ball to Roy Hughes to nail the runner as Bragan headed homeward leisurely. He arrived after the inning had ended and, when Umpire Conlan ruled out the run that would have put the Dodgers in front, 2 to 1, the fun started.

Durocher came up roaring, but he over-roared himself and Conlan, after being patient for several minutes, thumbed him toward the exit. Then the beer bottles came pouring down from the upper deck, none of them landing very close to the target. Charley Grimm raced out to the infield and implored Conlan to get out of range. Conlan wouldn't budge and the would-be assassins

Thorpe in Town, Asks for Junior Olympic Games

Star Milers to Race Today in Central Meet

BY WILFRID SMITH.

The mile run, which will open the 19th annual Central Collegiate track meet this afternoon at Great Lakes Naval Training center, quite possibly will be one of the outstanding contests despite the well balanced field of athletes registered in all events. The headliners in the mile are the Western conference champions from Michigan, Ross and Bob Hume, who ran a dead heat last Saturday at Champaign.

The race is scheduled to open the games at 2 o'clock and will be seen by 10,000 sailors. The Hume twins have a best mark this season of a fraction of a second over 4:16 and since they ran one of their famed dead heats in this, it is logical to assume that one of them can lower this figure. Since the Wolverine distance stars are limiting competition today to the mile, they should go all out.

Thompson Runs for Sailors.

Competition is expected to come from Frank Martin, Notre Dame's middle distance star, and Jerry Thompson representing Great Lakes. Thompson, a former University of Texas runner, won the National Collegiate two mile race last year in 9:29.9.

Preliminaries will start this morning at 10:30 and unless changes are ordered at the coaches' meeting, trials are scheduled in nine events. This will be the first meet on the Bluejackets' new track and was awarded Great Lakes since Marquette, perennial host, will entertain the National Collegiate competitors a week from today.

13 Schools Are Entered.

Con Jennings, Marquette's director of athletics who founded the Central Collegiate meet with Ralph Young of Michigan State and the late Knute Rockne of Notre Dame, will serve as chief inspector of field events today. Maj. John L. Griffith, commissioner of athletics for the Western conference, is the honorary referee.

Thirteen institutions, including six Western conference universities, have entered the meet. The Big Ten has contributed Michigan, Illinois, and Purdue, which finished in that order in the 44th annual conference meet last week, and Ohio State, Minnesota, and Northwestern. Since the Wolverines will be represented only by the Hume twins, the team title is conceded to Illinois, defending champion. Fifteen Illini are entered.

Point for National Meet.

Claude [Buddy] Young and Capt. Bob Kelley head the Illinois group. Between them these athletes won five individual Big Ten titles last week. Young took the broad jump and both sprints. He will confine himself to the 100 and 220 yard dashes today in final preparation for the national meet in Milwaukee.

Kelley will run the quarter mile and then defend his Central half mile title. He also will anchor the Illinois mile relay team. Kelley is prohibitive choice to win his races since last week he distanced all conference rivals while setting up his best marks in three years of intercollegiate competition. Like Young, Kelley is waiting for the national meet.

Marquette Stars Are Threats.

Luke Kauth of Marquette is a new rival for Kelley in the quarter mile. The Hilltoppers also will supply Buddy Young with competition in Charles Baudry, veteran sprinter. Marquette's Ken Weisner is outstanding in the high jump. Other entrants are Harvey Baerwald, pole vaulter; John Dick, discus thrower, and Bob Richardson and Hal Eigner, weightmen.

Nelson Klaus of Purdue is expected to win the shot put and discus throw, the titles he took last week in the Big Ten meet. Purdue is sending four of its stars, scorers in the conference, while the remainder of the squad competes with DePauw university today.

The Central meet is held for the benefit of the Great Lakes trainees and continues the sports policy heretofore confined to football, baseball, and basketball.

Lohrman Balks on Trade to Syracuse; Joins Reds

Boston, Mass., June 2 (AP).—The Cincinnati Reds today announced acquisition of Bill Lohrman, former New York and Brooklyn pitcher, who refused to report to Syracuse in the International league after being traded there by the Dodgers. The Reds sent Syracuse in return Chuchu Ramos, Venezuelan outfielder.

They are unbelievably stiff in athletics, so much so that they get hurt if they try to play American games calling for quick movements. For instance, the prisoners were much interested in one of our softball games and asked to try it. Believe it or not, so many of them were injured in their first trial they had to give it up. . . . HENRY SUFFERS FIRST SETBACK IN 11 BATTLES

10,387 Watch Gary Boxer Win.

BY FRANK MASTRO.

Willie Joyce, 1937 Chicagoland Golden Gloves featherweight champion, was given the decision in 10 rounds over Henry Armstrong in Chicago Stadium last night. Altho the majority of the fans rooted for Joyce, the underdog, to deal the former triple world title holder his first defeat in 11 starts, the verdict was not a popular one.

Many in the steaming arena thought Joyce had thrown away his chance to gain at least a draw when he back pedaled all thru the last round and let Armstrong bring the fight to him, just as Hank had done in the nine previous rounds. Nevertheless, the decision was unanimous.

The attendance was 10,387 and receipts were $35,552. The referee was Norman McGarity and the judges Arthur Oberg and Rube Metz. Armstrong weighed 140¼ and Joyce, 139.

Metz Gives Joyce Last Round.

McGarity voted 52-48, Metz 56-44, and Oberg 53-47. McGarity and Oberg each scored the last round for Armstrong, but Metz thought Joyce earned an edge in this session.

Armstrong started fast, chasing Joyce across the ring in the first round with a series of stabbing lefts to the face. Joyce showed speed in reverse but even so had difficulty eluding Henry's darting left. Joyce connected with a series of left jabs in the second when the pattern was the same as in the preceding round. Armstrong pressing forward and Willie retreating but firing as he went.

In the third Joyce became more confident but got the worst of an exchange. Hank mixed his jabs with left hooks and short overhand rights to the chin, the blows staggering Willie on two occasions.

Henry Rocks Joyce in Fourth.

A right to the chin rocked Joyce and he was glad to get into a clinch as the fourth round ended. Armstrong scored with several jolting left hooks to the jaw in the fifth. He got under most of Joyce's leads, but when Willie landed the crowd cheered. Altho Joyce gave a good account of himself in the sixth, Armstrong continued to hold the upper hand.

Joyce did a good job of counterpunching in the seventh but Armstrong kept walking toward his dancing foe. The eighth was Joyce's best round and he won it after an exciting struggle. He landed repeatedly to Armstrong's jaw from close range.

Joyce counted with numerous jabs to the face in the ninth and tenth. He still was on his bicycle, but gave as much as he received.

Woods Beats James.

Sgt. Lou Woods, Camp Grant 152 pounder, scored a technical knockout over Tommy James, 1942 Chicago Golden Gloves welterweight titleholder, in the fifth round of a scheduled 10 round semi-windup. Woods, remembering three knockdowns he suffered in a battle with James five months ago, bided his time, boxed craftily, and made every punch count.

Woods landed two hard blows in the first and in the third he scored with two rights to the chin after Tommy landed a left hook to the face. In the fourth Lou let go with a left to the head and James slid to the canvas, pulling Woods down with him for a two count.

Tommy Knows Best.

James suffered a bad cut over his right eye at the start of the fifth. He fell into a clinch and asked the referee to stop it. The time was 1:30.

Lou Angelucci, Chicago 165 pounder, stopped George Sapolich of Johnstown, Pa., in the fourth round of an engagement which followed the main event. Bishop Murphy, Chicago middleweight, won a decision over Johnny Lyons, Brooklyn welterweight, in a six round opener, and Robert Earl, a Golden Gloves alumnus, defeated Rudy [Torpedo] Reed, junior welterweight stablemate of Armstrong, in another six rounder.

PENSIVE 7-5 AT BELMONT TODAY

Seeks 3d Major Victory for Triple Crown.

New York, June 2 (AP).—Pensive gets his chance tomorrow to join that select group of six horses which have won the American turf's triple crown of the Kentucky Derby, Preakness and Belmont stakes.

With victories in the Derby and Preakness already safely tucked away, the stretch running chestnut from Warren Wright's Calumet farm is the favorite to whip seven other 3 year olds in the 76th Belmont stakes—mile and one-half counterpart of the English Derby—which is expected to draw more than 40,000 fans to the Long Island racing plant for another $3,500,000 betting day.

Platter Chief Contender.

If all eight of the overnight entries accept the issue the race will have a gross value of $76,390 with the winner receiving approximately $55,000. A victory for the Calumet colt would run his earnings for the year to some $195,000.

Only George D. Widener's Platter, of Pensive's Derby and Preakness victims, will be back for another shot at the son of Hyperion, 1933 English Derby winner. And from Platter is expected to come Pensive's most serious challenge. The Widener colt dropped a three-quarter length decision in the Preakness and since has been training well.

Platter also will have a capable running mate in Who Goes There, easy winner of the Withers mile. Trainer Bert Mulholland switched his riding plans today and decided to string along with Johnny Longden on Platter and put Eddie Arcaro on Who Goes There. Conn McCreary again will handle Pensive.

Pensive Is 7 to 5.

The pre-race odds make Pensive the favorite at 7 to 5 with the Widener combination quoted at 2 to 1.

The others are strictly outsiders. They are Crispin Oglebay's Boy Knight, Mrs. Donald H. Peters' Bull Dandy, Free Lance from Mrs. H. C. Phipps' Wheatley stable, William Ziegler Jr.'s Bounding Home and Kaytee from Royce G. Martin's Woodvale farm.

Fight Decisions

LAST NIGHT.

At Chicago Stadium—Willie Joyce beat Henry Armstrong [10]; Sgt. Lou Woods stopped Tommy James [5]; Robert Earl beat Rudy [Torpedo] Reed [6]; Bishop Murphy beat Johnny Lyons [6]; Lou Angelucci stopped George Sapolich [4].

At New York—Tippy Larkin stopped Fred Archer [8]; Joe Agosta stopped Larry Anzalone [7].

State Tourney

First Round.

Proviso, 11; Lane, 7.
Central Catholic [E. St. Louis], 3; Bloom, 0.
Marshall, 7; Peoria Central, 1.

Semi-Finals.

Proviso, 7; St. Bede's [Peru] 1.
Central Catholic [East St. Louis], 8; Marshall, 1.

Peoria, Ill., June 2 [Special]—Proviso Township High school of Maywood advanced to the finals of the state baseball tournament by defeating St. Bede's of Peru, 7 to 1, in the first of two semi-finals games played tonight.

Five runs scored in the first inning were sufficient for the victory, but the winners added two more, one in the fourth and the last in the sixth, to make the final count the second 7 to 1 score of the day's activities. The first inning attack was bunched around four hits, two walks and a triple steal. St. Bede was unable to approach the leaders after that spurt.

Marshall Is Defeated.

Central Catholic of East St. Louis qualified as Proviso's opponent in the final game tomorrow afternoon by defeating Marshall of Chicago, 8 to 1, in the second semi-final game.

Marshall, Chicago	000	100	0—1

Batteries—Pecchia, Schatzman, and Wolosin; Doyle and Marty.

Proviso, which entered the tournament by winning the Oak Park sectional, which last year produced Morton of Cicero as state champion, won its first round, quarter-final game earlier in the afternoon by defeating Lane Tech of Chicago, 11 to 7. In this contest the Maywood nine also jumped out to a first inning lead by scoring six runs thru four singles and three Lane errors.

By the time Lane staged a seven run rally in the sixth inning, Proviso had 11 runs. Bob Curran's triple for Lane with the bases loaded with two out drove pitcher Harry Smith to the showers, Eddie Gilbert then retiring the side.

No Hitter Spoiled.

Central Catholic of East St. Louis won the first quarter-final game of the lower bracket by turning back Bloom of Chicago Heights, 3 to 0, in a one hit game. Dick Hibbs of Bloom singled with two out in the final inning to spoil Dick Sullivan's chance for the no-hitter.

Marshall's Lou Prempas held Peoria Central to three singles, all in the first two innings, and drove in his team's first three runs to pace Marshall's 7 to 1 victory over Peoria in the final first round game. Prempas' telling blow was a triple with the bases loaded.

BY EDWARD BURNS.

There were many pleasant items developed in connection with the White Sox's 5 to 2 victory over the Washington Senators before 13,286 in Comiskey park last night. Here are some of them:

The Sox got out of the American league cellar. Thornton Lee, the good natured lefty who has been doing a minimum of grumbling about his failure to win any of his first six starts, went all the way for victory No. 1.

Square Season Series.

Thurman Tucker, American league batting leader, made three singles in his first three times up to lift his mark to .415.

It was the first night victory for the Sox in five lamp tries this season and gave them a three game winning streak.

The season series between the Sox and the Senators, perhaps the most interesting team in the league, was evened at two games each.

The Sox will face the Senators this afternoon only a half game out of sixth place, one and a half out of the first division, and five games out of the league lead.

This Was the Big One.

The story of the Sox's second inning is, for the most part, the story of the game. Eddie Carnett opened against Dutch Leonard with a line single to center and stopped at second on Grey Clarke's single to center. Mike Tresh failed in two attempts to sacrifice, then struck out, but Skeeter Webb busted a double off the left field wall, Carnett scoring and Clarke stopping at third. Lee singled to right, Clarke scoring and Webb stopping at third.

Wally Moses, whose dash on defense was inspiring thruout the entire match, did his offensive share with a single, scoring Webb. Le Roy Schalk filed to Robert Ortiz, but Tucker came thru with the second of his series of hits, scoring Lee. Moses got to third on Tucker's hit; Tucker reaching second on the throw, but the inning ended with Ralph Hodgin's fly to Jake Powell.

Senators Get Two.

The Senators halved the Sox lead in the sixth inning. The rapid George Case beat out a slow bouncer to Schalk and went on to second when Le Roy tossed past Carnett on a difficult try. George Myatt beat out a bunt to Clarke, Case stopping at third. Spence doubled along the left foul line, scoring Case

BY MAURICE SHEVLIN.

Traffic Court, winner of her four starts at Churchill Downs this spring, will go postward today a 2 to 1 favorite to capture the 13th running of the $5,000 Steger handicap, feature race of the Lincoln Fields program at Hawthorne.

The 6 year old daughter of Discovery-Traffic by Broomstick, which ran away with the Kentucky handicap at a mile and one-sixteenth and the Churchill Downs handicap at a mile, has been given top weight of 117 pounds in a field of eight, Chipamink a Threat.

Traffic Court is owned by Mrs. M. E. Miller of Louisville, Ky., and will find her chief contention in the six and one-half furlongs event in the Silver Stock farm's Chipamink, winner of his last start at Hawthorne, and the Brolite Farm's entry of Full Cry and Roman Sox.

Corona Corona, owned by C. U. Yeager; the Hilltop Stock farm's Bob's Dream, Happy Hour farm's Martian, and Glenn D. Wood's Cabin Creek round out the field. Miss Dogwood won last year's Steger with Daily Trouble second and Burnt Cork third.

Ben Endovina's Ruditaurus, a 4 year old son of Bulldog, romped in with yesterday's feature before a crowd of 9,021. The black colt ridden by George Seabo, finished four lengths ahead of the Hilltop Stock farm's Topnard, with Otto Grohs in the saddle. W. R. Sallee's Super Justice was third. Ruditaurus went to the front at the start and stayed there, tho Topnard showed gameness and beat the third horse by two lengths. Final Glory, the favorite, couldn't get up. The winner paid $12.40 for a $2 ticket.

The mutuel handle for the eight race card was $599,672.

Double Refund Needed.

A refund was necessary on the daily double when W. W. Crenshaw's Smoky Snyder was injured on his way to the post for the second race and was scratched. As a consequence the pool fell below the average but $108 was the reward for those who backed Long Ago in the first and Just Hiram in the second. Long Ago paid $11.80 and Just Hiram $15.80.

LARKIN STOPS FRED ARCHER IN EIGHTH ROUND

New York, N. Y., June 2 (AP).—Tippy Larkin of Garfield, N. J., scored a technical knockout in one minute and 24 seconds of the eighth round over Freddie Archer of Newark, N. J., tonight before a sparse crowd in Madison Square Garden. Archer weighed 146½, Larkin 141¼.

The fight was witnessed by only 7,924, who contributed to a gross gate of $19,834.

HARRISON BEATS TILDEN TO WIN PLAY-OFF BERTH

Harrison won a play-off berth in the City league baseball race by defeating Tilden, 6 to 2, yesterday in Douglas park. It gave Harrison a final central section record of 10 victories and four losses for second place. Lindblom retained first place by defeating Kelly, 7 to 4, in Byrne field.

Schurz upset Von Steuben, 3 to 1, in Kilbourne park, in the latter's final game. Von Steuben still has a chance for a play-off position if Lane Tech loses its final game against Schurz on Monday.

Passeau and Cubs Conquer Dodgers, 2-1

either had exhausted their bottle supply or were quieted by the sight of the cops who popped up from everywhere. Anyway, the disturbance ceased.

Cubs Start, Then Stop.

The Cubs started the second inning, when they scored their first run, as if they had their eyes on the jackpot. Dom Dallessandro got action by leading off with a two base shot against the right field wall and scored when Johnson duplicated the drive. The next three batters couldn't devise ways of getting Johnson home and Head continued to keep the Chicagoans in a more or less feeble state until he was removed in the sixth inning to make room for a pinch batter.

Head beat out a bounding single to short at the start of the fifth. Bordagaray furnished the usual sacrifice, and Augie Galan delivered his compliments to his former mates by doubling to left, tying the score. Passeau felt a bit better when Nicholson took Olmo's fly, but a fresh problem arose with the next batter. It was Dixie Walker, and Passeau solved it the easy way by issuing free passage. Claude escaped the jam on Howie Schultz's pop to Hughes.

After the wave of Dodgermania had passed over in the sixth, Bob Chipman took charge of the locals' hurling chores in the seventh and set down Schuster, the first man to face him, but was put on the spot quickly by a double dropped into right by Hughes. Then Cavarretta did his bit with a line single over short, Hughes scoring what proved to be the winning run.

Schurz Team Is Favorite in Relays Today

A total of 428 athletes, representing 21 City league high schools, will compete in the sixth annual Chicago city colleges relay carnival this afternoon in the Key Branch stadium at Central and Roosevelt rds. Schurz High school, represented by 38 runners, is expected to win the team championship, with the chief competition coming from Hyde Park, Crane, Du Sable, Austin, and Tilden.

The other schools represented will be Amundsen, Bowen, Englewood, Farragut, Harrison, Lake View, Lane Tech, Lindblom, Morgan Park, Phillips, Roosevelt, Senn, Steinmetz, Sullivan, and Von Steuben. Schurz has the most entrants with Farragut's single entry being the smallest.

While the possibility of new records is problematic, several competitors are capable of approaching the present standards. Ken Christofferson of Schurz, whose best pole vault is 11 feet 6 inches, must improve that effort by 6½ inches to tie the mark set three years ago.

IRISH WALLOP WOLVERINES ON 12 HITS, 10 TO 1

Notre Dame, Ind., June 2 [Special].—Notre Dame's baseball team walloped Michigan today in the first of a two game series, 10 to 1. The Irish smashed out 12 hits against two Michigan pitchers, while Bob Martin was holding the Wolverines to five hits, all of which came in three innings.

Bob Klein's double with the bases loaded sparked a five run third inning for the Irish. In the next inning they got two more on Frank Ciczcone's single with two on. Tom Carlin accounted for the remaining Irish runs with triples in the fifth and seventh innings.

and Myatt. Ortiz was called out on strikes and Gilberto Torres grounded out to Schalk, Case taking third. Powell walked, then he and Spence tried to execute a double steal. Spence was out at the plate, Tresh to Webb to Tresh.

The Sox made a run off Milo Candini in the eighth. Hodgin beat out a hit to Torres. Carnett flied out, but Clarke delivered his second single, putting Hodgin on third. Hodgin scored while Tresh was forcing Clarke.

Bill Dietrich will pitch for the Sox this afternoon and probably will be opposed by Early Wynn or Johnny Niggeling.

CRISLER SAYS HE HASN'T AGREED TO NIGHT GAME

Ann Arbor, Mich., June 2 (AP).—Athletic Director H. O. [Fritz] Crisler said today that Michigan had not agreed to play a night football game Sept. 23 against Marquette university at Milwaukee. He gave no indication whether approval would be forthcoming.

Conrad M. Jennings, Marquette athletic director, yesterday announced the first meeting of the schools since 1909 as a night game, adding that Michigan had consented to moving it under lights.

A year ago Northwestern announced its game with Michigan as a night contest. When Michigan demurred, the game was played in the afternoon.

'BIG 4' PACKERS CHARGED WITH OPA VIOLATIONS

Accused of Leaving Extra Fat on Pork.

The country's four major meat packers, Swift & Co., Armour & Co., Wilson & Co., and the Cudahy Packing company, were charged yesterday with violating office of price administration regulations in injunction suits filed in United States District court by Rae E. Walters, regional OPA administrator. The OPA asked for preliminary injunctions to prohibit the packers from selling pork cuts on which there is extra fat contrary to OPA regulations.

John Holmes.

The complaint said investigation, as well as statements taken from meat dealers and buyers, has shown many instances of fat excesses on pork cuts sold by these companies in the Chicago area. In some instances the fat amounted to 2½ inches or more, compared with ⅛ inch of fat on pork butts and loins as permitted by OPA, the affidavits said.

Holmes Denies Charge.

John Holmes, Swift & Co. president, denied the charge, saying that it involved the difference between "impractical interpretation and practical application of the regulation."

"Such an impractical interpretation will place a very serious burden on the meat packing industry which is now called upon to handle huge quantities of live stock," he said. "Strict application of this interpretation would involve a slowing down of operations in our industry and probably a serious curtailment in handling the large supplies of hogs coming to market.

"Immediately upon receiving the announcement that this regulation was being placed in effect, we issued specific instructions to all of our plants wherever pork processing is done. We have specified that this particular regulation, as well as all other OPA regulations, be followed rigidly. Extreme care is exercised at all times in the supervision of our operations in order to comply with all OPA regulations, despite the fact that many are highly technical and impractical from the standpoint of industry practice."

Report Trimming Difficult.

The companies affected all maintained that the removal and trimming of loins is a highly skillful operation and not one that can be gauged evenly.

George A. Eastwood, Armour president, said his company's pork cuts are acceptable to the army, which insists that pork cuts have a good covering of fat and rejects cuts defatted to the point where the lean meat shows thru.

All said they were working under difficulties, trying to handle the largest run of hogs in history along with a shortage of skilled workers.

E. A. Cudahy, president of Cudahy Packing, said his company has complied to the best of its ability with all OPA rules and regulations.

"The OPA suit should not have been filed and we shall contest it," he said. "The OPA contends a deliberate evasion of the regulation which the company denies. With our own adequate supervision as well as the inspecting forces of the government, any infringement of the regulation would be highly technical and not at all representative of the very excellent work being performed by our wage earning employes who are and have been working since the beginning of the war long hours and under pressure to get the work done."

"Enforcement Not Practical."

"This action regarding pork loins comes about thru an effort of the OPA to enforce a regulation in a literal rather than a practical manner," said the American Meat institute. "The amount of fat, which is by no means deposited evenly and uniformly over the loin, depends on the breed of the hog, food he has eaten, his age and how he has been raised.

"In view of these facts the depth of necessary, protective fat covering a cut after trimming cannot be determined with certainty without cutting each loin or butt involved, thus damaging it."

The Swift suit was assigned to Judge Barnes; Armour, to Judge Igoe; Cudahy, to Judge Shaw, and Wilson, to Judge La Buy.

VENEZUELA IRON PROSPECTS TOLD BY BETHLEHEM

Bethlehem, Pa., June 2 (AP).—Bethlehem Steel company today announced that a subsidiary, the Iron Mines company of Venezuela, has started development of 16 iron mine concessions in the Venezuelan jungle. The mines are expected to produce more than 2 million tons of high grade ore annually for use in Bethlehem's eastern United States mills.

Before shipment can begin, "a port site named Palua must be completed on the Orinoco river, near San Felix" and "construction now in progress at Palua is expected to be completed this year," the company said.

Federal Role in Industry Is Small: Jones

New York, June 2 (AP).—Secretary of Commerce Jones said tonight that government owned plants should present no serious challenge to private industry in the post-war period.

"It has been stated so frequently that government has financed more than 25 billion dollars in new construction since 1940, that the figure is now generally accepted as the one with which we must deal in putting our economic house in order insofar as industry is concerned," he said at a dinner of the New York Financial Writers' association.

Much for Army Construction.

"To begin with, probably 40 per cent of government construction has been for camps, air fields, and supply depots. We can also deduct 2½ billion dollars spent in enlargements and additions to our naval bases and establishment. We must also offset, in any consideration of the normal post-war economy, more than 5 billions which the government has invested in manufacturing facilities for explosives, ammunition, guns, and combat vehicles.

"Some of these facilities should be retained as standby. Others, after a cooling period, may be scrapped."

Jones said the government's investment in aircraft production facilities, synthetic rubber, and magnesium is in excess of 90 per cent of the total, in aluminum more than 50 per cent and in steel only about 10 per cent.

Urges Release to Industry.

"Many of the synthetic rubber facilities can be used in competition with natural rubber, but disposition and operation of the plants should be switched to private industry on some basis fair both to the government and to industry," he said.

Regarding government owned steel plants, Jones said they have been geographically well distributed, "and it should not be difficult to work out a reasonable adjustment with industry of this excess capacity."

HOUSE APPROVES ELK HILLS OIL CONTROL PLANS

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., June 2.—The house today approved by voice vote legislation directing the navy to tap its rich Elk Hills, Cal., oil field to meet Pacific campaign needs, and at the same time asserted the right of congress to control the field's development in both war and peace.

The bill, sponsored by Rep. Vinson [D., Ga.], chairman of the naval affairs committee, authorizes an increase in the Elk Hills output from the present 15,000 barrels a day to a maximum of 65,000 daily, with a proviso that the total withdrawn cannot exceed 30 million barrels in the 18 months starting June 1.

A companion measure, also adopted, lays down rigid restrictions for a proposed drilling contract the navy is to execute with the Standard Oil company [California] for exploiting the field. Standard holds an estimated 36 per cent of the field's proven reserves, compared with the navy's 64 per cent.

Standard will be limited in peacetime to oil withdrawals sufficient only to pay maintenance expenses and local taxes on the field.

WAGE INCENTIVE RAISES OUTPUT AT LOWER COST

Industrial production increases have been accomplished without building or equipment expansion, wages have increased, and unit costs lowered, a survey of 62 plants by the Chicago office of the war production board disclosed yesterday.

Paul A. Jenkins, WPB district manager, said a report from Frank B. Gray, regional management consultant, showed that in the plants, where wage incentive plans had been in effect for 90 days, there was an average increase of 38 per cent above past production, an average decrease in unit costs of 15 per cent, and an average increase in workers' earnings of 17 per cent.

"With man power a problem of a good many manufacturers, the introduction of wage incentive plans in these 62 plants on the basis of increased productivity has been the equivalent of placing 4,014 additional experienced workers in these factories," Jenkins said.

INT. PAPER CO. BIG INVESTOR IN CHICAGO TIMES

Thomason Holding Less than 9 Pct.

[This is the third of three articles on newspaper finances.]

BY THOMAS FURLONG.

The death of S. E. Thomason, president and publisher of the Chicago Times, resulted in a shift in executive personnel in the organization but did not affect materially the controling interest in the property.

Thomason's direct stock ownership constituted less than 9 per cent of the outstanding common shares. His listed holdings were 7,245 shares of a total issue of 92,853 shares. Thomason's control of the property depended on the support of a dozen or more stockholders whose holdings range from 1,000 to 8,000 shares. Among these were executives of the newspaper, including Richard J. Finnegan, holder of 4,832 shares, who succeeded Thomason as president and publisher.

International Paper Holdings.

The principal financial investment in the Times is that of the International Paper company which owns the entire $2,918,000 debentures issued by the publishing company. The debentures, which mature in 5½ years, are secured by a first mortgage on all property owned by the Times.

International Paper is also the registered owner of 5,989 shares of Times stock, 6.45 per cent of the total outstanding. A. R. Graustein, a former president of International Paper, owns 3,147 shares or slightly more than 3 per cent of the total. Other holders and their per cent of the total stock include: John Stewart Bryan, Richmond, Va., 7 per cent; James L. Houghteling, Washington, D. C., 5.89 per cent; Frank B. Noyes, Washington, D. C., 1.74 per cent; Miehle Printing Press and Manufacturing company, 2.15 per cent.

The Times paid the first dividend in its history in December, 1942, with a distribution of 25 cents a share on the common stock. Two additional payments of 25 cents each were made in 1943.

Purchases Chicago Journal.

The present company is an outgrowth of a company organized in 1928 to purchase the now defunct Chicago Journal. Publication of the present paper began in 1929.

From the date of organization in 1928 thru 1939, the business accumulated a deficit of nearly 2½ million dollars. Each year since 1940 a profit has been reported, the 1943 profit of $260,000 being the largest.

Earnings of the company have reached a level where the excess profits tax would apply were it not for tax credits available to the company from earlier years, it is indicated. The company has a relatively large "invested capital" base which gives it a larger exemption from excess profits tax than the alternative formula of average earnings for the 1936-'39 period. In that period the company's earnings were relatively small. An analysis of the company's financial reports indicates it is unlikely to incur an excess profits tax this year.

Tax Formula Provisions.

The invested capital formula permits a company to earn 8 per cent on its first 5 million of invested capital and 7 per cent on the next 5 million before the excess profits tax is applicable. In addition to capital stock and surplus, the company is entitled to include in invested capital 50 per cent of the money it owes and that part of its accumulated deficits that has been charged to paid in surplus. This latter credit, the company's statements indicate, is 2½ million dollars.

Under this formula the company has an invested capital base of about 5¼ million dollars and an indicated exemption from excess profits taxes of about $425,000.

Assets of the company are carried on its books at $4,813,000. Of this total intangibles make up $2,998,000. Physical assets, including plant and equipment, are carried at a net value of $622,000. Net working capital is $557,000.

Auto Leaders Observe Olds' 80th Birthday

BY PHILIP HAMPSON.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Lansing, Mich., June 2.—Leaders of the automobile industry dropped war work briefly today to pay tribute to R. E. Olds, one of the pioneers of the industry, who will observe his 80th birthday tomorrow. Olds, who built his first gasoline automobile in 1897, founded the Olds Motor Works, which is now the Oldsmobile division of General Motors corporation.

R. E. Olds.

Veterans recalled the pioneer days when Olds had to "exercise" — as they called testing then — his first car after midnight. Lansing city fathers would not permit it on the streets during the day because it frightened horses. Olds said that one of the reasons he built an auto was he "didn't like the smell of horses."

First in Export Trade.

Before building his gasoline auto, Olds tinkered with a steam car. He sold one about 1894 to a London patent medicine company which had it shipped to Bombay, India, the first American "horseless carriage" to move in export trade.

Olds recalled how he built a car that wouldn't start when women got in it because in climbing to the seat their skirts brushed against a gadget which caused a short circuit. Before the turn of the century he earned $50 a day exhibiting an automobile at state fairs.

Nash told how the automobile industry was able to grow because it was free to exercise initiative and enterprise—advantages denied our present business leaders under our new form of government controls. He said under the present system the nation will never have another such period of progress as it had in the last 80 years.

Hopes for a Change.

"We are not going to have the same incentives, the same right to earn and save, unless there is a change," he said. "And I hope that happens."

Alfred Reeves, for many years head of the Automobile Manufacturers association, said Olds introduced mass production of automobiles to the nation when out of 22,000 autos built his company produced 5,000.

After the meeting S. E. Skinner, vice president of General Motors and general manager of Oldsmobile, said the nation must have "some open and legitimate planning" to give people jobs when the war ends.

He suggested the adoption of what he termed "combined operations" in which civilian production would start as war production slackened. He said the closing of the Brewster airplane plant illustrated the need for this planning. He believes the production of automobiles can be resumed when war production drops 40 to 50 per cent, but that the industry must be ready to act when that time comes.

PERMIT TO BUILD PIPE LINE WEST REFUSED BY PAW

Washington, D. C., June 2 (AP).—The petroleum administration for war turned down today an application to build a new 20 inch oil pipe line from Texas to the west coast. It held that sufficient crude oil will not be available at the source and that west coast refinery capacity is too small to take care of the large quantity of oil the line would carry.

Secretary of Interior Ickes in his capacity as petroleum administrator denied the request in a letter to L. M. Glasco, secretary treasurer of Pacific War Emergency Pipe Lines, Inc. of Dallas, Tex., a company formed to build the line from the Permian basin of west Texas to Beaumont, Cal.

Ickes said the line could not be completed before the second quarter of 1945 and therefore would be of no use during the present period when tankers are not available for equivalent movements.

PRICES OF HOGS CLOSE STEADY; 9,000 HELD OVER

Despite the fact that farmers this week unloaded the smallest total of hogs in the Chicago Stock yards since last October, about 9,000 head were unsold at the close of yesterday's market. Buyers paid steady prices, but about 45 per cent of offerings failed to receive bids. The market average was $12.90 a hundred pounds.

The scant supply of steers met brisk demand at firm prices. The best available sold at $17, averaging 1,185 pounds, equaling the highest Friday sale since June last year.

ROCK ISLAND'S RADIO SYSTEM STARTS MONDAY

The Chicago, Rock Island, and Pacific railroad will begin formal operation of a radio station in Blue Island Monday. The station is the result of experiments to adapt radio to the control of train traffic and general railroad communications. It will be put into service at 10:15 a. m. at ceremonies in which J. D. Farrington, chief executive officer, will participate. This is reported to be the first radio station operated by a railroad.

TRACTION PLAN IS REJECTED BY BOND OWNERS

Seek Independence in Reorganizing.

BY WILLIAM SHINNICK.

Four statements filed by the receivers and bondholders protective committees of the Chicago Surface Lines yesterday were unanimous in rejecting a proposal of Judge Michael L. Igoe of the federal District court that they formulate a plan, having a first mortgage debt of only 45 million dollars, for unification with the elevated lines.

Instead, the representatives of the investors, who have been drawing 5 per cent interest regularly since 1907 on 72 millions of bonds, made an urgent plea that the court permit them to reorganize separately from the elevated system.

Contend Step Is Practical.

Such a reorganization, it was contended in the documents, would be easily accomplished in a manner that would meet the requirements of the Illinois commerce commission and would permit the spending of 30 millions [the cash is on hand] for improvements in surface lines equipment as soon as priorities are obtainable.

Judge Igoe, who had threatened to cut off the bond interest and throw the lines into bankruptcy—they have been in equity receivership since 1927 — said he would study the documents. He set another hearing for next Friday.

The answers were regarded by observers of Chicago traction developments as bringing the whole question into the light of reality. They reiterate the fundamental cleavage of opinion between the city of Chicago and the investors. The city has kept the lines in bondage to the court for 17 years by refusing to grant a franchise to any but a unified company and it has during this long period been unable to find a consolidation plan that would work.

Would Help Unification.

All attempts along this line have contemplated the use of the surface millions for the rehabilitation of both systems, the bankrupt L, which lost 20 million dollars in 20 years, and the surface lines, which have been steady earners altho their equipment is in the main obsolete. This has been regarded by the surface lines' people as unfair.

It is their contention that separate reorganization will promote rather than retard unification and that the new equipment will be available to the riding public much earlier than any other proposal promises. If their answer means that no other possibility of agreement exists, aside from a separate reorganization or the city's municipal ownership scheme, this is probably true. Something like two years might elapse before municipal ownership could become a reality, even if the voters would approve it and bankers lend the city money to buy both systems.

Position of Investors.

There was no inkling as to what course Judge Igoe will pursue. The withholding of interest on the first mortgage bonds would certainly inconvenience the holders, whose average holdings are about $4,000 each, and might make them more agreeable to the court's views.

The investors' present position is that their 72 millions is a good investment and they see no reason to take a secured issue of 45 millions at 4 per cent and junior securities for the rest of their equity. Their message to the court indicated full willingness, under a separate reorganization, to deal with either the city or the L for unification.

WHEAT AND RYE PRICES DECLINE ON ACTIVE SALES

Grain prices declined rapidly yesterday on the Chicago Board of Trade, wheat losing about 2 cents and rye 3 cents a bushel on selling attributed to liquidation by traders who bought at higher prices. At no time were prices as high as Thursday's finish and the close was near the bottom. Wheat ended 1⅜ to 1⅞ cents lower. Rye lost 2¼ to 3 cents and oats ½ to 1 cent. Barley closed unchanged to ½ cent lower.

Excellent prospects for winter wheat with expectations that a private estimate to be issued today would show a possible yield of about 700 million bushels, compared with 662 million estimated a month ago, and reports that distillers had not been formally ordered by the war food administration to use rye provided the background for the selling of futures.

1½ BILLION ROAD PROGRAM VOTED BY HOUSE GROUP

Washington, D. C., June 2 (AP).—The house roads committee today approved a bill by Chairman Robinson [D., Utah] to authorize expenditure of 1½ billion dollars for a vast post-war program of highway construction. The committee halved the allocation proposed in previous Robinson bills on which it conducted extended hearings.

Talon, Inc., Earns $85,927 in First Quarter of 1944

Issuing a statement of earnings for the first time in its history, Talon, Inc., yesterday reported 1944 first quarter net profit of $85,927, equal to seven cents a share, compared with a net loss of $78,577 a year ago.

Steel Men, Small Business Urge End of Union Security

Checkoff Assailed

Washington, D. C., June 2 (AP).—The steel industry argued today that maintenance of membership and the dues checkoff should be excluded from its union contracts. It contended that one had failed as a strike preventive and the other was being used for political purposes, and asked for automatic disciplinary provisions against strikers.

T. F. Patton, Republic Steel corporation counsel, presented the industry's views to a war labor board panel hearing the dispute raised by demands of the CIO United Steelworkers. It was the companies' first mention of the union maintenance and checkoff provisions since the hearings began about two months ago.

Urges Disciplinary Action.

Patton said some of the companies had accepted these provisions in 1942 and 1943 under WLB order, but never agreed to them.

"The panel may ask itself how strikes and work stoppages are to be effectively controled if, as the companies demand, maintenance of union membership and the checkoff are denied to the union," Patton said. "Maintenance of union membership and the checkoff have not resulted in preventing substantial interferences of this nature with production. The obvious answer is, however, automatic disciplinary action against individual employes, union officials, and the union itself for participation in strikes and work stoppages.

Funds for Politics.

"Dues paid to the national affiliated union amount to many millions of dollars. A substantial portion of these funds is to be poured into the funds of the political action committee which will use its political influence in the coming national elections.

"The result will be to place potential financial backing behind some political party, based on forced contributions, to a previously unheard of extent. This is contrary to the public interest and the fundamental institutions of a democracy."

Fight Closed Shop

The closed shop and maintenance of membership were assailed yesterday in a resolution adopted by the National Small Business Men's association at its annual meeting in the Palmer House.

The group urged the "earliest possible revision by congress of existing labor laws to the end that they shall be fair equally to employers, employes, and the general public."

"We reaffirm our support of the open shop principle, with full recognition of the right of workers to organize and to bargain collectively for the advancement of their own interests," the resolution said. "We insist that no man or woman in the military branches shall, upon return to civilian life, be forced to join a union to get a job.

Clause Held Unconstitutional.

"We oppose the insertion by the national war labor board of compulsory maintenance of membership clauses in contracts between employers and unions, which we believe to be an unconstitutional exercise of authority."

The resolution also supported the principle of incentive pay, and recognized the war time necessity for control of salary and wages, but asked that the rules and procedures of the WLB be simplified and expedited.

Monroe Shakespeare, president of the Shakespeare company, Kalamazoo, Mich., and a trustee of the association, told the delegates that business can free itself of government regulation and supervision and the heavy expense this entails by proving that it can regulate itself.

Less Excuse for Rule.

"There are vast areas of our economy covered by uniform prices, if not by actual price agreements," he said. "There are even manifold examples of division of territory between people who are supposed to be competitors."

Elimination of illegal price agreements would give the government less excuse for imposing regulations that burden business, he said.

Profit Selling Pushes Stock Prices Lower

New York, June 2 (AP).—Selected stocks, including specialties, amusements and motors, were strong today, but declines thruout the list exceeded gains by a substantial margin. Profit cashing stalled many of the leaders.

Earnings, dividends, and the favorable war news again served to attract idle investment funds—money in circulation this week rose to a record total of 22 billion 112 million dollars—but many customers lightened accounts for the week-end and others awaited some sort of a technical correction of the lengthy upswing to peak averages since 1939.

The Associated Press 60 stock average was off 0.1 at 53.2. Dealings dwindled to 819,300 shares compared with 1,193,020 Thursday.

BOND MARKET UNEVEN.

New York, June 2 (AP).—The bond market was largely irregular today altho at the close plus marks were in the majority. There were some wide movers along the rails which had to contend with profit cashing on the long climb to peaks for the year or longer.

Missouri Pacific loans, most of them up, were highlighted by the 5¾ point rise of the certified 5s of '65. Erie 4½s added 2¼ and International Great Northern adjusted 6s were up 1¼. Support also was accorded Canadian Pacific perpetual 4s, Rock Island convertibles, and St. Paul "C" 4½s of '89.

CHICAGO STOCKS DIP.

Declines outweighed advances yesterday on the Chicago Stock exchange after several days of rising prices. Among volume leaders, Central and South West Utilities and Middle West corporation closed down ½. New highs included Alfred Decker & Cohn, up 1½.

MISPLACED 1918 BOND.

In looking over some old letters I found a United States government 4¼ per cent bond due in 1918. The bond is made out in the name of my late husband. I was the only heir. Can I cash the bond? G. L.

Answer: You can cash the bond but it will be necessary to provide a death certificate and fill out a form obtainable from any federal reserve bank or branch. The form calls for information to establish your right to the bond, and data as to any claims against the owner's estate. The bank will send this information to Washington, D. C., for release of the bond's registration.

UNDIVIDED PROFITS.

I read the other day that a new national bank had been chartered with capital of $200,000, surplus $40,000, and undivided profits $35,000. How can a bank have undivided profits before it starts operating?

H. C.

Answer: When a new national bank is chartered it must meet certain statutory requirements with respect to the initial amount of capital and paid-in surplus, and is expected to keep this original investment unimpaired. In order to meet the expenses incurred before the bank has begun to earn a profit, stockholders are required to supply additional funds. It is common practice to call this additional capital investment undivided profits, altho the term obviously does not fit too well in this instance.

Springfield, Ill., June 2 (AP).—Illinois oil drilling permits in May totaled 215 compared with 138 a year ago.

PRICE CONTROL KEPT ALIVE BY GROUP IN HOUSE

Subsidies on Food Also Approved.

Washington, D. C., June 2 [Special].—Extension of war time price and rent controls for another year, with authority for the continuation of the present meat, milk, butter, and flour subsidy programs, but for the addition of no more, was voted unanimously today by the house banking and currency committee as it entered its own legisaltion into a race with the recently reported senate bill. The present extension of the price stabilization law will expire June 30.

Both measures are scheduled to go to the floors of their respective houses next week, with Democrats and Republicans alike planning to obtain final enactment far enough ahead of the deadline to permit further action, if necessary, in the event of a Presidential veto.

Two Bills Disagree.

In reporting out its measure, the house committee disagreed with the senate banking and currency group, which voted to extend the price and rent controls for 18 months from June 30 and to prohibit consumer subsidies after the first 12 months unless congress made specific appropriations to finnace them.

The house measure will go to the floor, possibly on Tuesday or Wednesday, without a cotton amendment such as the senate committee accepted and which the office of price administration contends would add 225 million to 350 million dollars to cotton textiles costs. A similar provision was considered by the house committee, but agreement was not reached and the matter was passed over.

It was promised, however, that something like the senate Bankhead amendment, which provides that the price ceiling for every item of cotton goods must be based on the highest cost of production prevailing in 90 per cent of the industry and assure a reasonable profit, will appear on the house floor.

Provides for Checkup.

The house committee, in planning for only a 12 month extension of the price and rent controls, provided also for a continuing checkup on their administration by the OPA. Its bill calls for the setting up of subcommittees of the banking and currency committees of both the house and the senate, assigned, during sessions or recesses, to study orders, regulations, and other functionings of the OPA and to recommend remedial or corrective legislation whenever acts or conditions appear to justify it.

Such investigations, said Rep. Spence, committee chairman, "are not only welcomed by Chester Bowles, OPA administrator, but were requested by him."

10 CENT INCREASE IN PARAMOUNT'S DIVIDEND VOTED

Directors of Paramount Pictures, Inc. declared a quarterly dividend of 50 cents a share on common stock yesterday, an increase of 10 cents a share above recent quarterly payments. Navarro Oil company increased its dividend on the common stock from 30 cents to 40 cents.

National Supply company declared a dividend of $1 a share on the $2 preferred stock. This represents a 50 cent quarterly payment and 50 cents on arrears, which will be reduced to $7 a share.

Iowa Southern Utilities company declared dividends on the preferred arrears certificates, $2.10 on the 7 per cent series, $1.95 on the 6½ per cent series, and $1.80 on the 6 per cent series. Previous payments were $1.75, $1.62½, and $1.50, respectively. McQuay Norris Manufacturing company declared an initial dividend of 25 cents on capital stock.

INDICT KEESHIN AS VIOLATOR OF I. C. C. ACT

Securities Over Legal Limit, Bill Says.

John L. Keeshin, president of the Keeshin Motor Express company, 221 W. Roosevelt rd., was accused of violating the interstate commerce act in an indictment returned by the federal grand jury yesterday before Judge John P. Barnes in federal District court.

Also named in the indictment were Joseph E. Donovan, vice president and treasurer, and the company itself. The indictment is in 23 counts, each listing an alleged misdemeanor, but the penalty provided for a conviction is one to three years in prison and a fine of $1,000 to $10,000 or both.

The indictment charged that the company issued securities in excess of the amounts permitted under the interstate commerce act without permission of the interstate commerce commission. Most of the counts in the indictment cited specific times when excess securities were alleged to have been issued.

Keeshin Ridicules Charge.

Michael J. Boyle, assistant United States attorney, who presented the case to the grand jury, said an interstate motor truck carrier may not issue more than $500,000 in long term securities payable after two or more years, or more than $100,000 in short term securities payable within two years, without permission of the commerce commission.

The indictment alleged the violations were committed between June 28, 1941, and Jan. 30, 1943. Bonds of $2,000, recommended by the grand jury, were fixed by Judge Barnes.

Keeshin, who with Donovan later surrendered and furnished bonds, declared that the charges were without basis and the result of some federal official's malice. He said that he was surprised at the action of the officials in asking for the indictment because he understood the matter had been settled by conferences in Washington.

Equipment Deal Told.

Keeshin, who has been in the motor transportation business for more than 30 years and is president of the Sportman's Park race track, gave the following explanation of the case:

"In 1941 and 1942 the company purchased about one million dollars' worth of motor equipment, nearly all of it on conditional sales contracts, from the International Harvester company and the Fruehauf company. Some small bank loans were made.

"It has been the custom in the motor transport business not to consider sales contracts as securities as defined by the commerce act. My attorneys held the same and acting on that advice we made no application to the commerce commission to make the purchases on time payments.

"All but 5 per cent of the contracts have been pair and that balance is not due until October.

Definition Called Issue.

"Some time after purchases were made a complaint was made in Washington with the commerce commission. Counsel for the company was told that it was a technical matter and that an application should be filed. This was done and we understood that action would end the dispute.

The Keeshin company is organized under the laws of Illinois and has outstanding stock listed on the books at $1,080,000, Boyle said.

FORT SHERIDAN HOSPITAL GETS NEW DIRECTOR

Maj. Perry V. Wagley has been appointed commanding officer of the Fort Sheridan hospital, succeeding Col. George C. Cook, who retired last week, Col. John T. Rhett, post commander, said yesterday.

Maj. Wagley, an native of Arkansas, was medical superintendent of the Michigan state hospital at Pontiac, Mich., before he returned to the army in 1941. He was psychiatrist for the 6th service command's rehabilitation center at Fort Sheridan until a few weeks ago. In World War I. he was adjutant to the chief surgeon of the 7th army corps, A. E. F.

Col. Cook, who had been post surgeon at Fort Sheridan since September, 1939, entered the army in 1907. He retired at the age of 64.

Ex-Broker Gets 5 Years for Embezzling $14,000

John E. Davies, 55, former Gary [Ind.] investment broker, pleaded guilty yesterday to charges of embezzling $14,000 from nine of his clients and was sentenced by Judge William J.
